HITLER HAS 1,000 PLANES IN MIDDLE EAST AREA; PARIS RADIO SAYS NAZIS 'CAPTURE' BIZERTE

Japs Admit Loss of Battleship, 10 Other Vessels

Japs Also Report Loss of 41 Planes

Axis Report of 'Another Bombshell Announcement' Is Such Only as Concerns Enemy

Claims Are Made

Japs Try to Offset Own Losses With Boasts of U. S. Damage

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—Japanese imperial headquarters announced today for the first time in this war the sinking of a Japanese battleship, confirming the U. S. Navy's claim of two days ago and underlining by sober statement the measure of the American victory in the latest battle of the Solomons.

The Japanese in the broadcast communique went further than they ever have before in admitting their own losses, even though an attempt was made to offset the casualties by claims of even greater losses inflicted upon the opposing forces.

They confirmed the U. S. navy's announcement of the sinking of a Japanese battleship and the damaging of another and listed also one Japanese cruiser and three destroyers sunk and seven transports damaged.

Against this total of 13 vessels sunk or damaged—compared with the U. S. navy's preliminary announcement that the total was 30 vessels sunk or damaged—the Japanese claimed the casualties inflicted by them totalled 13 or 14 vessels sunk and 11 or 12 damaged. Against the latter figure stands the U. S. navy's announcement of the loss of two light cruisers and six destroyers, with details of one night engagement yet to be reported.

The Japanese also announced the loss of 41 planes but claimed to have shot down or otherwise destroyed 74 or more rival aircraft.

Imperial headquarters issued its version of what was called the third Solomons' naval battle after the Tokyo radio, abetted by the German and Italian radios, had trumpeted in advance to the world that "another bombshell announcement" was forthcoming.

In comparison with previous Japanese versions of other naval engagements in the Pacific war, however, the bombshell element was lacking for anyone but the Axis since the real surprise was the Japanese admission to have lost a battleship.

No Names Given

No names were given but the U. S. navy earlier this week said the spearhead of the Japanese invasion force which attempted to batter its way to the shores of Guadalcanal was composed of two battleships of the Kongo class and presumably it was one of these two which was sunk.

Information is incomplete but Japan is believed to have had at least 10 battleships when she launched the war in the Pacific with perhaps five others under construction or newly completed.

The Kongo class is believed to have consisted at the outset of the war of four vessels, of 29,000 tons, the Kongo, the Hiei, the Kirisima and the Haruna. The army announced in the early days of the war that an army bomber flown by Captain Colin Kelly sank the Haruna but it was only two days ago that the U. S. navy made its first official claim to the sinking of a Japanese battleship.

All the Kongo class are old ships, being laid down in 1912 or 1913, but at least two are known to have been modernized.

The Japanese claimed that their forces sank 8 cruisers and 4 or 5 destroyers and heavily damaged two battleships, three cruisers and three or four destroyers in the battle from November 12 to November 14.

They also said they sank one transport and heavily damaged three transports.

This contrasts with the U. S. navy's announcement that the only U. S. naval vessels reported sunk in actions November 13, 14 and 15 were two light cruisers and 6 destroyers while details of an engagement during the night of Cairo, Nov. 18—From the Mediterranean sea down to the steaming equator, Africa's huge bulk is vibrating today with news of the great Allied victories along its broad northern shores.

There in the hinterland we find men from many Allied nations responding with feverish energy in an effort to back up their colleagues on the battlefield.

There are Yankee boys there from all parts of Uncle Sam's wide acres. And you have to experience the hardships of primitive Africa to understand what a glorious heritage we are defending in smiling America.

There are British and French soldiers and others of our Allies, all working in fine unison.

With them, laboring on the edge of jungles and across blazing deserts, is a countless multitude of willing natives. These happy-dispositioned folk know little about the issues involved in the war, but they do understand that an Axis victory means bondage.

President Fixes Registration Days For Teen Age Draft

Proclamation Says Action Is Necessary to Insure Victory; Crime Change Is Made

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt fixed three separate registration periods today for youths who have reached or will reach their 18th birthdays in the last half of this year.

By proclamation, he set the week beginning December 11 and ending December 17 for draft registration of those who became 18 in July and August.

Young men who reached that age in September and October will register in the following week and those who became 18 in November and December will register in the week starting December 26 and closing December 31.

Mr. Roosevelt also provided for continuous registration on their birthdays of youths who become 18 on or after next January 1. If the birthday falls on a Sunday or holiday, they must register the next day.

This will be the sixth draft registration. The last, on June 30th, covered young men who already were 18 or 19 and those who had become 20 since the preceding registration.

Mr. Roosevelt's proclamation said the new registration and the others which had been held were "advisable to insure victory, final and complete, over the enemies of the United States."

The new registration will take place simultaneously in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico, with daily registration hours fixed for 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., (local time).

Late registrations will be permitted for those unable to present themselves during the stated periods because of circumstances beyond their control.

Time Must Be Given

The Chief Executive asked that all employers give their workers sufficient time off to complete their registrations.

Selective Service headquarters revealed today that local boards had been instructed to reclassify all registrants heretofore deferred because of conviction of crimes.

No more deferments are to be made on this ground unless the registrants "are completely disqualified morally and are not eligible for a waiver under the new army standards," the boards were told.

The army has authorized waivers in "especially meritorious cases" even for men who have served terms for treason, murder, rape, kidnaping, arson and other "heinous crimes" if their conduct has been fitting for at least six months after their release from confinement.

The local boards were told to ask army waivers for these men and others with less serious records if they were otherwise available for military service, and to

General Alexander Says Only 15 Escape British

Anglo Commander Declares Rommel 'Is Groggy,' but Is Not Out; Last Stand Is Expected

By PAUL KERN LEE

Cairo, Nov. 18 (AP)—Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, commander of British forces in the middle east, said today that only 15 of 500 Axis tanks in Egypt escaped destruction or capture by the British Eighth Army, but he predicted that Field Marshal Rommel's shattered forces would make a stand near El Aghelia, Libya.

As Alexander spoke, the British Eighth Army was within 70 miles of Bengasi and pursuing Rommel on a wide front, the Cairo communique reported.

The British commander said Rommel had "strong prepared defensive positions"" in the El Agheila area and was "most likely to make a temporary stand" there.

"Of 500 Axis tanks estimated to have been in the battle area only 15 escaped," Gen. Alexander said.

He warned that there may be further heavy fighting in north Africa and said "the enemy is groggy, but not knocked out."

"The battle will not be ours until the enemy is lying senseless," he declared. "He is a good fighter and will keep up his rearguard action in an effort to hold us back as long as there is a possibility of his getting reinforcements by air and sea."

Alexander said the American Sherman tank is "grand and as good as any on the battlefield—our troops love it."

Referring to Rommel, although he did not use his name, Alexander said:

"He will hang on. He always does. He's a good fighter, that fellow. He's trying to hang on and reorganize.

"When he gets to Tripoli and

F.D.R. Says War At Turning Point

President Warns of Uphill Fight; No Time, He Says, but to Fight

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt sized up a fortnight's "good news" from the battle zones last night as indicating that the turning point of the war had been reached.

But he tempered his analysis, presented in a radio speech to the New York Herald Tribune's annual forum, with cautious phrases. He said it would continue to be an uphill fight—"all the way"—that there could be "no coasting to victory," and that it was no time for exultation.

"There is no time now," Mr. Roosevelt said, "for anything but fighting and working to win."

He described the encounter between Japanese and American warships November 13 to 15 as "one of the great battles of our history." At a press conference earlier he had said that the engagement, in which the navy listed enemy losses at 23 vessels against two of our light cruisers and half

Deferred Farmers Can't Leave Jobs Without Approval

Regulation Affects Married Men With Children as Well as Others; Takes Effect at Once

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey announced today that men deferred as essential farm workers must get approval of their draft boards if they wish to leave their jobs or else be classified as available for immediate military service.

This applies to married men with children as well as to all others, Hershey's aides said, and is effective immediately.

The regulation was revealed in an announcement of instructions sent by Hershey to local boards covering provisions of the new draft act which lowers the minimum age to 18.

The 18 and 19-year-olds who registered last June 30 are to be called for induction in the order of their birthdates so far as practicable, with the oldest being called first.

Regulations governing registration of those who have become 18 since June 30 or attain that age in the future are to be proclaimed by President Roosevelt.

Informed sources who declined use of their names said that these regulations probably would require registration of those already 18 either late next month or early in January, with those reaching 18 after that registering on their birthdates.

They said it probably would take 40 to 60 days to get the whole plan in operation.

In addition to ordering local boards to reclassify men who quit essential farm work without advance notice, the instructions forbade the boards to release any farm-deferred men "for voluntary enlistment in either land or naval forces."

Hershey's action also cleared the way for classification of farms themselves so as to distinguish "essential" from "non-essential" farms.

Asserting that farm workers would "not lose their deferment if they change from one 'necessary' farm job to another or from one 'necessary' farm to another of the same nature," his announcement added:

"But if the deferred farm worker seeks to move from his 'necessary' farm to a job in industry or on a non-necessary farm or elsewhere, he must first obtain the permission of his local board."

Two new classifications were set up for deferred farm workers. Those with dependent wives, children or other grounds for dependency will be put in class 3-C and those without dependency grounds in class 2-C.

Those engaged in a part-time basis on "war-essential farms and farm jobs" and those "seasonally or temporarily engaged" will not be eligible for deferment, Hershey said.

Hershey's instructions governing 18 and 19-year-olds defined more precisely which schoolboys in that age group may, by applying in writing, obtain postponement of

Sixteen States Are Affected by Cut In Gasoline Basic Ration on 'A' Cards

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP).—Uncle Sam is going to hold back more gasoline from the basic ration allowances in the east to help make certain that American war machines in Africa keep rolling.

Acknowledging that "this cut is going to hurt," but that "it is absolutely essential," the office of price administration announced last night that beginning November 22, an "A" coupon will be worth three gallons of gas instead of four as at present.

In addition, the O. P. A. foresaw possibility of a further cut in eastern fuel oil rations for home heating because of a shortage in transportation facilities.

The gasoline reduction will apply to 16 of the 17 states now rationed. The exception is West Virginia.

The order will not affect the rest of the nation where gasoline rationing begins December 1, nor will it alter the value of the "B" and "C" coupons.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson explained that the cut is aimed at "non-essential mileage" of the "A" coupon holders who have been allowed an average of 240 miles a month "whether they need it or not."

"In view of the growing acuteness of our supply shortage," he added, "we must now ask car owners to give up any miles that are free.

"Those who do so even at the cost of inconvenience or hardship

Anglo Force Drops Upon Key Points

British General Says Troops Have Made Good Start in Fight for Tunisia

Gap Narrows

Rommel's Escape Route Is Narrowed to 820 Miles

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

Adolf Hitler was reported massing a fleet of more than 1,000 planes in southern Italy, Crete, Sardinia and Sicily in an attempt to defend the last Axis bases in North Africa today as the Nazi-controlled Paris radio announced that German troops had "captured" Bizerte and Tunisia.

Use of the word "captured" appeared to refute previous Berlin assertions that the Germans moved in "to defend their French compatriots in Tunisia" and met only cooperation from French soldiers in the vital North African buffer state.

Tunisia lies between American-held Algeria on the west and Italian Tripolitania on the east.

Simultaneously, British parachute troops borne by huge American transport planes were reported swarming down on key points in the Mediterranean coastal colony, spearheading an advance by perhaps 150,000 Allied soldiers from Algeria.

American sky troops had already occupied an airport on the Tunisian frontier.

Military secrecy hid the extent of the Allied thrust into Tunisia, but a British broadcast quoted Lieut.-Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson, commander of the British 1st Army, as declaring himself satisfied with a "very good start" by his forces.

German broadcasts boasted that Axis troops were well established and ready to meet the Allied offensive.

"Following the occupation of Bizerte, the initiative now is in the hands of the Germans and Italians in Tunisia," a Nazi broadcast said.

Reports of intensified British submarine activities indicated that Hitler was desperately seeking to rush sea-borne reinforcements across the Mediterranean to the dark continent, as well as concentrating great numbers of planes for a showdown battle.

But the Axis claw that only a few months ago threatened to squeeze the entire Middle East was now steadily withdrawing its burnt fingers.

While Anglo-American troop columns drove eastward into Tunisia, British headquarters announced that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British 8th Army advanced 80 miles across the Libyan desert yesterday to reach a point only 70 miles from the Axis base at Bengasi on the Gulf of Sirte.

The new British sweep in pursuit of Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's tattered armies narrowed the Axis "escape gap" between Tunisia and Libya to about 820 miles.

Conflicting reports variously pictured the French in Tunisia as aiding both the Allies and the Axis, some responding to Hitler's appeal for help while others accepted Admiral Jean Darlan's invitation to fight on the side of the United Nations.

A broadcast from the radio in American-occupied Algiers said French patrols clashed repeatedly with German reconnaissance forces operating out of Bizerte, big Tunisian naval base, and drove the Nazis back in one skirmish.

By contrast, the German-controlled Paris radio asserted that French colonials fought against Allied contingents in South Tunisia.

The Allied southern column was reported advancing from western Algeria into Tunisia in an enveloping arc which would cut the road to Libya and thus divide the Axis forces.

A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from advanced Allied headquarters said Rommel was "making a desperate effort to organize Axis forces" in Tunisia, where approximately 10,000 airborne Nazi troops have set up defenses at Bizerte and Tunis, the capital, and seized key airports.

Parachutists Land 'Close'

Reuters said Allied parachutists had landed "close to an important town in Tunisia and were moving swiftly eastward."

Other dispatches said American

"Of 500 Axis tanks estimated to have been in the battle area only 15 escaped," Gen. Alexander said.

He warned that there may be further heavy fighting in north Africa and said "the enemy is groggy, but not knocked out."

"The battle will not be ours until the enemy is lying senseless," he declared. "He is a good fighter and will keep up his rearguard action in an effort to hold us back as long as there is a possibility of his getting reinforcements by air and sea."

Alexander said the American Sherman tank is "grand and as good as any on the battlefield—our troops love it."

Referring to Rommel, although he did not use his name, Alexander said:

"He will hang on. He always does. He's a good fighter, that fellow. He's trying to hang on and reorganize.

F.D.R. Says War At Turning Point

President Warns of Uphill Fight; No Time, He Says, but to Fight

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt sized up a fortnight's "good news" from the battle zones last night as indicating that the turning point of the war had been reached.

But he tempered his analysis, presented in a radio speech to the New York Herald Tribune's annual forum, with cautious phrases. He said it would continue to be an uphill fight—"all the way"—that there could be "no coasting to victory," and that it was no time for exultation.

"There is no time now," Mr. Roosevelt said, "for anything but fighting and working to win."

He described the encounter between Japanese and American warships November 13 to 15 as "one of the great battles of our history." At a press conference earlier he had said that the engagement, in which the navy listed enemy losses at 23 vessels against two of our light cruisers and half

Regulation Affects Married Men With Children as Well as Others; Takes Effect at Once

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey announced today that men deferred as essential farm workers must get approval of their draft boards if they wish to leave their jobs or else be classified as available for immediate military service.

This applies to married men with children as well as to all others, Hershey's aides said, and is effective immediately.

The regulation was revealed in an announcement of instructions sent by Hershey to local boards covering provisions of the new draft act which lowers the minimum age to 18.

The 18 and 19-year-olds who registered last June 30 are to be called for induction in the order of their birthdates so far as practicable, with the oldest being called first.

Regulations governing registration of those who have become 18 since June 30 or attain that age in the future are to be proclaimed by President Roosevelt.

Informed sources who declined use of their names said that these regulations probably would require registration of those already 18 either late next month or early in January, with those reaching 18 after that registering on their birthdates.

They said it probably would take 40 to 60 days to get the whole plan in operation.

In addition to ordering local boards to reclassify men who quit essential farm work without advance notice, the instructions forbade the boards to release any farm-deferred men "for voluntary enlistment in either land or naval forces."

Hershey's action also cleared the way for classification of farms themselves so as to distinguish "essential" from "non-essential" farms.

Asserting that farm workers would "not lose their deferment if they change from one 'necessary' farm job to another or from one 'necessary' farm to another of the same nature," his announcement added:

"But if the deferred farm worker seeks to move from his 'necessary' farm to a job in industry or on a non-necessary farm or elsewhere, he must first obtain the permission of his local board."

Two new classifications were set up for deferred farm workers. Those with dependent wives, children or other grounds for dependency will be put in class 3-C and those without dependency grounds in class 2-C.

Those engaged in a part-time basis on "war-essential farms and farm jobs" and those "seasonally or temporarily engaged" will not be eligible for deferment, Hershey said.

Hershey's instructions governing 18 and 19-year-olds defined more precisely which schoolboys in that age group may, by applying in writing, obtain postponement of

Sixteen States Are Affected by Cut In Gasoline Basic Ration on 'A' Cards

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—Uncle Sam is going to hold back more gasoline from the basic ration allowances in the east to help make certain that American war machines in Africa keep rolling.

Acknowledging that "this cut is going to hurt," but that "it is absolutely essential," the office of price administration announced last night that beginning November 22, an "A" coupon will be worth three gallons of gas instead of four as at present.

In addition, the O. P. A. foresaw possibility of a further cut in eastern fuel oil rations for home heating because of a shortage in transportation facilities.

The gasoline reduction will apply to 16 of the 17 states now rationed. The exception is West Virginia.

The order will not affect the rest of the nation where gasoline rationing begins December 1, nor will it alter the value of the "B" and "C" coupons.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson explained that the cut is aimed at "non-essential mileage" of the "A" coupon holders who have been allowed an average of 240 miles a month "whether they need it or not."

"In view of the growing acuteness of our supply shortage," he added, "we must now ask car owners to give up any miles that are free.

"Those who do so even at the cost of inconvenience or hardship

Anglo Force Drops Upon Key Points

British General Says Troops Have Made Good Start in Fight for Tunisia

Gap Narrows

Rommel's Escape Route Is Narrowed to 820 Miles

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

Adolf Hitler was reported massing a fleet of more than 1,000 planes in southern Italy, Crete, Sardinia and Sicily in an attempt to defend the last Axis bases in North Africa today as the Nazi-controlled Paris radio announced that German troops had "captured" Bizerte and Tunisia.

Use of the word "captured" appeared to refute previous Berlin assertions that the Germans moved in "to defend their French compatriots in Tunisia" and met only cooperation from French soldiers in the vital North African buffer state.

Tunisia lies between American-held Algeria on the west and Italian Tripolitania on the east.

Simultaneously, British parachute troops borne by huge American transport planes were reported swarming down on key points in the Mediterranean coastal colony, spearheading an advance by perhaps 150,000 Allied soldiers from Algeria.

American sky troops had already occupied an airport on the Tunisian frontier.

Military secrecy hid the extent of the Allied thrust into Tunisia, but a British broadcast quoted Lieut.-Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson, commander of the British 1st Army, as declaring himself satisfied with a "very good start" by his forces.

German broadcasts boasted that Axis troops were well established and ready to meet the Allied offensive.

"Following the occupation of Bizerte, the initiative now is in the hands of the Germans and Italians in Tunisia," a Nazi broadcast said.

Reports of intensified British submarine activities indicated that Hitler was desperately seeking to rush sea-borne reinforcements across the Mediterranean to the dark continent, as well as concentrating great numbers of planes for a showdown battle.

But the Axis claw that only a few months ago threatened to squeeze the entire Middle East was now steadily withdrawing its burnt fingers.

While Anglo-American troop columns drove eastward into Tunisia, British headquarters announced that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British 8th Army advanced 80 miles across the Libyan desert yesterday to reach a point only 70 miles from the Axis base at Bengasi on the Gulf of Sirte.

The new British sweep in pursuit of Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's tattered armies narrowed the Axis "escape gap" between Tunisia and Libya to about 820 miles.

Conflicting reports variously pictured the French in Tunisia as aiding both the Allies and the Axis, some responding to Hitler's appeal for help while others accepted Admiral Jean Darlan's invitation to fight on the side of the United Nations.

A broadcast from the radio in American-occupied Algiers said French patrols clashed repeatedly with German reconnaissance forces operating out of Bizerte, big Tunisian naval base, and drove the Nazis back in one skirmish.

By contrast, the German-controlled Paris radio asserted that French colonials fought against Allied contingents in South Tunisia.

The Allied southern column was reported advancing from western Algeria into Tunisia in an enveloping arc which would cut the road to Libya and thus divide the Axis forces.

A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from advanced Allied headquarters said Rommel was "making a desperate effort to organize Axis forces" in Tunisia, where approximately 10,000 airborne Nazi troops have set up defenses at Bizerte and Tunis, the capital, and seized key airports.

Parachutists Land "Close"

Reuters said Allied parachutists had landed "close to an important town in Tunisia and were moving swiftly eastward."

Other dispatches said Americans

Chief Air Warden Morrill Explains 'V' Home

When interviewed yesterday on the V-Home campaign, Chief Air Raid Warden Arthur L. Morrill said it is receiving the full co-operation from all, as it should.

"This means you have exhibited your home for victory" he said. "When you have an air raid warden certify your sticker and hang it in your window it tells the world we remember Pearl Harbor, and that we are keeping faith with the men in the armed forces who are fighting for us to prevent ravages to our homes.

"'V" stands for victory and a V-Home stands for our way of living and our freedom. Only with victory can we preserve the sanctity of our home and keep inviolate the peace and security we enjoy in it. While we enjoy the comfort of our home, let us preserve it as an American home."

Re-sizing a pile rug will pay for itself by making the rug much more durable and attractive.

You will find that our services are comforting because of the sympathetic handling of all details.

U. S. Offensive Is Growing in Pacific Despite Japanese

General MacArthur Has Taken New Guinea for Land Offensive in Greater Air Sphere

By WALTER B. CLAUSEN

Pearl Harbor, T.H., Nov. 18 (AP)—Japan, despite a mighty concentration of air and sea power in the South Pacific, has failed to shake plans for an American offensive.

The Japs appear to have lost the initiative in that sector, paying heavily in planes, ships and men.

General Douglas MacArthur has taken the field in New Guinea for a growing land offensive there. The great Solomons victory of November 13-15 demonstrates clearly allied command of the sky, sea and land in the Guadalcanal sector. All these things point to the shaping of plans to break into the greater Asia sphere of Japanese conquest and roll the enemy back.

The comment by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, relative to future action that "maybe it will be of our choosing, not their choosing," is regarded as highly significant.

Those in charge of operations point out there is a long hard fight ahead and there is no reason to assume that progress will be made by leaps and bounds. Guadalcanal merely is an outpost of Japan's area of conquest. Despite their losses, the Japs still possess strong naval power and tremendous resources of fighting men.

Admiral Nimitz commented "they are smart and do know how to conduct war and they are absolutely ruthless with their own people as well as ours."

Japanese loss of life has been heavy—5,000 in the battle of the Coral Sea; more than 10,000 at Midway; and perhaps between 20,000 and 40,000 in the crumpling of the Guadalcanal-bound invasion force; as well as more than 5,000 on Guadalcanal.

Hitler Has 1,000 Planes in East

parachute troops swept down on an airfield on the Tunisian frontier, landing in force in the space of 40 seconds. This was the same group which had helped in the capture of Oran.

Huge American transport planes, escorted by fighters, carried the parachute troops to their objectives deep into Tunisia without opposition, it was reported.

Meanwhile, a dispatch from Monrovia, Liberia, suggested that the strategic naval base at Dakar, French West Africa, might fall to the Allies through negotiations. It quoted a Vichy broadcast as reporting that a military mission from Dakar was on its way to Allied-occupied North Africa. Allied headquarters in London, however, had no confirmation of the report.

Strongly defended by French troops and warships, Dakar has long been regarded as a potential Axis threat to South America and even the United States.

Other European war developments:

Spain—Private advices reaching New York today indicated that Spain's move to mobilize land, sea and air reinforcements was a bona fide effort to avoid fighting, rather than any step toward military cooperation with the Axis.

With German troops camped on his northern doorstep and powerful American-British forces arrayed across the narrow Gibraltar Strait to the south, Generalissimo Francisco Franco authorized partial mobilization which may double or triple the present Spanish army of about 500,000.

Russian front—Red Army headquarters reported fresh Soviet gains in the Caucasus while the Germans sacrificed 1,250 lives to score a minor advance in the bloody northside factory district of Stalingrad.

The Nazi drive was stemmed, Soviet headquarters said, after a series of bitter night attacks.

In the central Caucasus, Russian troops were credited with carrying out lively offensive operations and driving the Germans out of fortified positions.

Far to the north, German forces were reported attacking repeatedly in an attempt to regain a village recently captured by the Russians in a thrust to relieve the siege pressure on Leningrad.

Soviet dispatches said six fierce Nazi assaults were broken up, but the enemy returned again and succeeded in breaking into the outskirts of the village.

The Soviet command quoted Nazi prisoners as saying the German armies were being bled so white that many companies (normally about 100 men) were reduced to only 10 of 15 effectives.

A verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $350 was returned. T. J. Plunket appeared for plaintiff and A. J. Cook and Cashin & Ewig for defendant.

This morning a negligence action brought by Martin Markonic against Joseph Pavero and another, was announced settled. A. H. Goldenkoff for plaintiff and Ireland & Cohen for defendant.

In No. 253, an action brought by Kerhonkson National Bank against Christian Olsen and others, a foreclosure action, Justice Bergan directed judgment for plaintiff and requested that order be submitted with amount due.

De la Vergne Says Canfield at Work

Union Office in City Has No Information About Capital Parley

Although, according to the Newburgh News, Business Agent Paul Osborne, said to be spokesman for the Dusing faction of the Hodcarriers' Union, had said Kenneth Canfield, president of Local 17, was in Washington Tuesday, according to a statement made by Fred Dusing to Attorney Charles de la Vergne of this city, this morning Canfield was not in Washington, but was at work on the New York water project.

Inquiry at the office of the union in the old Kingston Opera House building brought the information that they knew nothing about Canfield being in Washington, nor had they heard any rumor to that effect.

According to the story in the News Canfield was expected to seek a ruling from Moreschi on Sunday's election of officers, which was described by Osborne as "just a straw vote."

The Newburgh News story said further:

Osborne said that Canfield was delegated by the union's executive board to tell Moreschi that the board had postponed the election "to prevent a fraud that the election committee intended to perpetrate upon the membership." The executive board set the election for November 29 but the election committee held it as scheduled on Sunday.

The Dusing faction charges that the election committee failed to act on complaints that three members of the Nuzzo ticket were ineligible to hold office.

Plan Installation

Samuel Nuzzo, former leader of Local 17, who was indicted on October 21 by the special grand jury investigating the union's financial affairs, received 135 votes to 27 for his opponent, Frederick W. Dusing, in Sunday's election, with less than one-sixth of the membership participating. Dusing has held the office of business agent since Nuzzo was ousted last February.

Today Nuzzo's supporters are going ahead with plans for installing new officers at a regular union meeting on November 29. The entire Nuzzo ticket, including Wendell Tripp, also under indictment for allegedly stealing union funds, received large majorities in the one-sided election.

May Go to Court Again

Present indications are that the election row may end up either in the hands of the international or the civil courts. Henry Hirschberg, attorney for Nuzzo and Tripp, reiterated his belief that the executive board was powerless to cancel the election because of the fact that it had been ordered by a majority of the union. On the other hand, spokesmen for the Dusing faction said they are prepared to contest the legality of the election with every resource at their command.

Assistant Attorney General Edward G. O'Neill denied Mr. Hirschberg's charge that the Attorney General's probe office was interested in the union election. He said his investigators have remained impartial in the present dispute. Mr. Hirschberg said that the union's executive board was "acting as stooges for the Attorney General office."

Vassar Chain Is Made Of Stockings in '42 Model

By EDITH S. EVANS

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—The famous Vassar chain — 1942 model —has yellows and whites, and a touch of green in it—but it is made of old stockings, not daisies.

What else would you expect Vassar girls to do with 70 pounds of stockings—1,800 in number—piling up in their salvage depot on East 49th street?

The stockings had to be sorted anyway, and the nimble fingers of one of the Vassar alumnae just naturally started chaining the stockings together as she divided them into silks, nylons and mixtures preparatory to turning them over to Uncle Sam to be converted into gunpowder bags. Other workers in the depot caught the spirit and first thing you know they were comparing guesses as to how long the chain would finally be. As of today, the best guess for stockings collected so far was one mile long, a good 250 times as long as the usual Vassar daisy chain.

Youthful-looking Mrs. Stirling Tompkins, who was one of the 26 prettiest sophomores selected in 1915 to carry the daisy chain at Vassar, is superintending the sorting of the stockings, contributed by Vassar alumnae who come from all parts of the city by subway, bus, taxi and trolley.

Mrs. Tompkins is aided by Mrs. Ernest W. Flender, chairman of the New York Vassar Club War Work Committee, and a corps of other Vassar alumnae, some old, some uniformed, some smartly gowned.

"I wasn't lucky enough to be selected to carry the daisy chain when I was a sophomore—during the last war," Mrs. Flender said ruefully, as she pulled strands for her chain from the pile.

Mrs. Henry D. McDuff, (Charlotte Lewis, class of '39,) who was lucky enough to be selected in her sophomore year, sighed.

"That was in 1937. Everything seemed so peaceful then," she said, as she shook the lint from the skirt of her blue-grey A.W.V.S. uniform.

When the raids on London were at their worst in November, 1940, over 15,000 persons slept regularly in the subway stations.

Sixteen cases of infantile paralysis, including four deaths, were reported in Dublin in two weeks recently.

Potential Battle Seen in Congress On Tariff Question

Republicans Try to Block Roosevelt's Request for Power to Suspend Tariff Regulations

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt's request for broad wartime power to suspend tariff and immigration regulations developed today into a potential major battle for the dying days of the 77th Congress and the administration's first test of strength since the November 3 elections.

A determined Republican drive to block consideration of the measure this year gathered headway as the House ways and means committee called several top-ranking government officials to discuss the need for such legislation.

Among those asked to appear were War Production Chief Donald Nelson, Attorney General Francis Biddle, Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson, Assistant Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal, Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the War Shipping Administration , and Milo Perkins, chairman of the Board of Economic Warfare.

The bill, designed "to facilitate, to the extent required for the effective prosecution of the war, the free movement of persons, property and information into and out of the United States," was introduced by Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.) at the President's request.

Specifically, it would give the Chief Executive the authority to suspend "in whole or in part, * * * those laws or regulations" which in his opinion interfere with the war effort by imposing tariffs and taxes on imports and exports, and those regulating the entrance and departure of individuals.

But, even as the committee called its executive sessions, opponents raised a protest that the measure would go much further, that it constituted a step toward totalitarianism, that it would break down the tariff and immigration laws.

Spanish Mobilization May Mean Desire to Maintain Neutrality, Rather Than Fight

(By The Associated Press)

Spain's move to mobilize more of her potential 3,000,000 soldiers is generally accepted in informed European quarters as a bona fide effort to avoid fighting, rather than any step toward military cooperation with her Axis friends, it was indicated in reliable private advices reaching New York today.

With German military might sitting firmly on his northern doorstep and powerful Allied forces arrayed across the narrow Gibraltar Strait to the south, Generalissimo Francisco Franco has authorized reinforcement of his land, air and sea forces, it was disclosed yesterday (Tuesday) in Madrid.

Instead of using the more forthright—and possibly alarming—term "mobilization," the announcement said merely that heads of the three armed services were being allowed to call up the necessary men to reinforce their commands.

This cautious terminology was accepted as evidence of the care with which the Spanish generalissimo is treading to avoid making his hungry, revolution-scarred country a battleground again.

Advices from overseas gave this view of Franco's dilemma and his probable plans and motives:

Spain now has an army of about 500,000 and it may be doubled or tripled under the partial mobilization order and it is doubtful that El Caudillo will try to realize full military potential quickly.

The experience gained by Spaniards in their own fierce civil war adds much to their likely fighting effectiveness, but also adds an element of doubt as to how enthusiastically they would fight against one or the other of the present warring camps. It is generally agreed that a majority would be ready to fight against an invasion.

Even under the foreign ministry of Ramon Serrano Suner, his Axis-loving brother-in-law, Franco never could be brought fully into the Rome-Berlin fold and he declined to become a full partner after the fall of France so it is unlikely he would do so now with Allied fortunes mounting.

Rickenbacker Would Finish His Mission

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—Still needing at least two weeks more in a hospital to recover from long exposure at sea, Capt. Edward V. Rickenbacker is impatient to complete inspection of the southwest Pacific's aviation facilities.

The World War flying ace, the War Department said last night, already has expressed a desire to continue the mission which he was assigned by Secretary of War Stimson.

Forced down in the southwest Pacific Oct. 21, Rickenbacker was found on a raft with two companions three weeks later by Lieut. W. F. Eadie, U.S.N., and Aviation Radioman L. H. Boutte who landed their two-place kingfisher observation scouting plane on a sea of medium swells with the aid of flares.

The army said Col. Hans C. Adamson was taken from the raft and crowded into a cockpit while Rickenbacker and Priv. John F. Bartek were lashed to the wings. The plane then taxied 40 miles back to its base. Three other members of the crew were rescued from an island.

One of the latter, Sergt. James Jones Reynolds, and Bartek are still weak and ill from exhaustion but are showing satisfactory improvement, the army added.

Palenville Man Killed; Mistaken For Deer by Hunter

Coroner Atkinson Issues Verdict of Accidental Shooting; Thought Storey Was Deer

Matthew Storey, 36, wealthy Palenville road farmer and father of five children, was mistaken for a deer and fatally shot Tuesday afternoon while tracking a deer near that town. Three men had been tracking a buck which had been spotted earlier in the woods.

According to Coroner Mahlon H. Atkinson of Greene county, who issued a verdict of accidental shooting, saying the case was one of "careless shooting," the fatal shot was fired by Elmer Mower, 45, also of Palenville. Mower and Bert Fazekas also of Palenville, saw a buck cross the road earlier in the afternoon. They went into the woods to look for it and later Fazekas left the scene to drive a school bus. Storey took up the search in his place.

Coroner Atkinson said Mower saw the deer once and fired at it. Shortly after that he saw something move in the brush and thinking it was the deer, fired. It was Storey, who was fatally injured and died a few minutes later of a ruptured liver.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Cheap Wishes

Fort Benning, Ga. — The 124th Infantry set up a stone "wishing well' where soldiers may kneel and wish for anything from a furlough to a transfer to Africa—after they toss in a penny.

So far, 800 pennies have been taken from the well and used to buy goldfish for the place. Among the pennies were 35 slugs.

New Order in Court

Jackson, Tenn. — Court customs don't change rapidly—but the tire and gas situation has brought a change to the western division of the State Court of Appeals.

J. E. Springbett, court clerk, announced:

"Until further notice, the court will open at 9:30 o'clock in the morning as usual for the business in which the attorneys present are interested, and then will recess until the attorneys from Memphis and other points in west Tennessee can reach Jackson by the morning buses or trains."

Golden Opportunity

High Point, N. C. — O. Y. Kirkpatrick, U. S. N., is having a recruiting officer's dream. He will address representatives of 2,000 churches at the Baptist state convention, then interview prospective chaplains for service in the Navy.

Postman's Plague

No one knows who is doing the writing, but during a recent four-month stretch Sergeant Wehrum received 1,500 letters.

Concrete Evidence

Oklahoma City — Contractor W. E. Henderson finished a concrete walk from the curb to the door of a residence. Then he tore it up with a sledgehammer and started to lay another in the same path.

Sidewalk Inspector Sam Hamilton ruled the first job must be undone because Henderson's license had lapsed.

Double Feature

Spokane, Wash. — Francis Alexander, 23-year-old Canadian, may worry about his eyesight when he appears in Federal District Court at Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, on a charge of reentry into the United States as a deported alien.

Alexander appeared in eastern Washington District Court and Judge Lewis B. Schwellenbach ordered him transferred to the Idaho district for trial.

Temporary judge of the Idaho district is Lewis B. Schwellenbach.

Military Family

Salem, Ore. — "I guess I'll have to salute the whole family," complains J. McNeil, Navy quartermaster third class.

His wife is a civilian defense major; one son, James, is a sergeant pilot in the army, and another, Robert, has just been accepted as a naval aviation cadet.

One half-brother, Curtis T. Youngblood, is a Navy lieutenant commander and another, Edwin Youngblood, is an army sergeant.

Super Service

Seattle — The prisoner who petitioned for a transfer from the city jail to an outdoor camp wanted top speed in delivery.

So he put an airmail stamp on his letter to Acting Police Judge Roy De Grief. The letter arrived next day in De Grief's office—five floors below the jail.

Missing Sofa

Seattle — Mrs. J. M. Sisson has telephoned all the de-mothing establishments, but hasn't had any luck.

Six weeks ago her mother left on a trip, and Mrs. Sisson agreed to have her mother's sofa and chair de-mothed while she was gone.

Now mother is coming home. And Mrs. Sisson can't remember where she sent the chair and sofa.

Smelly Cigars?

Hollywood — Desmond Slattery is looking for his pet skunk, Alexander O'Schicklegruber. The "O" is short for obnoxious.

Slattery obtained him in Natal, Brazil.

"I asked for a box of cigars in what I thought was Portuguese," he explains, "and they brought out Alex."

Gets Leavings

Chicago — Edward Sieling's wory is how to conduct his business with only one typewriter—a 16 year old machine. Sieling, president of a coffee maker manufacturing plant, reported to police that burglars invaded his office and stole two typewriters—both modern styles—and left the old one.

Pass, Friend!

Chicago — To carry a package out of a war plant requires a pass. At a Chicago plant a worker requested a pass.

An official asked what the package contained, and was told it held hair tonic. "Oh yeah," he guffawed, "I'll just sample that hair tonic." He did. It was hair tonic.

Chief Air Warden Morrill Explains 'V' Home

When interviewed yesterday on the V-Home campaign, Chief Air Raid Warden Arthur L. Morrill said it is receiving the full co-operation from all, as it should.

"This means you have exhibited your home for victory" he said. "When you have an air raid warden certify your sticker and hang it in your window it tells the world we remember Pearl Harbor, and that we are keeping faith with the men in the armed forces who are fighting for us to prevent ravages to our homes.

"'V' stands for victory and a V-Home stands for our way of living and our freedom. Only with victory can we preserve the sanctity of our home and keep inviolate the peace and security we enjoy in it. While we enjoy the comfort of our home, let us preserve it as an American home."

Re-sizing a pile rug will pay for itself by making the rug much more durable and attractive.

You will find that our services are comforting because of the sympathetic handling of all details.

U. S. Offensive Is Growing in Pacific Despite Japanese

By WALTER B. CLAUSEN

Pearl Harbor, T.H., Nov. 18 (AP)—Japan, despite a mighty concentration of air and sea power in the South Pacific, has failed to shake plans for an American offensive.

The Japs appear to have lost the initiative in that sector, paying heavily in planes, ships and men.

General Douglas MacArthur has taken the field in New Guinea for a growing land offensive there. The great Solomons victory of November 13-15 demonstrates clearly allied command of the sky, sea and land in the Guadalcanal sector. All these things point to the shaping of plans to break into the greater Asia sphere of Japanese conquest and roll the enemy back.

The comment by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, relative to future action that "maybe it will be of our choosing, not their choosing," is regarded as highly significant.

Those in charge of operations point out there is a long hard fight ahead and there is no reason to assume that progress will be made by leaps and bounds. Guadalcanal merely is an outpost of Japan's area of conquest. Despite their losses, the Japs still possess strong naval power and tremendous resources of fighting men.

Admiral Nimitz commented "they are smart and do know how to conduct war and they are absolutely ruthless with their own people as well as ours."

Japanese loss of life has been heavy—5,000 in the battle of the Coral Sea; more than 10,000 at Midway; and perhaps between 20,000 and 40,000 in the crumpling of the Guadalcanal-bound invasion force; as well as more than 5,000 on Guadalcanal.

Hitler Has 1,000 Planes in East

parachute troops swept down on an airfield on the Tunisian frontier, landing in force in the space of 40 seconds. This was the same group which had helped in the capture of Oran.

Huge American transport planes, escorted by fighters, carried the parachute troops to their objectives deep into Tunisia without opposition, it was reported.

Meanwhile, a dispatch from Monrovia, Liberia, suggested that the strategic naval base at Dakar, French West Africa, might fall to the Allies through negotiations. It quoted a Vichy broadcast as reporting that a military mission from Dakar was on its way to Allied-occupied North Africa. Allied headquarters in London, however, had no confirmation of the report.

Strongly defended by French troops and warships, Dakar has long been regarded as a potential Axis threat to South America and even the United States.

Other European war developments:

Spain—Private advices reaching New York today indicated that Spain's move to mobilize land, sea and air reinforcements was a bona fide effort to avoid fighting, rather than any step toward military co-operation with the Axis.

With German troops camped on his northern doorstep and powerful American-British forces arrayed across the narrow Gibraltar Strait to the south, Generalissimo Francisco Franco authorized partial mobilization which may double or triple the present Spanish army of about 500,000.

Russian front—Red Army headquarters reported fresh Soviet gains in the Caucasus while the Germans sacrificed 1,250 lives to score a minor advance in the bloody northside factory district of Stalingrad.

The Nazi drive was stemmed, Soviet headquarters said, after a series of bitter night attacks.

In the central Caucasus, Russian troops were credited with carrying out lively offensive operations and driving the Germans out of fortified positions.

Far to the north, German forces were reported attacking repeatedly in an attempt to regain a village recently captured by the Russians in a thrust to relieve the siege pressure on Leningrad.

Soviet dispatches said six fierce Nazi assaults were broken up, but the enemy returned again and succeeded in breaking into the outskirts of the village.

The Soviet command quoted Nazi prisoners as saying the German armies were being bled so white that many companies (normally about 100 men) were reduced to only 10 of 15 effectives.

A verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $350 was returned. T. J. Plunkett appeared for plaintiff and A. J. Cook and Cashin & Ewig for defendant.

This morning a negligence action brought by Martin Markonic against Joseph Pavero and another, was announced settled. A. H. Goldenkoff for plaintiff and Ireland & Cohen for defendant.

In No. 253, an action brought by Kerhonkson National Bank against Christian Olsen and others, a foreclosure action, Justice Bergan directed judgment for plaintiff and requested that order be submitted with amount due.

De la Vergne Says Canfield at Work

Union Office in City Has No Information About Capital Parley

Although, according to the Newburgh News, Business Agent Paul Osborne, said to be spokesman for the Dusing faction of the Hodcarriers' Union, had said Kenneth Canfield, president of Local 17, was in Washington Tuesday, according to a statement made by Fred Dusing to Attorney Charles de la Vergne of this city, this morning, Canfield was not in Washington, but was at work on the New York water project.

Inquiry at the office of the union in the old Kingston Opera House building brought the information that they knew nothing about Canfield being in Washington, nor had they heard any rumor to that effect.

According to the story in the News Canfield was expected to seek a ruling from Moreschi on Sunday's election of officers, which was described by Osborne as "just a straw vote."

The Newburgh News story said further:

Osborne said that Canfield was delegated by the union's executive board to tell Moreschi that the board had postponed the election "to prevent a fraud that the election committee intended to perpetrate upon the membership." The executive board set the election for November 29 but the election committee held it as scheduled on Sunday.

The Dusing faction charges that the election committee failed to act on complaints that three members of the Nuzzo ticket were ineligible to hold office.

Plan Installation

Samuel Nuzzo, former leader of Local 17, who was indicted on October 21 by the special grand jury investigating the union's financial affairs, received 135 votes to 27 for his opponent, Frederick W. Dusing, in Sunday's election, with less than one-sixth of the membership participating. Dusing has held the office of business agent since Nuzzo was ousted last February.

Today Nuzzo's supporters are going ahead with plans for installing new officers at a regular union meeting on November 29. The entire Nuzzo ticket, including Wendell Tripp, also under indictment for allegedly stealing union funds, received large majorities in the one-sided election.

May Go to Court Again

Present indications are that the election row may end up either in the hands of the international or the civil courts. Henry Hirschberg, attorney for Nuzzo and Tripp, reiterated his belief that the executive board was powerless to cancel the election because of the fact that it had been ordered by a majority of the union. On the other hand, spokesmen for the Dusing faction said they are prepared to contest the legality of the election with every resource at their command.

Assistant Attorney General Edward G. O'Neill denied Mr. Hirschberg's charge that the Attorney General's probe office was interested in the union election. He said his investigators have remained impartial in the present dispute. Mr. Hirschberg said that the union's executive board was "acting as stooges for the Attorney General office."

Vassar Chain Is Made Of Stockings in '42 Model

By EDITH S. EVANS

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—The famous Vassar chain — 1942 model —has yellows and whites, and a touch of green in it—but it is made of old stockings, not daisies.

What else would you expect Vassar girls to do with 70 pounds of stockings—1,800 in number—piling up in their salvage depot on East 49th street?

The stockings had to be sorted anyway, and the nimble fingers of one of the Vassar alumnae just naturally started chaining the stockings together as she divided them into silks, nylons and mixtures preparatory to turning them over to Uncle Sam to be converted into gunpowder bags. Other workers in the depot caught the spirit and first thing you know they were comparing guesses as to how long the chain would finally be. As of today, the best guess for stockings collected so far was one mile long, a good 250 times as long as the usual Vassar daisy chain.

Youthful-looking Mrs. Stirling Tompkins, who was one of the 26 prettiest sophomores selected in 1915 to carry the daisy chain at Vassar, is superintending the sorting of the stockings, contributed by Vassar alumnae who come from all parts of the city by subway, bus, taxi and trolley.

Mrs. Tompkins is aided by Mrs. Ernest W. Flender, chairman of the New York Vassar Club War Work Committee, and a corps of other Vassar alumnae, some old, some uniformed, some smartly gowned.

"I wasn't lucky enough to be selected to carry the daisy chain when I was a sophomore—during the last war," Mrs. Flender said ruefully, as she pulled strands for her chain from the pile.

Mrs. Henry D. McDuff, (Charlotte Lewis, class of '39,) who was lucky enough to be selected in her sophomore year, sighed.

"That was in 1937. Everything seemed so peaceful then," she said, as she shook the lint from the skirt of her blue-grey A.W.V.S. uniform.

When the raids on London were at their worst in November, 1940, over 15,000 persons slept regularly in the subway stations.

Sixteen cases of infantile paralysis, including four deaths, were reported in Dublin in two weeks recently.

Potential Battle Seen in Congress On Tariff Question

Republicans Try to Block Roosevelt's Request for Power to Suspend Tariff Regulations

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt's request for broad wartime power to suspend tariff and immigration regulations developed today into a potential major battle for the dying days of the 77th Congress and the administration's first test of strength since the November 3 elections.

A determined Republican drive to block consideration of the measure this year gathered headway as the House ways and means committee called several top-ranking government officials to discuss the need for such legislation.

Among those asked to appear were War Production Chief Donald Nelson, Attorney General Francis Biddle, Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson, Assistant Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal, Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the War Shipping Administration, and Milo Perkins, chairman of the Board of Economic Warfare.

The bill, designed "to facilitate, to the extent required for the effective prosecution of the war, the free movement of persons, property and information into and out of the United States," was introduced by Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.) at the President's request.

Specifically, it would give the Chief Executive the authority to suspend "in whole or in part, * * * those laws or regulations" which in his opinion interfere with the war effort by imposing tariffs and taxes on imports and exports, and those regulating the entrance and departure of individuals.

But, even as the committee called its executive sessions, opponents raised a protest that the measure would go much further, that it constituted a step toward totalitarianism, that it would break down the tariff and immigration laws.

"The intent of the law is to include only the courses of study of the usual high school level work and not to include elementary or grammar school level work and university or college level work."

Spanish Mobilization May Mean Desire to Maintain Neutrality, Rather Than Fight

(By The Associated Press)

Spain's move to mobilize more of her potential 3,000,000 soldiers is generally accepted in informed European quarters as a bona fide effort to avoid fighting, rather than any step toward military co-operation with her Axis friends, it was indicated in reliable private advices reaching New York today.

With German military might sitting firmly on his northern doorstep and powerful Allied forces arrayed across the narrow Gibraltar Strait to the south, Generalissimo Francisco Franco has authorized reinforcement of his land, air and sea forces, it was disclosed yesterday (Tuesday) in Madrid.

Instead of using the more forthright—and possibly alarming—term "mobilization," the announcement said merely that heads of the three armed services were being allowed to call up the necessary men to reinforce their commands.

This cautious terminology was accepted as evidence of the care with which the Spanish generalissimo is treading to avoid making his hungry, revolution-scarred country a battleground again.

Advices from overseas gave this view of Franco's dilemma and his probable plans and motives:

Spain now has an army of about 500,000 and it may be doubled or tripled under the partial mobilization order and it is doubtful that El Caudillo will try to realize full military potential quickly.

The experience gained by Spaniards in their own fierce civil war adds much to their likely fighting effectiveness, but also adds an element of doubt as to how enthusiastically they would fight against one or the other of the present warring camps. It is generally agreed that a majority would be ready to fight against an invasion.

Even under the foreign ministry of Ramon Serrano Suner, his Axis-loving brother-in-law, Franco never could be brought fully into the Rome-Berlin fold and he declined to become a full partner after the fall of France so it is unlikely he would do so now with Allied fortunes mounting.

Rickenbacker Would Finish His Mission

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—Still needing at least two weeks more in a hospital to recover from long exposure at sea, Capt. Edward V. Rickenbacker is impatient to complete inspection of the southwest Pacific's aviation facilities.

The World War flying ace, the War Department said last night, already has expressed a desire to continue the mission which he was assigned by Secretary of War Stimson.

Forced down in the southwest Pacific Oct. 21, Rickenbacker was found on a raft with two companions three weeks later by Lieut. W. F. Eadie, U.S.N., and Aviation Radioman L. H. Boutte who landed their two-place kingfisher observation scouting plane on a sea of medium swells with the aid of flares.

The army said Col. Hans C. Adamson was taken from the raft and crowded into a cockpit while Rickenbacker and Priv. John F. Bartek were lashed to the wings. The plane then taxied 40 miles back to its base. Three other members of the crew were rescued from an island.

One of the latter, Sergt. James Jones Reynolds, and Bartek are still weak and ill from exhaustion but are showing satisfactory improvement, the army added.

Palenville Man Killed; Mistaken For Deer by Hunter

Coroner Atkinson Issues Verdict of Accidental Shooting; Thought Storey Was Deer

Matthew Storey, 36, wealthy Palenville road farmer and father of five children, was mistaken for a deer and fatally shot Tuesday afternoon while tracking a deer near that town. Three men had been tracking a buck which had been spotted earlier in the woods.

According to Coroner Mahlon H. Atkinson of Greene county, who issued a verdict of accidental shooting, saying the case was one of "careless shooting," the fatal shot was fired by Elmer Mower, 45, also of Palenville. Mower and Bert Fazekas also of Palenville, saw a buck cross the road earlier in the afternoon. They went into the woods to look for it and later Fazekas left the scene to drive a school bus. Storey took up the search in his place.

Coroner Atkinson said Mower saw the deer once and fired at it. Shortly after that he saw something move in the brush and thinking it was the deer, fired. It was Storey, who was fatally injured and died a few minutes later of a ruptured liver.

THIS KILLING BUSINESS

What should be the mental attitude of men at war, who have to kill other men to keep themselves and their people from being killed? On the battlefield, when enemies are trying to kill you, it seems instinctive to save yourself by killing them. Yet until men become dulled to slaughter, it must be hard to kill in cold blood, as is sometimes necessary. It goes against the civilized instinct of respect for human life. With most men, perhaps, only in great fear or anger does killing become easy.

Lieut. Gen. Leslie J. McNair, commander-in-chief of the army ground forces, recognizes the difficulty and frankly urges hatred. He tells the troops that, as soldiers defending their country, they must harden themselves until they have one object in life—to hate, fight and kill. "There need be no pangs of conscience," he says, "for our enemies have lighted the way to faster, surer and crueler killing. The sooner we get into the killing mood, the better. The struggle for survival is, kill or be killed."

But must men really "lust for battle" as he says? Must they all be so imbued with the love of slaughter that they will "scheme and plan night and day to kill?" Should they not rather do it as a necessary duty, killing fearlessly, but with a spirit superior to the deed?

Or to make the matter simpler, should they not kill human enemies in the spirit with which they kill wild animals that otherwise would kill them? You don't have to "hate" a tiger or lion, in order to kill it.

SPEARFISH PASSION PLAY

Even in this year of general crisis the world is not all strife and struggle. Many of the great things of life go on as usual. One of the finest of them is the famous Old World Passion Play, saved from the wreckage of Middle Europe and preserved as an annual community festival in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

Spearfish itself, in the midst of these beautiful hills, makes an admirable setting. The famous miracle play, now more than 700 years old, seems to be definitely established there, with some of the most famous players, including Josef Meier, whose family has now portrayed the Cristus for seven generations. There is an ample colony and a large amphitheatre. The drama is played there every summer, and in the autumn it tours the country, as it is doing now.

It is a grand show in the best sense of that much-abused word. It brings a thrill to audiences weary of world strife and eager, apparently, for sacred things. The children especially seem greatly moved by its story and the deep sincerity with which it is played. Here is an "escape" of measureless value in troublous days. And here is a fine example of "culture," in the best sense of the word, that has not yet been fully appreciated.

The best things of civilization, when banished from their native lands, naturally come to America. There may be many more things of high value, originating in the Old World, which should be welcomed and established here before they are lost foreevr.

WEATHER

The War Department is preparing to open an army air force weather training center soon at Grand Rapids, Mich. This news leads to meditation about weather in general. What caused weather, where it came from, where it went and what it would do next used to be deep mysteries. They are now no longer mysterious.

Much research preceded the air-mass discoveries of Vilhelm Bjerknes, the Norwegian. The foundation was laid by men of many nations. But when he worked out his principles of Air Mass Analysis, weather became understandable at last.

"Though in this particular case it seems almost childishly simple," says Wolfgang Langewiesche in the October Harper's Magazine, "it is Norway's greatest contribution to world culture since Ibsen." It's like that famous egg which Columbus so easily stood on end by tapping it on the base. When the weather student gets the idea he wonders why it ever seemed occult.

Nothing could be more useful, in war or daily life, than knowing how to figure out weather. There are only seven American airs, says Langewiesche: Polar Canadian, Polar Pacific, Polar Atlantic, Tropical Atlantic, Tropical Continental, Tropical Pacific and Tropical Gulf. The air men at Grand Rapids will learn what these do. The ordinary American might do well to learn about them, too, thus finding weather simpler but even more fascinating, and understanding easily why, in time of war, weathermen must be silent.

ROLAND'S HORN

For generations French children have been brought up on the story of Roland, the knight beyond compare whose sword Durandal made him the strongest of warriors. Another of his possessions was an ivory horn whose note could be heard for miles. King Charlemagne had given it to him on condition that he sound it only when in the direst need. Finally Roland and a few friends were surrounded by the Saracens in the mountain pass of Ronceval. Begged to blow his horn for help, he would not do so until too late; but after his death Charlemagne, having heard his final blast, came and destroyed the enemies of France.

Now, if ever, France needs a Roland and his horn to save her from her conquerors. The poet Elizabeth Wallace felt this when she wrote:

"O Roland, wind your horn again at Ronceval,
And mighty hosts will stir and answer to your call."

Maybe we should pity the Nazis. In all this world they have no friends, and those who may seem so are merely held by fear or promise of loot.

You might suppose, to look at the highways now, that American automobiles had been hit by an epidemic.

Seems as if that fellow Kaiser on the West Coast could squeeze an old tooth-paste tube, and out would come a ship.

MASTOID OPERATIONS

During the flu epidemic of 1918, there were a great many cases where the infection extended from the sinus to the ear and in some cases reached the mastoid process (the lare bony lump behind the ear). This often required the opening up of this huge bone by hammer and chisel in order to remove the pus and broken down bone cells. In order to allow this large space to drain properly, the wound was not closed but was allowed to heal gradually, by second intention as it is called. Allowing the wound to heal in this way takes a long time and removing the dressings is very painful, sometimes even requiring an anaesthetic. The average length of time required for healing is about four weeks.

As sulfonamide helped to clear up pus conditions in other parts, it was natural that it would be tried in mastoiditis, being first reported by Dr. G. S. Livingston in the Journal of the American Medical Association, in 1941.

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. Frank W. Shaver, Montreal, reports a series of 16 mastoid operations in which sulfathiazole crystals were implanted in the cavity from which the pus and broken down bone had been removed. The wound was closed instead of allowing it to remain open and drain. These operations were performed at the Montreal General Hospital and Montreal Children's Hospital during the first four months of 1942. In each case the small doses of sulfathiazole were given after operation.

What were the results by the use of sulfathiazole and the closing of the wound at operation?

"The pain and discomfort after operation were surprisingly slight in every case. The older patients were able to sit up in bed after 24 hours without assistance and were allowed up by the third or fourth day." The simple "dry" dressing on the wound gave no trouble and but few dressings were necessary before the wound was completely healed.

Of the 16 cases, 10 healed by first intention, 5 had slight skin separation only but the wound healed as rapidly as the other cases. One child pulled out stitches and healing took 21 days.

"When compared with previous methods with open drainage, the results are strikingly satisfactory."

Stamps IN THE NEWS

By the AP Feature Service

Great Britain is going in for additional wartime economies in the publication of its stamps. Some of the latest sheets have stamps along the margin, which means that stamps with only three sides perforated will be turning up in the mails. Collectors who dabble with watermarks will find the patterns varying a bit, for the same reason. Ordinarily, of course, margins on sheets of stamps are blank, although some are decorated with engravers' curlyques.

Speaking of watermarks, stamps now available from Toga, known also as Tonga and the Friendly Islands, have a different pattern. Instead of the turtle formerly used, the watermark now is the "C.A.," otherwise crown and apple, according to J. & H. Stolow, New York dealers. The newly watermarked set from this British protectorate in the South Pacific, midway between Fiji and Samoa, is rather ornate and interesting. It includes the illustrated ½d (half-penny) in green, bearing coat of arms; 1d red, with a widespread tree; 3d green and black, showing an old ruin; 6d red, showing coral formations, and 2d purple, 2½ blue and 1 shilling brown, all with portrait of Queen Salote in black. These are all previous issues.

First-day cover collectors have been receiving special cancellations commemorating the landing of Columbus at San Salvador, Bahama Islands, on October 12, 1492. In connection with the event, sets of overprinted Bahama stamps have been issued, in these values: Half-penny, 1 penny, 1½, 2, 2½, 3, 4, 6 and 8 penny; 1, 2, 3 and 5 shillings, and £1. The 14 values have a face value in U. S. currency of $7. Only a limited number were printed and all have been sold.

Two new Australian stamps have become available to American collectors. Both are in the value of 5½d, the small horizontal shown here being an overprint on a 5d. This stamp which shows a merino sheep against the barren Australian interior is in purple. The other stamp of about the same size but vertical is in dark blue and shows an emu, large ostrich-like bird.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

As I pause for a minute to look back over the years one of the finest amateur minstrel shows ever staged in Kingston that I recall was the famous Corporal Sellers benefit minstrels given by a number of well known local men from the stage of the old Kingston Opera House in 1902. The minstrels played for two nights to crowded houses.

Henry Powers was the interlocutor with William H. Richardson, James S. Barber, William G. Merritt and John J. Smith as the endmen, while those in the circle were Frank Wilmot, Oliver Carpenter, Jr., Elmer A. Burger, Charles Reynolds, Jr., Julius Burgevin, Arthur H. Lyons, Munroe Burger, Lawrence J. Clinton, Charles L. Preston, W. H. Reid, J. Hardenburgh Roosa, Dr. Ambrose L. Hill, Dr. George F. Chandler, William R. Anderson and Chris K. Loughran.

Mr. Richardson was one of the best amateur endmen to appear in Kingston minstrel shows. He sang that night the end song, "Lamb, Lamb, Lamb" and was forced to respond to an encore, singing "Coon, Coon, Coon."

Oliver Carpenter sang "I Would Give the World to See My Dear Old Home," while John J. Smith sang "At the Front."

William G. Merritt sang "No Cake Comes too High for Me," while J. Hardenburgh Roosa sang "Where the Sweet Magnolias Bloom."

Dr. Chandler sang "Asleep in the Deep" and during the intermission the orchestra of the steamer Mary Powell under the leadership of William Reynolds played appropriate musical selections.

The olio opened with James S. Barber, for years proof reader of The Freeman, in a German comedy monologue and he was followed by George Barnard on a slack wire act.

John Hogan and John Fox gave an exhibition of jig and clog dancing, while Charles Hunt gave an exhibition of rapid sketching, juggling and a slack wire turn.

Arthur Lyons sang an illustrated song, and the program closed with the one-act farce "Rival Lovers" with William B. Cusack, James S. Barber, John J. Smith, Henry Powers, William G. Merritt and Chris K. Loughran in the cast.

Many of the men who played in the ministrels that year are now dead, while many others are alive and still active in city affairs.

Welles Puts Aside Orthodox Conception of Armistice and Peace Conference to Come at Close of War

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 18—The orthodox conception of an armistice and then a long peace conference at the end of this war has been thrust aside by Sumner Welles, under secretary of state, and it seems plausible that he is speaking for President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull.

Mr. Welles argues for the making of agreements between the United Nations "before the armistice is signed." He has realistically stated the main reason why the last peace conference at Paris failed. For when President Wilson went abroad and the armistice had already been signed in 1918, the leverage of the United States to secure a peace treaty based on the 14 points which were embodied in that armistice agreement was gone.

Only when Allies need the military help of one another during the war itself can that leverage be maintained, for when the war is over the compulsion of military force has really vanished. Armies do not want to fight any more and the nations at the peace conference know that decisions cannot be readily enforced or that some of the things bargained for will not be permitted to grow to the point of an issue that would involve the use of force.

Because Mr. Welles is known to have given more thought perhaps to the detail of peace treaty plans than anyone else in the administration, his words carry an extra significance. He said in his speech:

"It seems to me that the first essential is the continuous and rapid perfecting of a relationship between the United Nations so that this military relationship may be further strengthened by the removal of all semblance of disunity or of suspicious rivalry, and by the clarification of the free world goals for which we are fighting, and so that the form of international organization determined to be best suited to achieve international security will have developed to such an extent that it can fully operate as soon as the present military partnership has achieved its purpose of complete victory.

"Another esential is the reaching of agreements between the United Nations before the armistice is signed upon those international adjustments, based upon the universal principles of the Atlantic charter, and pursuant to the pledges contained in our mutual-aid agreements with many of our Allies, which we believe to be desirable and necessary for the maintenance of a peaceful and prosperous world of the future."

Those two paragraphs probably were given minute consideration for many days before they were approved as administration policy, but they contain the key to the manner in which our government believes the approach to a peace treaty can be made. The discarding of the old idea of a peace conference with quarrels between Allies, when little can be done to enforce agreement even on matters previously pledged, is to be noted in the following description of the Paris conference given by Mr. Welles:

"Surely we should not again resort to the procedures adopted in 1919 for the settlement of the future of the world. We cannot afford to permit the basic issues by which the destiny of humanity will be determined, to be resolved without prior agreement, in hurried confusion, by a group of harassed statesmen, working against time, pressed from one side by the popular demand for immediate demobilization, and crowded on the other by the exigencies of domestic politics.

"If we are to attain our free world—the world of the four freedoms—to the extent practicable the essential principles of international political and economic relations in that new world must be agreed upon in advance and with the full support of each one of the United Nations, so that agreements to be reached will implement those principles.

The corollary of that proposal, however, is that in working out the agreements in advance there should be no secret treaties or agreements which are in any way likely to be repudiated by popular opinion after the war. Similarly, there is another question of a very practical nature that has to be solved and that's how the enemy countries are to be treated in the proposed framework of a united family of nations. If the peace is to be punitive, that fact alone would tend to prolong the war and incite enemy peoples to prefer their present dictators to the bondage that might come. If, on the other hand, the proposed economic partnership gives full weight to the necessity of preventing the sowing of the seeds of more war, then the pre-armistice agreements can be constructive, indeed.

Mr. Welles wisely declares that "what the United Nations" blueprint imperatively requires is to be drafted in the light of experience and of common sense, and in a spirit of justice, of democracy and of tolerance, by men who have their eyes on the stars, but their feet on the ground." That's a difficult goal to achieve but a pre-armistice agreement has a better chance to achieve it than a post-armistice wrangle between Allies.

Literary Guide

The customers always ask, when a writer's second novel appears, "Is it as good as the first?" They will ask that about Maritta Wolff's "Night Shift," and the answer should be a good loud "yes."

Miss Wolff will be 24 years old come Christmas. She was 22 when she produced "Whistle Stop," which was the kind of book Carson McCullers would write if she weren't concerned with being an "artist." "Whistle Stop" raised the hair of a good many heads. It struck the mind like a blow from Joe Louis. People wondered how it could be possible for a girl of such tender years to know so much about what is technically known as the seamy side of life. The new novel proves she knows much more than you would expect two years later. Such a lot—

"Night Shift" is about a family in a Michigan factory town. About Sally, who has three children and works cheerfully all day and half the night to support them. About her husband, who had an accident and went off the gold standard, mentally. About the O'Connors, he likeable, she a stupid fool, who lived across the hall, and Mrs. Sipes the senile drunk, upstairs, and Mrs. Gideon with her vague good-heartedness downstairs, and Sally's brother who was a coward, and Petey.

Petey was Sally's sister. She was big and handsome and bit great chinks out of life, later masticating them thoroughly. She arrived from Florida when Sally was on a spot, and she stayed until things were some better. She sang in a night club, she scattered her money and her love about, and disappeared with the utmost cheerfulness toward a distant end that might possibly resemble poor old Mrs. Sipes'. But the point was that Petey knew where she was going, and what the chances were.

The book has one grave fault. The first 215 of its 662 pages should have been thrown away, even though they are good reading. The scene could have been set just as well when Petey comes in, and the eye-strain would be 215 pages lighter. There is some careless writing, too. But there is a straining, inescapable power in the book; there is tension and a great flood of sympathy and a picture you will never forget. That is enough for one novel to give.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—It already is plain to be seen that the Republicans consider the late election as a mandate "to get the job done" as quickly and efficiently as possible; that they feel they have a ticket from the voters to crack down on many New Deal domestic policies; and that checking up on how the billions for war are spent will be one of their theme songs.

Senate Minority Leader McNary, Senator Vandenberg, House Minority Leader Martin, and several others, including a few anti-Administration Democrats, have said as much. This doesn't mean that there will be any hindrance to the war effort. The way Congress rushed back to clean up the 18-19 draft bill, without binding the War Department in its handling of the 'teen agers, was proof.

But Washington political observers are not going to lose sight of three things: (1)—The Republican party is more or less "on the spot." Its "minority" is so slight in the house (only 15 seats) that any coalition it might form with anti-Administration Democrats (the G.O.P. always courteously refers to them as "Jeffersonian Democrats") will put responsibility for house legislation squarely on Republican shoulders.

(2)—In information of the 78th Congress, the Republicans probably will demand and may get a larger representation on the committees. Congress is really an organization of committees. Although floor fights frequently occur on legislation, most laws are "made" in committee.

Except for the powerful rules committee, which has 10 Democrats and five Republicans the committee distribution is generally 60 per cent for the majority and 40 per cent for the minority.

Yet distribution of the house will be so nearly 50-50 that Republicans might threaten an awful rumpus on the floor (a threat the Democrats will fear a great deal from January on) if their representation isn't increased.

Also, it may be physically impossible with 223 Democrats, 208 Republicans, two Progressives, one Farmer Laborite and one American Labor party member to maintain the 60-40 ratio.

And (3)—Although the still-substantial Democratic majority in the Senate, which will be composed of 57 Democrats, 38 Republicans and one Progressive, will serve as a check-rein on a runaway coalition of anti-New Dealers in the house, the upper chamber also will be a little more cautious in going against the lower, and when the case arises a little stronger in backing it up.

At this date, it is too early to predict exactly what will happen in the reorganization of the new Congress in January. But if you are interested in the workings of democracy in general and the future of Congress in particular, keep an eye on whether the line in the House forms to the right, to the left or right down the middle.

Observatory Holds 10th Anniversary On Mt. Washington

Mt. Washington, N. H., Nov. 18 (AP)—In a wooden building bolted to solid rock atop this 6,290-foot peak, the staff of the highest weather station east of the Rockies today observed its 10th anniversary of recording nature's fury.

It was here that a southeast super-hurricane blast was clocked at 231 miles an hour on April 12, 1934. That, say the men of the Mt. Washington Observatory, was "the highest gust of wind ever recorded in free air."

And lest anybody wonder why the observatory doesn't blow away, it is housed in reputedly the strongest wooden building in the world. It is braced by eight by eight-inch railroad ties spaced 18 inches apart.

The famous New England hurricane of September 21, 1938, as felt at the observatory, was just a breeze—165 miles an hour—compared with the 23-mile-an-hour recording, which wasn't felt to a great extent at lower altitudes.

But the wind isn't all that helps the little staff of three men to keep cool. The temperature has dropped to as low as 46.5 degrees below zero and the highest ever recorded here was only 71.

Then there was a one-month snowfall of 82.8 inches in March, 1937, and 4.71 inches of rain on August 24, 1933. During one stretch there were 57 consecutive days of fog.

Woodstock Gives Annual Public Health Report

The report for the town of Woodstock public health nursing committee meeting was given at the annual county meeting, October 28, at the Stuyvesant Hotel. It was read as follows:

"The Woodstock Public Health Nursing Committee was organized just a year ago. Certainly last October we would not have believed that we could accomplish so much in so short a time, but then we did not know our nurse, Miss Cassidy, as well as we do now. We have learned that if you can take one step forward, you are already poised to take the next. From the beginning it was obvious that Woodstock wanted this health service and we have met with splendid response from individuals and from numerous organizations. Our transportation and Nurses Aid committees began by helping with two immunizations clinics; at the same time the Sewing Committee, with the help of the Red Cross, made three obstetrical bundles and two emergency baby kits.

"About this time the Woodstock Market Fair Committee came along and gave us a supply of cod liver oil. Of course, we had to have somewhere to keep all these things, so the next step was to find a place for a loan closet for sick room supplies. The Board of Trustees of the Woodstock School gave us permission to use the second floor of the primary school building and a member of the board had shelves built in for us. Then the telephone calls came in: "Can you use this? Can you use that?" We always could and at present we have fifty-three separate items available to anyone in the township. When the Red Cross and our committee sponsored three Home Nursing courses last winter in rooms donated to us by the Legion Auxiliary, it was the loan closet that supplied most of the equipment. In the event of a war emergency the supplies would, of course, be available to the Red Cross and to the War Council. At our request the Woodstock Library put out a special display of books on health, especially books on child health and nutrition. The Committee also cooperated with the Woodstock Centre of the National Youth Administration, helping to get speakers for their health program.

"All this time the newspapers were encouraging us with news stories and editorial comment and we decided that the time had come to take the next and most important step of all, the health conferences for infants and preschool age children. The Woodstock Town Board gave us the use of the Town Hall and October 13 we held our first conference with nine babies present. In the coming war year, with more strain and less of everything else, we may not be able to take as many steps forward but we must and will use all our resources to continue those activities we have begun."

Miss Isabel Doughty,
President
Woodstock Public Health Nursing Committee.

Golden Opportunity

High Point, N. C. — O. Y. Kirkpatrick, U. S. N., is having a recruiting officer's dream. He will address representatives of 2,000 churches at the Baptist state convention, then interview prospective chaplains for service in the Navy.

Postman's Plague

Moore Field, Tex. — "Boy, what a break for the post office," sighed Staff Sgt. Richard Owens, chief postal clerk. He had just heard Sgt. Casey Wehrum was getting a furlough.

No one knows who is doing the writing, but during a recent four-month stretch Sergeant Wehrum received 1,500 letters.

Concrete Evidence

Oklahoma City — Contractor W. E. Henderson finished a concrete walk from the curb to the door of a residence. Then he tore it up with a sledgehammer and started to lay another in the same path.

Sidewalk Inspector Sam Hamilton ruled the first job must be undone because Henderson's license had lapsed.

Double Feature

Spokane, Wash. — Francis Alexander, 23-year-old Canadian, may worry about his eyesight when he appears in Federal District Court at Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, on a charge of reentry into the United States as a deported alien.

Temporary judge of the Idaho district is Lewis B. Schwellenbach.

Military Family

Salem, Ore. — "I guess I'll have to salute the whole family," complains J. McNeil, Navy quartermaster third class.

His wife is a civilian defense major; one son, James, is a sergeant pilot in the army, and another, Robert, has just been accepted as a naval aviation cadet. One half-brother, Curtis T. Youngblood, is a Navy lieutenant commander and another, Edwin Youngblood, is an army sergeant.

Super Service

Seattle — The prisoner who petitioned for a transfer from the city jail to an outdoor camp wanted top speed in delivery.

So he put an airmail stamp on his letter to Acting Police Judge Roy De Grief. The letter arrived next day in De Grief's office—five floors below the jail.

Missing Sofa

Seattle — Mrs. J. M. Sisson has telephoned all the de-mothing establishments, but hasn't had any luck.

Six weeks ago her mother left on a trip, and Mrs. Sisson agreed to have her mother's sofa and chair de-mothed while she was gone.

Now mother is coming home. And Mrs. Sisson can't remember where she sent the chair and sofa.

Smelly Cigars?

Hollywood — Desmond Slattery is looking for his pet skunk, Alexander O'Schicklegruber. The "O" is short for obnoxious.

Slattery obtained him in Natal, Brazil.

"I asked for a box of cigars in what I thought was Portuguese," he explains, "and they brought out Alex."

Gets Leavings

Chicago — Edward Sieling's wory is how to conduct his business with only one typewriter—a 16-year old machine. Sieling, president of a coffee maker manufacturing plant, reported to police that burglars invaded his office and stole two typewriters—both modern styles—and left the old one.

Pass, Friend!

Chicago — To carry a package out of a war plant requires a pass. At a Chicago plant a worker requested a pass.

An official asked what the package contained, and was told it held hair tonic. "Oh yeah," he guffawed, "I'll just sample that hair tonic." He did. It was hair tonic.

WHAT CIGARETTE GIVES SMOKERS WHAT THEY WANT

They stick to their guns with a Milder Better-Tasting smoke

Ask any Chesterfield smoker why he smokes them and he'll probably say: "I just like them better . . . that's all." Of course, the reason he likes them better is their MILDER, BETTER TASTE.

For Chesterfields we buy only tobaccos that are MILDER and BETTER-TASTING to begin with and blend them in the right combination to bring out the finer qualities of each tobacco.

That's why Chesterfields give smokers what they want. That's why They Satisfy.

Chesterfield buyers look over the crop before auction time so they will know in advance where the finest mild, ripe leaf is coming from. This scene is from "TOBACCOLAND, U. S. A." (the only authentic picture story of the making of cigarettes). Get a FREE copy of this book from CHESTERFIELD, Box 21, New York, N. Y.

Keep Your Sweaters Snug, Says Home Bureau

Now that "the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodders' in the shock," or more properly, in the silo, we appreciate especially our warm woolen sweaters. And this year it is important to take care of them, remembering the old adage about the stitch in time. If they are worn and soiled, it is better to mend first and clean afterward so that weak spots and ravelled places will not go further. Long sleeved sweaters often go thin at the elbows and under the arms before we know it. They can be darned invisibly if there are matching threads to work with. If the cuffs are beginning to fray on the edge, loose blanket stitching, with the stitches set close together, will add many weeks of wear. The corners of pockets and the button holes should be reinforced if they need it. If buttons have pulled through the knitted material, they should be taken off and a strip of ribbon or tape sewed on the wrong side of the sweater to give a firm support on which they can be sewed.

If sweaters must be washed, it is important to do the job carefully so they will remain soft and will not shrink. Warm but not hot suds of mild soap should be squeezed through them gently many times to remove the dirt, then they should be rinsed carefully in water of the same temperature. The water should be squeezed out of them by rolling them between bath towels. Then they should be carefully adjusted on a drying frame. If you have no frame, your Home Bureau has the directions for making a simple and easily constructed one at home. Telephone to your Home Bureau Office, Kingston 3494, or write a postcard asking for these directions. The frame is inexpensive and easily constructed and will make it possible for you to keep your sweaters the right shape and size, no matter how many times they need to be washed. A sweater that has been carefully pulled and patted into shape on a frame will not need pressing.

It used to be said that "People are known by the company they keep." Today its fast becoming, "People are known by the entertainment they seek."

People who read books that are off color, enjoy pictures that are suggestive, and laugh at jokes that verge on the indecent, are no longer considered to be "sophisticated." Instead they are judged to be what their tastes show them to be.

To some extent at least they justify publishers, theatre managers, and comedians who excuse filth by saying, "We try to give our patrons the entertainment they want."

Rise in Tuberculosis In Industrial Cities

Although in Kingston and Ulster county there is, as yet, no evidence of threatened wartime rise in tuberculosis, an increase is occurring in a large number of overcrowded industrial cities, according to Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb, superintendent of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital and member of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Association.

In Ulster county the death rate from tuberculosis in 1941 was 30 per 100,000 population, while in 1940 the death rate was 41 per 100,000.

"Larger communities are not so fortunate," said Dr. Holcomb. The last study made by the National Tuberculosis Association in large cities covering 1939 and 1940 showed an increase in 19 cities."

Dr. Holcomb explained that the rise in industrial centers is, undoubtedly, due to long hours of work, lack of sufficient rest and relaxation, poor nutrition and overcrowded living conditions.

"All these factors," he said, "will tend to lower the body's resistance to the tuberculosis germ and the active disease may develop."

THIS KILLING BUSINESS

What should be the mental attitude of men at war, who have to kill other men to keep themselves and their people from being killed? On the battlefield, when enemies are trying to kill you, it seems instinctive to save yourself by killing them. Yet until men become dulled to slaughter, it must be hard to kill in cold blood, as is sometimes necessary. It goes against the civilized instinct of respect for human life. With most men, perhaps, only in great fear or anger does killing become easy.

Lieut. Gen. Leslie J. McNair, commander-in-chief of the army ground forces, recognizes the difficulty and frankly urges hatred. He tells the troops that, as soldiers defending their country, they must harden themselves until they have one object in life—to hate, fight and kill. "There need be no pangs of conscience," he says, "for our enemies have lighted the way to faster, surer and crueler killing. The sooner we get into the killing mood, the better. The struggle for survival is, kill or be killed."

But must men really "lust for battle" as he says? Must they all be so imbued with the love of slaughter that they will "scheme and plan night and day to kill?" Should they not rather do it as a necessary duty, killing fearlessly, but with a spirit superior to the deed?

Or to make the matter simpler, should they not kill human enemies in the spirit with which they kill wild animals that otherwise would kill them? You don't have to "hate" a tiger or lion, in order to kill it.

SPEARFISH PASSION PLAY

Even in this year of general crisis the world is not all strife and struggle. Many of the great things of life go on as usual. One of the finest of them is the famous Old World Passion Play, saved from the wreckage of Middle Europe and preserved as an annual community festival in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

Spearfish itself, in the midst of these beautiful hills, makes an admirable setting. The famous miracle play, now more than 700 years old, seems to be definitely established there, with some of the most famous players, including Josef Meier, whose family has now portrayed the Cristus for seven generations. There is an ample colony and a large amphitheatre. The drama is played there every summer, and in the autumn it tours the country, as it is doing now.

It is a grand show in the best sense of that much-abused word. It brings a thrill to audiences weary of world strife and eager, apparently, for sacred things. The children especially seem greatly moved by its story and the deep sincerity with which it is played. Here is an "escape" of measureless value in troublous days. And here is a fine example of "culture," in the best sense of the word, that has not yet been fully appreciated.

The best things of civilization, when banished from their native lands, naturally come to America. There may be many more things of high value, originating in the Old World, which should be welcomed and established here before they are lost foreevr.

WEATHER

The War Department is preparing to open an army air force weather training center soon at Grand Rapids, Mich. This news leads to meditation about weather in general. What caused weather, where it came from, where it went and what it would do next used to be deep mysteries. They are now no longer mysterious.

Much research preceded the air-mass discoveries of Vilhelm Bjerknes, the Norwegian. The foundation was laid by men of many nations. But when he worked out his principles of Air Mass Analysis, weather became understandable at last.

"Though in this particular case it seems almost childishly simple," says Wolfgang Langewiesche in the October Harper's Magazine, "it is Norway's greatest contribution to world culture since Ibsen." It's like that famous egg which Columbus so easily stood on end by tapping it on the base. When the weather student gets the idea he wonders why it ever seemed occult.

Nothing could be more useful, in war or daily life, than knowing how to figure out weather. There are only seven American airs, says Langewiesche: Polar Canadian, Polar Pacific, Polar Atlantic, Tropical Atlantic, Tropical Continental, Tropical Pacific and Tropical Gulf. The air men at Grand Rapids will learn what these do. The ordinary American might do well to learn about them, too, thus finding weather simpler but even more fascinating, and understanding easily why, in time of war, weathermen must be silent.

ROLAND'S HORN

For generations French children have been brought up on the story of Roland, the knight beyond compare whose sword Durandal made him the strongest of warriors. Another of his possessions was an ivory horn whose note could be heard for miles. King Charlemagne had given it to him on condition that he sound it only when in the direst need. Finally Roland and a few friends were surrounded by the Saracens in the mountain pass of Ronceval. Begged to blow his horn for help, he would not do so until too late; but after his death Charlemagne, having heard his final blast, came and destroyed the enemies of France.

Now, if ever, France needs a Roland and his horn to save her from her conquerors. The poet Elizabeth Wallace felt this when she wrote:

"O Roland, wind your horn again at Ronceval,
And mighty hosts will stir and answer to your call."

Maybe we should pity the Nazis. In all this world they have no friends, and those who may seem so are merely held by fear or promise of loot.

You might suppose, to look at the highways now, that American automobiles had been hit by an epidemic.

Seems as if that fellow Kaiser on the West Coast could squeeze an old tooth-paste tube, and out would come a ship.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

MASTOID OPERATIONS

During the flu epidemic of 1918, there were a great many cases where the infection extended from the sinus to the ear and in some cases reached the mastoid process (the lare bony lump behind the ear). This often required the opening up of this huge bone by hammer and chisel in order to remove the pus and broken down bone cells. In order to allow this large space to drain properly, the wound was not closed but was allowed to heal gradually, by second intention as it is called. Allowing the wound to heal in this way takes a long time and removing the dressings is very painful, sometimes even requiring an anaesthetic. The average length of time required for healing is about four weeks.

As sulfonamide helped to clear up pus conditions in other parts, it was natural that it would be tried in mastoiditis, being first reported by Dr. G. S. Livingston in the Journal of the American Medical Association, in 1941.

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. Frank W. Shaver, Montreal, reports a series of 16 mastoid operations in which sulfathiazole crystals were implanted in the cavity from which the pus and broken down bone had been removed. The wound was closed instead of allowing it to remain open and drain. These operations were performed at the Montreal General Hospital and Montreal Children's Hospital during the first four months of 1942. In each case the small doses of sulfathiazole were given after operation.

What were the results by the use of sulfathiazole and the closing of the wound at operation?

"The pain and discomfort after operation were surprisingly slight in every case. The older patients were able to sit up in bed after 24 hours without assistance and were allowed up by the third or fourth day." The simple "dry" dressing on the wound gave no trouble and but few dressings were necessary before the wound was completely healed.

Of the 16 cases, 10 healed by first intention. 5 had slight skin separation only but the wound healed as rapidly as the other cases. One child pulled out stitches and healing took 21 days.

"When compared with previous methods with open drainage, the results are strikingly satisfactory."

Stamps IN THE NEWS

By the AP Feature Service

Great Britain is going in for additional wartime economies in the publication of its stamps. Some of the latest sheets have stamps along the margin, which means that stamps with only three sides perforated will be turning up in the mails. Collectors who dabble with watermarks will find the patterns varying a bit, for the same reason. Ordinarily, of course, margins on sheets of stamps are blank, although some are decorated with engravers' curlyques.

Speaking of watermarks, stamps now available from Toga, known also as Tonga and the Friendly Islands, have a different pattern. Instead of the turtle formerly used, the watermark now is the "C.A.," otherwise crown and apple, according to J. & H. Stolow, New York dealers. The newly watermarked set from this British protectorate in the South Pacific, midway between Fiji and Samoa, is rather ornate and interesting. It includes the illustrated ½d (half-penny) in green, bearing coat of arms; 1d red, with a widespread tree; 3d green and black, showing an old ruin; 6d red, showing coral formations, and 2d purple, 2½ blue and 1 shilling brown, all with portrait of Queen Salote in black. These are all previous issues.

First-day cover collectors have been receiving special cancellations commemorating the landing of Columbus at San Salvador, Bahama Islands, on October 12, 1492. In connection with the event, sets of overprinted Bahama stamps have been issued, in these values: Half-penny, 1 penny, 1½, 2, 2½, 3, 4, 6 and 8 penny; 1, 2, 3 and 5 shillings, and £1. The 14 values have a face value in U. S. currency of $7. Only a limited number were printed and all have been sold.

Two new Australian stamps have become available to American collectors. Both are in the value of 5½d, the small horizontal shown here being an overprint on a 5d. This stamp which shows a merino sheep against the barren Australian interior is in purple. The other stamp of about the same size but vertical is in dark blue and shows an emu, large ostrich-like bird.

Australia is spending half its national income for war.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

As I pause for a minute to look back over the years one of the finest amateur minstrel shows ever staged in Kingston that I recall was the famous Corporal Sellers benefit minstrels given by a number of well known local men from the stage of the old Kingston Opera House in 1902. The minstrels played for two nights to crowded houses.

Henry Powers was the interlocutor with William H. Richardson, James S. Barber, William G. Merritt and John J. Smith as the endmen, while those in the circle were Frank Wilmot, Oliver Carpenter, Jr., Elmer A. Burger, Charles Reynolds, Jr., Julius Burgevin, Arthur H. Lyons, Munroe Burger, Lawrence J. Clinton, Charles L. Preston, W. H. Reid, J. Hardenburgh Roosa, Dr. Ambrose L. Hill, Dr. George F. Chandler, William R. Anderson and Chris K. Loughran.

Mr. Richardson was one of the best amateur endmen to appear in Kingston minstrel shows. He sang that night the end song, "Lamb, Lamb, Lamb" and was forced to respond to an encore, singing "Coon, Coon, Coon."

Oliver Carpenter sang "I Would Give the World to See My Dear Old Home," while John J. Smith sang "At the Front."

William G. Merritt sang "No Cake Comes too High for Me," while J. Hardenburgh Roosa sang "Where the Sweet Magnolias Bloom."

Dr. Chandler sang "Asleep in the Deep" and during the intermission the orchestra of the steamer Mary Powell under the leadership of William Reynolds played appropriate musical selections.

The olio opened with James S. Barber, for years proof reader of The Freeman, in a German comedy monologue and he was followed by George Barnard on a slack wire act.

John Hogan and John Fox gave an exhibition of jig and clog dancing, while Charles Hunt gave an exhibition of rapid sketching, juggling and a slack wire turn.

Arthur Lyons sang an illustrated song, and the program closed with the one-act farce "Rival Lovers" with William B. Cusack, James S. Barber, John J. Smith, Henry Powers, William G. Merritt and Chris K. Loughran in the cast.

Many of the men who played in the ministrels that year are now dead, while many others are alive and still active in city affairs.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 18—The orthodox conception of an armistice and then a long peace conference at the end of this war has been thrust aside by Sumner Welles, under secretary of state, and it seems plausible that he is speaking for President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull.

Mr. Welles argues for the making of agreements between the United Nations "before the armistice is signed." He has realistically stated the main reason why the last peace conference at Paris failed. For when President Wilson went abroad and the armistice had already been signed in 1918, the leverage of the United States to secure a peace treaty based on the 14 points which were embodied in that armistice agreement was gone.

Only when Allies need the military help of one another during the war itself can that leverage be maintained, for when the war is over the compulsion of military force has really vanished. Armies do not want to fight any more and the nations at the peace conference know that decisions cannot be readily enforced or that some of the things bargained for will not be permitted to grow to the point of an issue that would involve the use of force.

Because Mr. Welles is known to have given more thought perhaps to the detail of peace treaty plans than anyone else in the administration, his words carry an extra significance. He said in his speech:

"It seems to me that the first essential is the continuous and rapid perfecting of a relationship between the United Nations so that this military relationship may be further strengthened by the removal of all semblance of disunity or of suspicious rivalry, and by the clarification of the free world goals for which we are fighting, and so that the form of international organization determined to be best suited to achieve international security will have developed to such an extent that it can fully operate as soon as the present military partnership has achieved its purpose of complete victory.

"Another esential is the reaching of agreements between the United Nations before the armistice is signed upon those international adjustments, based upon the universal principles of the Atlantic charter, and pursuant to the pledges contained in our mutual-aid agreements with many of our Allies, which we believe to be desirable and necessary for the maintenance of a peaceful and prosperous world of the future."

Those two paragraphs probably were given minute consideration for many days before they were approved as administration policy, but they contain the key to the manner in which our government believes the approach to a peace treaty can be made. The discarding of the old idea of a peace conference with quarrels between Allies, when little can be done to enforce agreement even on matters previously pledged, is to be noted in the following description of the Paris conference given by Mr. Welles:

"Surely we should not again resort to the procedures adopted in 1919 for the settlement of the future of the world. We cannot afford to permit the basic issues by which the destiny of humanity will be determined, to be resolved without prior agreement, in hurried confusion, by a group of harassed statesmen, working against time, pressed from one side by the popular demand for immediate demobilization, and crowded on the other by the exigencies of domestic politics.

"If we are to attain our free world—the world of the four freedoms—to the extent practicable the essential principles of international political and economic relations in that new world must be agreed upon in advance and with the full support of each one of the United Nations, so that agreements to be reached will implement those principles.

The corollary of that proposal, however, is that in working out the agreements in advance there should be no secret treaties or agreements which are in any way likely to be repudiated by popular opinion after the war. Similarly, there is another question of a very practical nature that has to be solved and that's how the enemy countries are to be treated in the proposed framework of a united family of nations. If the peace is to be punitive, that fact alone would tend to prolong the war and incite enemy peoples to prefer their present dictators to the bondage that might come. If, on the other hand, the proposed economic partnership gives full weight to the necessity of preventing the sowing of the seeds of more war, then the pre-armistice agreements can be constructive, indeed.

Mr. Welles wisely declares that "what the United Nations" blueprint imperatively requires is to be drafted in the light of experience and of common sense, and in a spirit of justice, of democracy and of tolerance, by men who have their eyes on the stars, but their feet on the ground." That's a difficult goal to achieve but a pre-armistice agreement has a better chance to achieve it than a post-armistice wrangle between Allies.

Literary Guide

By JOHN SELBY

The customers always ask, when a writer's second novel appears, "Is it as good as the first?" They will ask that about Maritta Wolff's "Night Shift," and the answer should be a good loud "yes."

Miss Wolff will be 24 years old come Christmas. She was 22 when she produced "Whistle Stop," which was the kind of book Carson McCullers would write if she weren't concerned with being an "artist." "Whistle Stop" raised the hair of a good many heads. It struck the mind like a blow from Joe Louis. People wondered how it could be possible for a girl of such tender years to know so much about what is technically known as the seamy side of life. The new novel proves she knows much more than you would expect two years later. Such a lot—

"Night Shift" is about a family in a Michigan factory town. About Sally, who has three children and works cheerfully all day and half the night to support them. About her husband, who had an accident and went off the gold standard, mentally. About the O'Connors, he likeable, she a stupid fool, who lived across the hall, and Mrs. Sipes the senile drunk, upstairs, and Mrs. Gideon with her vague good-heartedness downstairs, and Sally's brother who was a coward, and Petey.

Petey was Sally's sister. She was big and handsome and bit great chinks out of life, later masticating them thoroughly. She arrived from Florida when Sally was on a spot, and she stayed until things were some better. She sang in a night club, she scattered her money and her love about, and disappeared with the utmost cheerfulness toward a distant end that might possibly resemble poor old Mrs. Sipes'. But the point was that Petey knew where she was going, and what the chances were.

The book has one grave fault. The first 215 of its 662 pages should have been thrown away, even though they are good reading. The scene could have been set just as well when Petey comes in, and the eye-strain would be 215 pages lighter. There is some careless writing, too. But there is a straining, inescapable power in the book; there is tension and a great flood of sympathy and a picture you will never forget. That is enough for one novel to give.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—It already is plain to be seen that the Republicans consider the late election as a mandate "to get the job done" as quickly and efficiently as possible; that they feel they have a ticket from the voters to crack down on many New Deal domestic policies; and that checking up on how the billions for war are spent will be one of their theme songs.

Senate Minority Leader McNary, Senator Vandenberg, House Minority Leader Martin, and several others, including a few anti-Administration Democrats, have said as much. This doesn't mean that there will be any hindrance to the war effort. The way Congress rushed back to clean up the 18-19 draft bill, without binding the War Department in its handling of the 'teen agers, was proof.

But Washington political observers are not going to lose sight of three things: (1)—The Republican party is more or less "on the spot." Its "minority" is so slight in the house (only 15 seats) that any coalition it might form with anti-Administration Democrats (the G.O.P. always courteously refers to them as "Jeffersonian Democrats") will put responsibility for house legislation squarely on Republican shoulders.

(2)—In information of the 78th Congress, the Republicans probably will demand and may get a larger representation on the committees. Congress is really an organization of committees. Although floor fights frequently occur on legislation, most laws are "made" in committee.

Except for the powerful rules committee, which has 10 Democrats and five Republicans the committee distribution is generally 60 per cent for the majority and 40 per cent for the minority.

Yet distribution of the house will be so nearly 50-50 that Republicans might threaten an awful rumpus on the floor (a threat the Democrats will fear a great deal from January on) if their representation isn't increased.

Also, it may be physically impossible with 223 Democrats, 208 Republicans, two Progressives, one Farmer Laborite and one American Labor party member to maintain the 60-40 ratio.

And (3)—Although the still-substantial Democratic majority in the Senate, which will be composed of 57 Democrats, 38 Republicans and one Progressive, will serve as a check-rein on a runaway coalition of anti-New Dealers in the house, the upper chamber also will be a little more cautious in going against the lower, and when the case arises a little stronger in backing it up.

At this date, it is too early to predict exactly what will happen in the reorganization of the new Congress in January. But if you are interested in the workings of democracy in general and the future of Congress in particular, keep an eye on whether the line in the House leans to the right, to the left or right down the middle.

Members of the Lowell Club met with Mrs. James J. Murphy, Jr., of Pearl street yesterday afternoon. The paper was presented by Mrs. Augustus H. Van Buren on a biographical sketch of Dr. S. Wier Mitchell and his novel, "Hugh Wynne."

She explained that Dr. Mitchell was a specialist for nervous disorders and has written a number of treatises on medicine and chemistry. The writing of novels is a pastime and a hobby.

"Hugh Wynne" is the story of a Quaker during the American Revolution and his belief in the cause. One of the interesting sections of the story is the attempt he made to win a reprieve of Major Andre whom he believed was a victim of circumstance.

The club will meet next week at the home of Miss Anna Quimby, 135 Wilson avenue.

W.C.T.U. Holds Executive Session

(Official Report)

At the home of Mrs. Shultis, 277 Clinton avenue, on Monday, November 16, an executive session of the Woman's Christian Union was held, County President Carpenter conducting the business periods.

Resolutions and recommendations adopted at the state convention in Ithaca, October 21-22, were accepted as a working basis for the year.

County Treasurer Swift had had the privilege of being present at this convention. She gave an informal report of the speeches given and actions taken there. Particular attention was given to the address of George Barton Cutten retired president of Colgate University, copies of which may be obtained from W. C. T. U. headquarters, New York. His subject was "Balance Sheet for Alcohol." From State Treasurer Estelle, Mrs. Swift had brought the five checks awarded to the Ulster county unions for reaching certain efficiency standards. New Paltz, Kingston, Highland, Milton and Ulster Park unions each have five dollars to add to their treasury because each was successful in reaching certain state—appointed goals. To the department labeled "Exhibits," there came a prize, given to Ulster county for exhibits at the county fair and photographs taken there. Mrs. Whiston, county director of that department, was not present on account of illness, but the prize book "Sixty-Years in Action" will be sent to her.

Box lunches were brought by the women who came, but they were opened at the table in Mrs. Shultis' dining room. Coffee and tea and a pleasing dessert were added to lunches by a gracious hostess and the noon hour became a festive occasion. Around that table seven out of the nine local unions were represented by presidents, directors or officers. And not a happening there would cause any minister to take for his Sunday morning topic "I Drink to Your Death," as did the Rev. Henry G. Budd of Ithaca in the convention church on the Sabbath the New York State Woman's Christian Union was calling his church their own.

County President Carpenter has completed ten years of service, and in recognition and appreciation of her service, she was presented with the pearl pin that is distinctively a W. C. T. U. pin.

Saugerties, Nov. 17 — Miss Agnes Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenwood Robinson of First street, was married Sunday afternoon, November 15, to Corp. Philip W. They were attended by Mrs. Ruth Vozdik, sister of the bride as matron of honor and Horace Emerick, brother of the bridegroom as best man.

The bride wore a maroon velvet dress with accessories to match and a corsage of white sweet peas. The matron of honor wore an aquamarine dress with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the M. and F. Tavern, Livingston street, with about 50 guests present. Corporal and Mrs. Emerick left for a wedding trip to New York city. He will return to his post and Mrs. Emerick will remain with her parents for the duration.

20th Century Club Will Collect Old Silk Stockings in the City

Tentative plans are being made by members of the 20th Century Club to conduct a drive for old silk stockings in the city. The group will meet on Monday and will arrange the final details for collection. This project has been carried on successfully in New York city as part of the civilian participation in the war effort to reclaim materials.

Blood Bank Goal Is Not Half Reached

County Has Responded Well; Kingston Lags

The Civilian Defense Office announces that more blood bank donors are needed in Ulster county to fill the necessary quota of 700 pints. The procedure of obtaining the blood is quick and easy, and the city laboratory is trying to keep hours convenient for the donors.

Of the 700 pints needed, 250 will be taken from the county and 250 from the city. Two donors are needed for one pint of blood. To date, 319 pints have been collected. Of the 656 donors, 97 are from the county.

New Paltz, Saugerties, Woodstock, Gardiner, Marlborough, Highland, and Ellenville have all done unusually well. Among the organizations which have sent the greatest number of donors are: 18 employes from Max Ulman's Inc., 11 members of Highland's Lions Club and B'nai Brith has sent the greatest number of donors. The blood and plasma which is frozen and stored in the laboratory, is available to any one at any time. Persons who have a transfusion are expected to furnish two donors for every pint used, and for each pint of plasma, the patient is required to furnish six donors. In this way the reserve supply will always be kept in the bank.

The procedure followed in obtaining the blood from the donors is simple and requires approximately 12 minutes. The donor lies down on a table and a small area of skin on the elbow is sterlized with alcohol. A small hypodermic needle is used to inject novocain into the skin and veins. This is the only pain experienced and it is very slight.

Persons up to 55 years of age, with the exception of those who have syphilis asthma, hives repeatedly or chronic hayfever, may give their blood. Those under 21 are requested to get permission from their parents. The city laboratory is open Wednesday evenings at 7 o'clock for the county people and on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons from 2 to 6 o'clock for the Kingston residents. An evening appointment may be arranged for a group of six or more by phoning the laboratory.

Good Taste Today

Mother's Judgment May Be Questioned

Letters from daughters, protesting against the opinions of their parents, are among the most difficult questions to answer because it is not possible to criticize a parent to a daughter, unless parent and daughter together ask me to do so. And even then it is unpleasant to side against the mother. The following question is however, one that is so often brought to me that it may be helpful to others to explain that although the mother was right in her protective impulse, I think she was misguided in strategy.

This girl tells me: "I am seventeen, still going to school. My boyfriend is nineteen and at college. The other evening he was at the house and Mother and Dad were called away, to be gone for a couple of hours, which would have left Ted alone with me in the house. Mother came into the living room and explained that she and Dad had to go out for awhile and that we'd better go out to a movie or Ted go home because it wouldn't be proper for us to be in the house alone. I was terribly embarrassed and Ted must have felt that they didn't trust him either. In fact, he said hurriedly that he had to study for the next day and left. Mother knows—and approves — of my asking you whether she should have done this."

In addition to what I have said I think since there was no question of mistrust, the better method would have been for the mother to call the daughter and tell her alone that they had to go out. Suggesting a movie should have been left for her to decide. Or the parents might have gone so quietly as not to let either of the young people know about it at all —not even after they were back. They could have left a note in the room where they were sitting saying where they had gone in case Ted went home to study—as he may, quite truthfully, have had to do.

Feelings Are Only Guide

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I were separated for two years but had not been divorced. I have just received a telegram from his family, from whom I have been estranged, telling me that he was instantly killed overseas, and telling me when a memorial service will be held. Would it be out of place for me to go to this service, and if I go where shall I sit? Shall I send flowers or will this be bad taste? If I can't go shall I write to his mother under the circumstances?

Answer: The only possible guide to suggest is that of your own feelings and knowledge of theirs. The fact that they notified you of the service would suggest that they would like you to go to it. If you have remained friends with certain members of his family then you could sit with them. If not, sit back of the pews occupied by them. Sending flowers is also a question of your own feeling. Perhaps you might prefer to send them without a card, especially since you have been estranged from his family. Otherwise, the more sincere the sympathy you feel, the more frankly it can be shown.

Big Christmas Wedding?

How the bride should dress, what the groom should wear, and who pays for what in a formal wedding all are explained in Mrs. Post's booklet No. 501, which she will send you for 10 cents in coin and a 3-cent stamp, by writing her in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

21 Men Fail Tests For Induction at Center in Albany

Those Who Passed Will Go Next Week to Camp Upton; Spiegel Is Leader

Unofficial reports today were to the effect that of the 121 men in the contingent that went to an army induction center in Albany on Tuesday morning 21 of them failed to pass the physical examinations. Those who passed were immediately inducted into the U. S. Army, and will leave for Camp Upton next Tuesday.

Carl Spiegel of 30 Andrew street was named acting corporal of the contingent to serve when the group leaves Kingston next Tuesday. Mr. Spiegel is well known and for several years has been one of the star endmen at the annual minstrel shows of the Craftsmen's Club of Rondout Lodge, No. 343, F. & A. M.

Corporation Counsel Joseph H. Forman, leader of the contingent when it went to Albany yesterday, was one of the men who failed to pass the physical test. Mr. Forman previously sought to enlist but was rejected.

The city will lose its director of public recreation as the U. S. Army accepted Sidney G. Lutzin yesterday. Others accepted included M. Clifford Miller, teacher of English and coach of the baseball team at the Kingston High School, and Kenneth G. Appleton, musical instructor and director of the high school band. The M. J. Michael School also lost one of its faculty when the army accepted William Chazanof for army service.

Captain James M. Brett of the Wiltwyck Fire Station was also among those accepted yesterday. Captain Brett makes the eighth man from the Kingston fire department to serve in the armed forces.

The other firemen are Philip Ahl, who is overseas; Howard Myers, who is in California; Edwin Van Etten at Camp Shelby, Miss.; Edwin Murphy at Camp Knox, Ky.; Julius Buchholtz at Camp Crowder, Missouri; Alfred Henion, who has been serving as a temporary fireman and who left Tuesday for Camp Upton, and Philip McGowan, who recently enlisted as an aviation cadet and is awaiting a call to service.

Pertinent Facts On Conscription

Eliminations Are Made

Men who have become 45 years of age since they registered in February will be eliminated from the Selective Service boards files. Under a provision in the amended Selective Service act, no man who has reached 45 may be inducted into the United States Army without his consent. Previously it was the law that if a registrant had not reached the age of 45 when he registered, he could be inducted no matter what age he had attained above 45 at the time he was called. The new provision provides for the elimination of names of men who have become 45 since registration and this means in the future no man over 45 will be inducted no matter what his age when he registered.

Eight American Fliers Bring Fortress Back With Wing Rolled Like Sardine Can

London, Nov. 18 (AP)—Here's the rousing story of eight scrapping Americans who fought off 30 of the Germans' best planes, downed four to eight of them and brought their flying fortress home with a wingtip rolled up "like a sardine can," and engine dead and rudder controls half frozen.

Major General Carl Spaatz, commander of American Air Forces in the European theatre, disclosed the feat today, adding another chapter to the story that American men and machines are writing over Europe.

The fortress had completed a bombing assignment over Lille, France, its fourth mission over the continent, and was headed home when a formation of 30 Focke Wulf-190's jumped the flight, quickly knocking this plane out of the bomber formation and making it an especially attractive target.

"When they put a bullet through our No. 1 propeller and knocked us out of formation I knew we were in trouble," said Lieut. Robert L. Riordan, the pilot, of Houston, Texas.

"And when they slammed two cannon shells into our rudder control I told the boys to get ready to bail out. We were lucky, I guess."

Despite his multiple wounds, the rugged former professional baseball player kept on firing his lone gun for another ten minutes and was credited with one plane shot down.

When De John finally admitted that he was wounded, Riordan sent the navigator, Second Lieutenant George J. Spellman of Holyoke, Mass., back to help. The young officer dragged the wounded gunner into the radio room, covered him with his own flying coat and then, coatless and gloveless, fought with the tail gun in 20-below zero cold until his hands were blue and almost frozen.

"But you should have seen that gun barrel," said the co-pilot, Lieut. Edward P. Malisewski of Grosse Pointe, Mich., "it got so hot it bent."

As the running fight went on, a cannon shell blew a hole "as big as a cabbage" in the fuselage right beside the waist gunner, Staff Sergeant Anthony L. Santoro of Houston, Tex., and bullets cut his ammunition belt but he changed to a new one just in time to knock down one of the fighters.

All the time Riordan was nursing the fortress toward the chalk cliffs of England and after 25 minutes the Nazis gave up and veered off as they saw Spitfires coming out to shepherd the wounded ship home. The pilot set her down with hardly a bump.

Heavy Sky Casts Gloom Over City

Kingston's streets were shrouded in darkness during the early morning hours today as the city was blanketed under a dark, overcast sky which dripped a heavy downpour of rain on the city. In houses and business places it was necessary to keep the lights lit for some hours beyond the usual time.

At 9 o'clock this morning it was as dark in the city as it generally is at 6 o'clock during the fall evenings.

It began raining during the night and rain continued to fall throughout the morning. The storm followed an ideal fall day on Tuesday in Kingston when temperatures ranged from 39 to 64 degrees at the city hall.

This morning at 5 o'clock the city hall thermometer recorded a low of 52 degrees.

Secretary of Agriculture Is of Opinion 1943 Foods Production Will Be Much Less

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard has told the war production board's foods requirements committee that dairymen can not possibly supply next year's demands and that as a consequence the government should take immediate steps to limit consumption of some dairy products.

Sources which could not be quoted by name, said today that Mr. Wickard, who is chairman of the W. P. B. foods committee, felt that cheese should be placed under ration along with meat, that the production of ice cream should be reduced at least 25 per cent below this year's level, and that consumer rationing of fluid milk should be established in milksheds facing short supplies.

Meat is scheduled to be placed under rationing shortly after the first of the year. Distribution among retailers is being limited now, and the public is urged not to buy more than the equivalent of two and a half pounds a week per adult person.

The secretary was said also to have recommended that distribution of butter and evaporated milk will be limited until rationing plans for these products can be studied and developed for establishment before the winter is over.

The W. P. B. foods committee was scheduled to meet today to discuss the situation further, but officials said there would be no announcement of its recommendations to W. P. B. Chairman Donald M. Nelson and Price Administrator Leon Henderson until these officials have acted on limitation orders and rationing.

Because of shortages of competent labor, machinery and transportation facilities, and unpredictable weather, Mr. Wickard expects, it was said, that milk production in 1943 will be between 15 and 20 per cent short of war and civilian demands.

Dairy product requirements of American armed forces and the Allied nations receiving lend-lease food are expected to be two and a half times greater than this year.

Items involved include cheese, butter, dried and evaporated milk.

Mr. Wickard was said to believe that civilian consumption of cheese might have to be reduced as much as 40 per cent from this year's level.

Rationing of fluid milk in areas of short supplies would be designed to assure ample supplies for children, pregnant mothers and invalids. The forthcoming coffee rationing program is expected by the secretary to result in a greater demand for milk as a drink.

'Rensselaer' Goes At Auction; Was Famed River Boat

The Night Line steamer Rensselaer, which with the old Trojan were originally built to ply the Hudson river between Troy and New York, has been auctioned off and acquired by the Metals Processing Company of East Providence, R. I., for $9,000. Whether the boat will be scrapped or used in government work is not known. There is approximately 1,000 tons of steel in the hull.

Originally built to operate as night boats between Troy and New York, the Rensselaer and the Trojan ran for years between those cities making stops along the river to pick up passengers. The boats were patronized by people from Vermont and inland New England who sought a sail on the "night boats" to New York by way of the "Searchlight Route." In more recent years after the Albany night boats were taken off, the Troy boats covered the Albany route also.

It will be recalled that the Rensselaer had a narrow escape from serious damage in 1933 when she was rammed near Poughkeepsie as she was coming up the river in a heavy fog. The Swedish freighter "Roxena" struck her mid-way between the bow and paddle wheels. Only four of her 127 passengers were injured. The passengers were removed by the crew of the Benjamin B. O'Dell and the Rensselaer taken to drydock and repaired.

The Trojan was retired a few years ago and scrapped. Another "night boat" which ran over the Hudson river route, the "Berkshire" of the Hudson River Night Line, is now serving as a floating government housing project in Bermuda.

The musk-deer has no antlers, but its upper canine teeth project as tusks.

Observatory Holds 10th Anniversary On Mt. Washington

Mt. Washington, N. H., Nov. 18 (AP)—In a wooden building bolted to solid rock atop this 6,290-foot peak, the staff of the highest weather station east of the Rockies today observed its 10th anniversary of recording nature's fury.

It was here that a southeast super-hurricane blast was clocked at 231 miles an hour on April 12, 1934. That, say the men of the Mt. Washington Observatory, was "the highest gust of wind ever recorded in free air."

And lest anybody wonder why the observatory doesn't blow away, it is housed in reputedly the strongest wooden building in the world. It is braced by eight by eight-inch railroad ties spaced 18 inches apart.

The famous New England hurricane of September 21, 1938, as felt at the observatory, was just a breeze—165 miles an hour—compared with the 23-mile-an-hour recording, which wasn't felt to a great extent at lower altitudes.

But the wind isn't all that helps the little staff of three men to keep cool. The temperature has dropped to as low as 46.5 degrees below zero and the highest ever recorded here was only 71.

Then there was a one-month snowfall of 82.8 inches in March, 1937, and 4.71 inches of rain on August 24, 1933. During one stretch there were 57 consecutive days of fog.

Woodstock Gives Annual Public Health Report

The report for the town of Woodstock public health nursing committee meeting was given at the annual county meeting, October 28, at the Stuyvesant Hotel. It was read as follows:

"The Woodstock Public Health Nursing Committee was organized just a year ago. Certainly last October we would not have believed that we could accomplish so much in so short a time, but then we did not know our nurse, Miss Cassidy, as well as we do now. We have learned that if you can take one step forward, you are already poised to take the next. From the beginning it was obvious that Woodstock wanted this health service and we have met with splendid response from individuals and from numerous organizations. Our transportation and Nurses Aid committees began by helping with two immunizations clinics; at the same time the Sewing Committee, with the help of the Red Cross, made three obstetrical bundles and two emergency baby kits.

"About this time the Woodstock Market Fair Committee came along and gave us a supply of cod liver oil. Of course, we had to have somewhere to keep all these things, so the next step was to find a place for a loan closet for sick room supplies. The Board of Trustees of the Woodstock School gave us permission to use the second floor of the primary school building and a member of the board had shelves built in for us. Then the telephone calls came in: "Can you use this? Can you use that?" We always could and at present we have fifty-three separate items available to anyone in the township. When the Red Cross and our committee sponsored three Home Nursing courses last winter in rooms donated to us by the Legion Auxiliary, it was the loan closet that supplied most of the equipment. In the event of a war emergency the supplies would, of course, be available to the Red Cross and to the War Council. At our request the Woodstock Library put out a special display of books on health, especially books on child health and nutrition. The Committee also cooperated with the Woodstock Centre of the National Youth Administration, helping to get speakers for their health program.

"All this time the newspapers were encouraging us with news stories and editorial comment and we decided that the time had come to take the next and most important step of all, the health conferences for infants and preschool age children. The Woodstock Town Board gave us the use of the Town Hall and October 13 we held our first conference with nine babies present. In the coming war year, with more strain and less of everything else, we may not be able to take as many steps forward but we must and will use all our resources to continue those activities we have begun."

Miss Isabel Doughty,
President
Woodstock Public Health Nursing Committee.

Cardiff, Wales (AP) — During testimony at a trial of Austin Hatcher on charges of pretending to hold communication with the spirits of dead persons, a policeman testified that when he attended a seance at which Hatcher officiated, Hatcher said at one point: "There are a lot of spirits in here, waiting to come through. In fact, they are queuing up."

Keep Your Sweaters Snug, Says Home Bureau

Now that "the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodders' in the shock," or more properly, in the silo, we appreciate especially our warm woolen sweaters. And this year it is important to take care of them, remembering the old adage about the stitch in time. If they are worn and soiled, it is better to mend first and clean afterward so that weak spots and ravelled places will not go further. Long sleeved sweaters often go thin at the elbows and under the arms before we know it. They can be darned invisibly if there are matching threads to work with. If the cuffs are beginning to fray on the edge, loose blanket stitching, with the stitches set close together, will add many weeks of wear. The corners of pockets and the button holes should be reinforced if they need it. If buttons have pulled through the knitted material, they should be taken off and a strip of ribbon or tape sewed on the wrong side of the sweater to give a firm support on which they can be sewed.

If sweaters must be washed, it is important to do the job carefully so they will remain soft and will not shrink. Warm but not hot suds of mild soap should be squeezed through them gently many times to remove the dirt, then they should be rinsed carefully in water of the same temperature. The water should be squeezed out of them by rolling them between bath towels. Then they should be carefully adjusted on a drying frame. If you have no frame, your Home Bureau has the directions for making a simple and easily constructed one at home. Telephone to your Home Bureau Office, Kingston 3494, or write a postcard asking for these directions. The frame is inexpensive and easily constructed and will make it possible for you to keep your sweaters the right shape and size, no matter how many times they need to be washed. A sweater that has been carefully pulled and patted into shape on a frame will not need pressing.

When Gals Say Yes

Denver (AP)—Sixty-six per cent of coeds at Denver University who were asked: "Would you become engaged to a young man about to be drafted?" responded "yes," but 75 per cent of them answered "no" when asked if they would marry the man.

THIS MORNING

Life begins this morning, to use it as you choose;
A golden opportunity for you to win or lose.
New aims, new plans, new vistas, now open wide to you;
For brain and hand and muscle, there's useful work to do.
Life begins this morning, be up and strong of heart;
Ignore past fears and failures, today fill well your part.
—Grenville Kleiser.

Fortune Teller (warning)—If you're not very careful, you're going to have trouble with a brunette.

Man (musing)—M-m. That's my wife. What makes you think I'll have trouble with her?

JUST A DIME EVERY DOLLAR —THAT'S WHAT UNCLE SAM ASKS YOU TO INVEST IN WAR BONDS TO BACK UP OUR BOYS AT THE FIGHTING FRONT.

Minister—I have never christened a child who has behaved so well as yours.

Mother (beaming)—I have been getting him used to it with a watering can for the last week.

THE SMILE

No matter how grouchy you're feeling,
You'll find the smile more or less healing,
It grows in a wreath
All around the front teeth—
Thus preserving the face from congealing.
—Anthony Wuwer.

Miss (slapping your man's face) Well, of all the nerve! Don't ever try to kiss me again!

Soldier (meekly)—All right. If that's the way you feel about it, get off my lap!

THE STRANGEST PARADOX OF THE WAR IS THAT THE VERY FREEDOM WE'RE FIGHTING FOR IS HAMPERING OUR FIGHT.

Friend—How long yo' in jail for, Mose?
Negro—Two weeks.
Friend—What am de charge?
Negro—Ain't no charge. Everything is free.
Friend—Ah mean what did you do?
Negro—Ah done shot mah wife.
Friend—Shot yo' wife and only in jail two weeks?
Negro—Dat's all, then Ah gets hung.

It used to be said that "People are known by the company they keep." Today its fast becoming, "People are known by the entertainment they seek."

People who read books that are off color, enjoy pictures that are suggestive, and laugh at jokes that verge on the indecent, are no longer considered to be "sophisticated." Instead they are judged to be what their tastes show them to be.

To some extent at least they justify publishers, theatre managers, and comedians who excuse filth by saying, "We try to give our patrons the entertainment they want."

Bride (talking to newspaper reporter)—We shall reside at the Old Manse.

The Reporter (wrote)—When they return from the honeymoon, the newlyweds will reside with the bride's father.

Two small boys at the charity dinner put their grimy hands side by side on the white tablecloth:

First Boy (triumphantly) Mine's dirtier 'n yours!

Second Boy (disdainfully) —Huh! You're two years older'n me.

Stephen Leacock in his latest book: "You begin as 'Little man' and then 'Little boy' and then they call you 'sonny' and then 'My boy' and after that it is 'Young man.' Presently someone says to you, Say Mister!"

Rise in Tuberculosis In Industrial Cities

Although in Kingston and Ulster county there is, as yet, no evidence of threatened wartime rise in tuberculosis, an increase is occurring in a large number of overcrowded industrial cities, according to Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb, superintendent of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital and member of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Association.

In Ulster county the death rate from tuberculosis in 1941 was 30 per 100,000 population, while in 1940 the death rate was 41 per 100,000.

"Larger communities are not so fortunate," said Dr. Holcomb. "The last study made by the National Tuberculosis Association in large cities covering 1939 and 1940 showed an increase in 19 cities."

Dr. Holcomb explained that the rise in industrial centers is, undoubtedly, due to long hours of work, lack of sufficient rest and relaxation, poor nutrition and overcrowded living conditions.

"All these factors," he said, "will tend to lower the body's resistance to the tuberculosis germ and the active disease may develop."

Plan 16,000 Acres In Rope Plants

Use Vast Areas to Overcome Shortage of Fiber.

WASHINGTON.—In order to relieve a threatened war shortage of manila and other fibers used in rope and twine, caused by Japanese seizure of the normal supply sources, probably 16,000 acres will be planted to the manila fiber plant in Panama and Costa Rica, by the end of this year, the Office of War Information said.

The importance of the fibers to the war effort was described by the OWI announcement.

"Without them," it said, "we could neither fight nor eat. Without rope no warship could race to battle against the Nazis and Japs; no cargo ship cross the seas with tanks and guns for the armies fighting Hitler. They must have hundreds of millions of feet of rope.

"Without binder twine there would be famine in the midst of bumper crops, because the crops could not be harvested. The farmers who grow the food we eat must have hundreds of millions of feet of binder twine for their harvesting machines."

Manila fiber can be obtained from the abaca plants 18 months after they are planted and they reproduce themselves annually, the report said. Another and slightly inferior form of rope and twine fiber is sisal, which normally came from the East Indies, and the Combined Raw Materials board reported a doubling of the sisal plant acreage in Haiti.

A third fiber source is hemp, which can be grown in many parts of the United States. The department of agriculture planted thousands of acres of hemp this year in order to obtain seed with which to plant hundreds of thousands of acres next year.

Youth 'Likes Funerals' So Shoots His Sister

MILLERSBURG, OHIO.—Holmes county juvenile authorities said that Manuel Maft, 17, an Amish, had admitted shooting his sister and trying to poison a brother because he "likes funerals" and "just wanted to shoot somebody."

The sister, Sarah, told officers that she had antagonized her brother by trying to persuade him to join the Amish church. She was recovering from her wound.

Manuel will be committed to the state bureau of juvenile research at Columbus for 30 days' observation.

Ancient Dwellings Are Unearthed in England

LONDON.—Ancient pit dwellings of a type never before unearthed in England came to light recently as a result of war activities.

Mrs. Stuart Piggott, who described the find to the Royal Archeological society, had with her an amber necklace which she said was probably made about 1500 B. C.

A pit dwelling was a miniature house in which a corpse was encased. None had been discovered in Britain before though it was known this burial custom existed in Northern Europe in prehistoric times.

Old Silk Stockings Are Now Used for Bandages

PORTLAND, ORE.—An ingenious means of sending bandages to China is being conducted by the American Bureau for Medical Aid to China.

Women are asked to contribute old silk stockings. These are fumigated, then used as padding in shipments of other goods—thus saving cargo space.

With each 25 stockings which are unpacked at various Chinese points is found an illustrated folder, printed in English and Chinese, showing how the stockings may be used in bandaging various wounds.

'Ghost Ship' Has Prow Painted Like a Whale

CLEVELAND.—The coast guard station at Cleveland received a hurry-up call from a group of ore boats in Lake Erie about 18 miles off shore. The lookout on one of the freighters said he sighted a whale with a "harpoon sticking in it." Other freighters heard the call, moved closer and deck-hands exclaimed that a "ghost ship" was roaming the lakes. Coast guardsmen closed in. They found a sailboat, with its prow painted to resemble the gaping jaws of a monster whale, which had broken loose from its mooring.

She Filled Job Too Well

TOPEKA, KAN.—A girl service station attendant, hired to replace a man called to war, was fired. The manager said her language was too tough.

28 Guns Are Seized From Oklahoma Man

OKLAHOMA CITY.—Seizure of 28 guns and 136,089 rounds of ammunition from a German alien was reported by W. G. Banister, special agent in charge of the FBI here.

Whether the alien was arrested was not disclosed. Banister said the booty included 15 shotguns, 10 rifles and three revolvers.

ICE CREAM STAINS

To remove ice cream stains from upholstered furniture, rub lightly with warm water and soap suds. Work over a small area at a time sponging the washed parts with a cloth dipped in cold water to prevent the soapy water from spreading over too much of the upholstery.

O.P.A. Says Prosecution Of Violators to Be Made

It was announced today by the Office of Price Administration that the next phase of the compliance campaign in the Albany District would be that of legal enforcement of the provisions of the War Emergency Anti-Inflation Legislation passed by Congress. No phase of the program will be overlooked—motorists who misuse their gas rationing—gas stations that sell without receiving proper rations—all retailers who are not in compliance—manufactures and jobbers—all will be prosecuted if found in violation.

The great majority of business in the city, the district and the country at large are patriotically assisting the government in its efforts to combat inflation and to keep the cost of living down. There are, however, those who willfully violate the provisions of the law even in these crucial times.

It shall be the duty of the Legal Division of the Office of Price Administration to seek out and prosecute these violators to the full extent of the law.

Ernest Felago has been assigned to the Albany office as Acting Chief Investigator under the direction of George Meyers and James Carroll of the Legal Division of the Albany office.

The Office of Price Administration has been very much gratified at the almost universal cooperation of the business people of Albany in their effort to bring about voluntary compliance.

Desert Becomes Graveyard Of Rommel's Hopes for Victory in North Africa

By DON WHITEHEAD

En route to the western desert front, Libya, Nov. 17 (AP)—I have seen the graveyard of Rommel's hopes to conquer North Africa and it is a terrible sight to see.

Even this scene of death and destruction on the desert, however, is not as awesome as that of Britain's victorious Eighth Army giving chase to the retreating enemy who is not many miles ahead.

The roads to Poland, Belgium, France and Greece must have looked like those I saw today—except that this time it was the Germans who were on the run and the British who were advancing.

The Italian radio said this morning that Axis armies in North Africa were "advancing" to new positions. It was not funny, it was a rather pathetic thing to hear after seeing the tremendous number of British troops, tanks, guns and supplies moving up to the front in a line unbroken for miles and miles.

Transports moving along the coast road looked like a great brown snake writing across the desert floor through the littered wreckage of twisted, burned enemy tanks, planes and trucks. As far as I could see, dust swirled and billowed over the army on the move.

The sight made you feel warm inside with the knowledge that this time the Allies were going for the knockout and that there was stuff going up to do the job.

I came into the desert looking for the advance R. A. F. unit to which I am to report. But as yet, I am unable to catch up with it. It is always just ahead. Planes move into airdromes right behind the enemy withdrawal. That is how fast this advance is going right now.

I left Cairo yesterday with only a vague idea of where I was headed. In fact, no one could say definitely where the advance units were. They had moved since the last reports.

The plane that brought me up was a Blenheim with a glass-enclosed front and so I had a grandstand seat over the battle area where Rommel's defense was broken. The pilot was lean, lanky R. A. F. Flight Sergeant Peter Bartlett of Nottingham, England, a flying fool if I ever rode with one.

I am glad he is on our side.

We piled bed roll, typewriter and duffle bag into the plane and then stacked in a carton of American canned beer and groceries.

"It is a good idea to take some food along," I was told, "because we are moving fast and sometimes even battle rations may be slim. Take beer because the Germans have oiled the wells."

This is expensive because canned foods come high in this country with pork and beans at 40 cents a can, chocolate bars at 48 cents, soup 56 cents and beer at 40 cents.

I climbed into the nose of the ship and the yellow-haired kid headed across the green-checked fields of the Nile valley toward the brown desert sand dunes. The desert floor is criss-crossed with tracks of trucks and tanks in a crazy-quilt pattern.

We were flying about an hour when Pete turned the nose of the Blenheim down.

I thought we were going to plow into the sand. I looked back to see if anything were wrong. Pete grinned. Then he leveled off and skimmed over the desert in a ride I will remember as long as I live.

Christmas Seal For 1942 Designed By Dale Nichols

Dale Nichols, one of the outstanding younger American artists, designed the 1942 Christmas Seal, which goes on sale here November 23, as the means of supporting the work of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Association during the coming year.

Mr. Nichols joins a long line of distinguished American artists who have designed Christmas Seals for the National Tuberculoosis Association and its affiliated associations throughout the 36 years Seals have been used to raise money to finance the anti-tuberculosis campaign.

The 1942 Seal is a typical example of Mr. Nichols' work. It features a red barn, which has been the center of design of many of his paintings. The seal shows a red barn and a white farmhouse in the background of a snow country scene. In the forground is a drift-lined road on which is shown an old-fashioned swell-front sleigh, drawn by two horses.

In discussing the design he used for the Christmas Seal, Mr. Nichols says, "In all my work I strive to have my paintings radiate cleanliness and health. Therefore, I look upon my work in designing the 1942 Christmas Seal for the Ulster County Tuberculosis Association not as just another problem in design, but as an unusual privilege, in that this great institution constantly works toward those objectives."

Dale Nichols was born in 1904 in David City, Neb., and moved later with his family to Glenview, Ill. His painting of barns, he says, is " . . . due to living with them for 20 years."

"We had a large white barn on our farm and I helped fill it with hay and grain, fed the animals three times a day and served for, what seemed to me, 100 years as chambermaid to the horses and mules.

"But, fortunately for my art, those 20 years on the farm were the most intriguing of my life . . . when I began painting I turned naturally to painting farms and featuring red barns because, to me, they symbolize the life of America's farmers," he said.

He frequently painted actual barns—one, "The Sanley Farm," is still standing near Surprise, Neb. The barn which "modeled" for one of his most famous paintings, "The End of the Hunt," (now hanging in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York) is near Glenview, Ill.

Mr. Nichols can claim many sections of the country as home. In addition to David City and Glenview, he lived in Chicago for a number of years, where he studied art, and was Carnegie visiting professor and artist in residence as the University of Illinois during 1939-40.

He has traveled extensively in the United States and Mexico. He now spends his winters on a ranch near Tucson and his summers in Moose Pass, Alaska, where he recetly purchased a cabin and leased part of a mountain from the government.

His paintings are hung in many museums and private collections, including the Metropolitan Museum, the Art Institute of Chicago and the University of Illinois.

Canton, Pa., Nov. 18 (AP)—An explosion blew out the front and rear walls of a three-story brick business building in this northern Pennsylvania town of 2,500 early today, killing a pedestrian and causing a fire which destroyed the post office, a bank, two stores and several business offices.

Mrs. Kenneth Farmer, 27, a high school teacher, was crushed to death under falling mortar. A companion, Mrs. Gordon Lloyd, 30, was taken from the debris critically hurt.

The street was nearly deserted and no other person was injured.

(Official Report)

At the home of Mrs. Shultis, 277 Clinton avenue, on Monday, November 16, an executive session of the Woman's Christian Union was held, County President Carpenter conducting the business periods.

Resolutions and recommendations adopted at the state convention in Ithaca, October 21-22, were accepted as a working basis for the year.

County Treasurer Swift had had the privilege of being present at this convention. She gave an informal report of the speeches given and actions taken there. Particular attention was given to the address of George Barton Cutten retired president of Colgate University, copies of which may be obtained from W. C. T. U. headquarters, New York. His subject was "Balance Sheet for Alcohol." From State Treasurer Estelle, Mrs. Swift had brought the five checks awarded to the Ulster county unions for reaching certain efficiency standards. New Paltz, Kingston, Highland, Milton and Ulster Park unions each have five dollars to add to their treasury because each was successful in reaching certain state—appointed goals. To the department labeled "Exhibits," there came a prize, given to Ulster county for exhibits at the county fair and photographs taken there. Mrs. Whiston, county director of that department, was not present on account of illness, but the prize book "Sixty-Years in Action" will be sent to her.

Box lunches were brought by the women who came, but they were opened at the table in Mrs. Shultis' dining room. Coffee and tea and a pleasing dessert were added to lunches by a gracious hostess and the noon hour became a festive occasion. Around that table seven out of the nine local unions were represented by presidents, directors or officers. And not a happening there would cause any minister to take for his Sunday morning topic "I Drink to Your Death," as did the Rev. Henry C. Budd of Ithaca in the convention church on the Sabbath the New York State Woman's Christian Union was calling his church their own.

County President Carpenter has completed ten years of service, and in recognition and appreciation of her service, she was presented with the pearl pin that is distinctively a W. C. T. U. pin.

The bride wore a maroon velvet dress with accessories to match and a corsage of white sweet peas. The matron of honor wore an aquamarine dress with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the M. and F. Tavern, Livingston street, with about 50 guests present. Corporal and Mrs. Emerick left for a wedding trip to New York city. He will return to his post and Mrs. Emerick will remain with her parents for the duration.

Blood Bank Goal Is Not Half Reached

County Has Responded Well; Kingston Lags

The Civilian Defense Office announces that more blood bank donors are needed in Ulster county to fill the necessary quota of 700 pints. The procedure of obtaining the blood is quick and easy, and the city laboratory is trying to keep hours convenient for the donors.

Of the 700 pints needed, 250 will be taken from the county and 250 from the city. Two donors are needed for one pint of blood. To date, 319 pints have been collected. Of the 638 donors, 97 are from the county.

New Paltz, Saugerties, Woodstock, Gardiner, Marlborough, Highland, and Ellenville have all done unusually well. Among the organizations which have sent the greatest number of donors are: 18 employes from Max Ulman's Inc., 11 members of Highland's Lions Club and B'nai Brith has sent the greatest number of donors. The blood and plasma which is frozen and stored in the laboratory, is available to any one at any time. Persons who have a transfusion are expected to furnish two donors for every pint used, and for each pint of plasma, the patient is required to furnish six donors. In this way the reserve supply will always be kept in the bank.

The procedure followed in obtaining the blood from the donors is simple and requires approximately 12 minutes. The donor lies down on a table and a small area of skin on the elbow is sterilized with alcohol. A small hypodermic needle is used to inject novocain into the skin and veins. This is the only pain experienced and it is very slight.

Persons up to 55 years of age, with the exception of those who have syphilis asthma, hives repeatedly or chronic hayfever, may give their blood. Those under 21 are requested to get permission from their parents. The city laboratory is open Wednesday evenings at 7 o'clock for the county people and on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons from 2 to 6 o'clock for the Kingston residents. An evening appointment may be arranged for a group of six or more by phoning the laboratory.

Good Taste Today

Mother's Judgment May Be Questioned

Letters from daughters, protesting against the opinions of their parents, are among the most difficult questions to answer because it is not possible to criticize a parent to a daughter, unless parent and daughter together ask me to do so. And even then it is unpleasant to side against the mother. The following question is however, one that is so often brought to me that it may be helpful to others to explain that although the mother was right in her protective impulse, I think she was misguided in strategy.

This girl tells me: "I am seventeen, still going to school. My boyfriend is nineteen and at college. The other evening he was at the house and Mother and Dad were called away, to be gone for a couple of hours, which would have left Ted alone with me in the house. Mother came into the living room and explained that she and Dad had to go out for awhile and that we'd better go out to a movie or Ted go home because it wouldn't be proper for us to be in the house alone. I was terribly embarrassed and Ted must have felt that they didn't trust him either. In fact, he said hurriedly that he had to study for the next day and left. Mother knows—and approves — of my asking you whether she should have done this."

In addition to what I have said I think since there was no question of mistrust, the better method would have been for the mother to call the daughter and tell her alone that they had to go out. Suggesting a movie should have been left for her to decide. Or the parents might have gone so quietly as not to let either of the young people know about it at all —not even after they were back. They could have left a note in the room where they were sitting saying where they had gone in case Ted went home to study—as he may, quite truthfully, have had to do.

Feelings Are Only Guide

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I were separated for two years but had not been divorced. I have just received a telegram from his family, from whom I have been estranged, telling me that he was instantly killed overseas, and telling me when a memorial service will be held. Would it be out of place for me to go to this service, and if I go where shall I sit? Shall I send flowers or will this be bad taste? If I can't go shall I write to his mother under the circumstances?

Answer: The only possible guide to suggest is that of your own feelings and knowledge of theirs. The fact that they notified you of the service would suggest that they would like you to go to it. If you have remained friends with certain members of his family then you could sit with them. If not, sit back of the pews occupied by them. Sending flowers is also a question of your own feeling. Perhaps you might prefer to send them without a card, especially since you have been estranged from his family. Otherwise, the more sincere the sympathy you feel, the more frankly it can be shown.

'JEEP SKIRT'

A "jeep skirt" is the latest innovation for the American Wing War Service, the organization that originated and operates the popular Stage Door Canteens in New York Washington and Philadelphia.

The "Jeep Skirt" is one of the many garments cut and sewn by actresses for the wives and children of the men of our fighting forces. It is a dirndl-type garment, made by sewing four scarves together. It is attractive and practical for wear in the south.

About 20,000 Italian prisoners working on farms in England now receive from 10 to 20 cents a day.

Firemen Are Entertained at Monthly Session

Tuesday evening the members of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, meeting in Firemen's Hall in Rosendale, as the guests of the Rosendale and Tillson fire departments, were entertained by a play "Be Prepared" which was enacted by a group of boys and girls of Rosendale.

The play was written by Robert Shultis, sector warden of Rosendale, and directed by the Rev. Albert H. Shultis, coordinator of fire service of the O. C. D.

The play had originally been written to instruct the women of Rosendale in the steps to take in fighting incendiary bombs. The theme of the play centered around the home of the Richards family, who are shown at the rising of the curtain enjoying a quiet evening at home, which is interrupted by an air raid.

The family had been prepared in combatting incendiary bombs and their training in first aid methods had given them the courage and knowledge to save their home from destruction. The purpose of the play had been to ascertain how many women in the home were prepared to take care of themselves in case of an actual raid.

The meeting last night, which was the regular monthly session of the association, was attended by some 150 firemen from all sections of Ulster county.

Secretary Fred Harder reported that 46 members of the association were now in the armed service of the country. He also stated that the place of meeting in December would be announced later.

At the business meeting it was reported that rule 12 of the State War Council which prohibited vehicles from being driven more than 35 miles an hour did not apply to fire apparatus responding to an alarm. It was said the information had been forwarded to the association by Seth Cole of Catskill, attorney for the State Firemen's Association.

Following the meeting and entertainment, refreshments were served.

Boy Is Bitten

G. Warren Kias of 114 Wilson avenue, physical director at the Kingston High School, reported to the police department Tuesday afternoon that his son, Lee Warren, aged 2½ years, had been bitten by a dog. The wound was cauterized at the Kingston Hospital. Mr. Kias informed the police that the boy was playing with a neighbor's dog when he was bitten.

Red Cross Benefit

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—The football team of Brooklyn College and City College of New York played a 7-7 tie last Saturday, which failed to settle the so-called "amateur championship" of New York. So they have decided to play another game on Thanksgiving Day, with the entire receipts going to the Red Cross.

Big Crowd Expected

Massillon, O., Nov. 18 (AP) — A high school football game here Saturday will attract more fans than the average college contest. Twenty-two thousand persons will be packed in Massillon Stadium to see Canton McKinley try to upset the mighty Massillon Tigers.

Massillon has gone through 52 games without a defeat and McKinley hasn't beaten the Tigers since 1938. The two scholastic elevens have been rivals 47 years and Canton is conceded its best chance of winning in four years. Massillon, tied twice, hasn't lost a game since 1937. McKinley has lost one game this year.

Equal to Bears Here

Chicago, Nov. 18 (AP) — There's one league in which the Chicago Cardinal football team is battling its city rival Bears on even terms. It is in their special Navy pilot cadet recruiting drive being conducted under the direction of the naval aviation cadet selection board here.

Each team, acting as a recruiting agent, has signed up 10 future flyers. Their drive will end December 6.

May Surprise Teams

Chicago, Nov. 18 (AP)—J. Kyle Anderson, new basketball coach at the University of Chicago, says that maybe the Maroons might not fare as badly as they have the last two seasons in Western Conference competition. After winning their opening game against Illinois Tech last December 6, the Maroons failed to score a single victory in the remainder of the season, running their string of consecutive Western Conference losses to 31.

Anderson, who succeeds Capt. Nelson Norgren, who has rejoined the Army Air Force, said, "we've been working on what may turn out to be a few surprises this year."

All Because of a Bottle

Paola, Kas., Nov. 18 (AP)—The pop bottle that beaned Minneapolis Outfielder Ab Wright during a baseball game in Kansas City September 1 still is causing headaches.

Claude Wayman, 39-year-old Louisburg, Kas., farmer accused of the bottle throwing, has since been inducted into the army.

But Justice of the Peace T. J. Cummings doesn't know what to do. Missouri has asked for extradition, and Wayman is soldiering while under a $1,000 bond. The bondsmen are still liable, and the case is still on the books.

Wright has recovered. He's working in a McAlester, Okla., war plant.

May Ban Games

Wallace, Idaho, Nov. 18 (AP) — Sheriff A. J. McPhail may ban future Armistice Day football games between Wallace and Kellogg high schools.

He said that Robert Townsend, 18, died from a throat injury received in a fight after the game. Five other boys had broken hands, he said, and a sixth needed treatment for a scalp wound.

PRO ROOKIE OF YEAR

Johnson to Leave Athletics; Mack Praises Outfielder

Philadelphia Manager Says 'Indian Bob' Should Get Break With Some Contending Club

Philadelphia, Nov. 18 (AP)—Connie Mack and Big Bob Johnson, the Philadelphia Athletics' hard-slugging Indian outfielder, came to a peaceful parting of the ways today after ten long, and sometimes hard, years.

Connie announced that the pride of the A's will be traded at the Chicago major league meeting opening December 1, if a suitable deal can be arranged, and added: "He deserves a chance to play on a pennant contender."

Johnson went home to Oregon to hunt and get a war plant job at the close of the 1942 season, announcing that he never again would play "with a team as poor as the last-place Athletics."

Connie replied then that the A's had first call and he either would play for the Athletics or not at all.

Announcing his changed decision, the 79-year-old manager commented:

"Bob has been very loyal. He has played fine ball on poor clubs and deserves a chance on a pennant contender. I want him to have that chace. Last year I believed we would have such a team, but we lost so many men the bottom fell out of the club.

"Bob has two or three good years left and he will be able to punch in a lot of runs for some other club."

Johnson, who will be 34 years old November 28, joined the Athletics in 1933 after four years with Portland in the Pacific coast league. He lined out 44 two-base hits, four triples and 21 homers for a .290 average during his first major league season. The next season he hit .307 and stayed slightly above or below that charmed mark for years.

Jimmy Dykes tried to hire him last spring, when he was a hold out, but the White Sox had no success. The Indian played for Mack last season on a bonus contract based on attendance, and was openly disgruntled when he collected only one bonus.

How to cut the cost of Heating Your Home
BY John Barclay
AMERICA'S HOME HEATING EXPERT

Dirty Boiler Loss

A DIRTY boiler will cause considerable heat loss. One-sixteenth of an inch of soot or fly ash in the fire-box, flue passes, etc., will cause a 13 per cent loss of heat. If the inside of the furnace were uniformly covered with one-sixteenth of an inch of fly ash, the loss would amount to 26 per cent.

Fly ash causes heat loss because it is five times more effective as an insulator than the best grade of asbestos.

Here is a table showing the heat loss due to various thicknesses of fly ash in and around the furnace:

1/32 in. of deposit causes 9.5% loss
1/16 in. of deposit causes 26.2% loss
1/8 in. of deposit causes 45.3% loss
3/16 in. of deposit causes 69% loss

Heating plants should be thoroughly cleaned by vacuum once a year. If your furnace has not been cleaned this year, you will waste money needlessly.

Get in touch with your local coal dealer and have him vacuum clean your furnace and you will immediately increase its efficiency. (15)

21 Men Fail Tests For Induction at Center in Albany

Those Who Passed Will Go Next Week to Camp Upton; Spiegel Is Leader

Unofficial reports today were to the effect that of the 121 men in the contingent that went to an army induction center in Albany on Tuesday morning 21 of them failed to pass the physical examinations. Those who passed were immediatly inducted into the U. S. Army, and will leave for Camp Upton next Tuesday.

Carl Spiegel of 30 Andrew street was named acting corporal of the contingent to serve when the group leaves Kingston next Tuesday. Mr. Spiegel is well known and for several years has been one of the star endmen at the annual minstrel shows of the Craftsmen's Club of Rondout Lodge, No. 343, F. & A. M.

Corporation Counsel Joseph H. Forman, leader of the contingent when it went to Albany yesterday, was one of the men who failed to pass the physical test. Mr. Forman previously sought to enlist but was rejected.

The city will lose its director of public recreation as the U. S. Army accepted Sidney G. Lutzin yesterday. Others accepted included M. Clifford Miller, teacher of English and coach of the baseball team at the Kingston High School, and Kenneth E. Appleton, musical instructor and director of the high school band. The M. J. Michael School also lost one of its faculty when the army accepted William Chazanof for army service.

Captain James M. Brett of the Wiltwyck Fire Station was also among those accepted yesterday. Captain Brett makes the eighth man from the Kingston fire department to serve in the armed forces.

The other firemen are Philip Ahl, who is overseas; Howard Myers, who is in California; Edwin Van Etten at Camp Shelby, Miss.; Edwin Murphy at Camp Knox, Ky.; Julius Buchholtz at Camp Crowder, Missouri; Alfred Henion, who has been serving as a temporary fireman and who left Tuesday for Camp Upton, and Philip McGowan, who recently enlisted as an aviation cadet and is awaiting a call to service.

Pertinent Facts On Conscription

Eliminations Are Made

Men who have become 45 years of age since they registered in February will be eliminated from the Selective Service boards files. Under a provision in the amended Selective Service act, no man who has reached 45 may be inducted into the United States Army without his consent. Previously it was the law that if a registrant had not reached the age of 45 when he registered, he could be inducted no matter what age he had attained above 45 at the time he was called. The new provision provides for the elimination of names of men who have become 45 since registration and this means in the future no man over 45 will be inducted no matter what his age when he registered.

Eight American Fliers Bring Fortress Back With Wing Rolled Like Sardine Can

London, Nov. 18 (AP)—Here's the rousing story of eight scrapping Americans who fought off 30 of the Germans' best planes, downed four to eight of them and brought their flying fortress home with a wingtip rolled up "like a sardine can," and engine dead and rudder controls half frozen.

Major General Carl Spaatz, commander of American Air Forces in the European theatre, disclosed the feat today, adding another chapter to the story that American men and machines are writing over Europe.

The fortress had completed a bombing assignment over Lille, France, its fourth mission over the continent, and was headed home when a formation of 30 Focke Wulf-190's jumped the flight, quickly knocking this plane out of the bomber formation and making it an especially attractive target.

"When they put a bullet through our No. 1 propeller and knocked us out of formation I knew we were in trouble," said Lieut. Robert L. Riordan, the pilot, of Houston, Texas.

"And when they slammed two cannon shells into our rudder control I told the boys to get ready to bail out. We were lucky, I guess."

Despite his multiple wounds, the rugged former professional baseball player kept on firing his lone gun for another ten minutes and was credited with one plane shot down.

When De John finally admitted that he was wounded, Riordan sent the navigator, Second Lieutenant George J. Spellman of Holyoke, Mass., back to help. The young officer dragged the wounded gunner into the radio room, covered him with his own flying coat and then, coatless and gloveless, fought with the tail gun in 20-below zero cold until his hands were blue and almost frozen.

"But you should have seen that gun barrel," said the co-pilot, Lieut. Edward P. Maliszewski of Grosse Pointe, Mich., "it got so hot it bent."

As the running fight went on, a cannon shell blew a hole "as big as a cabbage" in the fuselage right beside the waist gunner, Staff Sergeant Anthony L. Santoro of Houston, Tex., and bullets cut his ammunition belt but he changed to a new one just in time to knock down one of the fighters.

All the time Riordan was nursing the fortress toward the chalk cliffs of England and after 25 minutes the Nazis gave up and veered off as they saw Spitfires coming out to shepherd the wounded ship home. The pilot set her down with hardly a bump.

Heavy Sky Casts Gloom Over City

Kingston's streets were shrouded in darkness during the early morning hours today as the city was blanketed under a dark, overcast sky which dripped a heavy downpour of rain on the city. In houses and business places it was necessary to keep the lights lit for some hours beyond the usual time.

At 9 o'clock this morning it was as dark in the city as it generally is at 6 o'clock during the fall evenings.

It began raining during the night and rain continued to fall throughout the morning. The storm followed an ideal fall day on Tuesday in Kingston when temperatures ranged from 39 to 64 degrees at the city hall.

This morning at 5 o'clock the city hall thermometer recorded a low of 52 degrees.

Secretary of Agriculture Is of Opinion 1943 Foods Production Will Be Much Less

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard has told the war production board's foods requirements committee that dairymen can not possibly supply next year's demands and that as a consequence the government should take immediate steps to limit consumption of some dairy products.

Sources which could not be quoted by name, said today that Mr. Wickard, who is chairman of the W. P. B. foods committee, felt that cheese should be placed under ration along with meat, that the production of ice cream should be reduced at least 25 per cent below this year's level, and that consumer rationing of fluid milk should be established in milksheds facing short supplies.

Meat is scheduled to be placed under rationing shortly after the first of the year. Distribution among retailers is being limited now, and the public is urged not to buy more than the equivalent of two and a half pounds a week per adult person.

The secretary was said also to have recommended that distribution of butter and evaporated milk will be limited until rationing plans for these products can be studied and developed for establishment before the winter is over.

The W. P. B.' foods committee was scheduled to meet today to discuss the situation further, but officials said there would be no announcement of its recommendations to W. P. B. Chairman Donald M. Nelson and Price Administrator Leon Henderson until these officials have acted on limitation orders and rationing.

Because of shortages of competent labor, machinery and transportation facilities, and unpredictable weather, Mr. Wickard expects, it was said, that milk production in 1943 will be between 15 and 20 per cent short of war and civilian demands.

Dairy product requirements of American armed forces and the Allied nations receiving lend-lease food are expected to be two and a half times greater than this year. Items involved include cheese, butter, dried and evaporated milk.

Mr. Wickard was said to believe that civilian consumption of cheese might have to be reduced as much as 40 per cent from this year's level.

Rationing of fluid milk in areas of short supplies would be designed to assure ample supplies for children, pregnant mothers and invalids. The forthcoming coffee rationing program is expected by the secretary to result in a greater demand for milk as a drink.

'Rensselaer' Goes At Auction; Was Famed River Boat

The Night Line steamer Rensselaer, which with the old Trojan were originally built to ply the Hudson river between Troy and New York, has been auctioned off and acquired by the Metals Processing Company of East Providence, R. I., for $9,000. Whether the boat will be scrapped or used in government work is not known. There is approximately 1,000 tons of steel in the hull.

Originally built to operate as night boats between Troy and New York, the Rensselaer and the Trojan ran for years between those cities making stops along the river to pick up passengers. The boats were patronized by people from Vermont and inland New England who sought a sail on the "night boats" to New York by way of the "Searchlight Route." In more recent years after the Albany night boats were taken off, the Troy boats covered the Albany route also.

It will be recalled that the Rensselaer had a narrow escape from serious damage in 1933 when she was rammed near Poughkeepsie as she was coming up the river in a heavy fog. The Swedish freighter "Roxena" struck her mid-way between the bow and paddle wheels. Only four of her 127 passengers were injured. The passengers were removed by the crew of the Benjamin B. O'Dell and the Rensselaer taken to drydock and repaired.

The Trojan was retired a few years ago and scrapped. Another "night boat" which ran over the Hudson river route, the "Berkshire" of the Hudson River Night Line, is now serving as a floating government housing project in Bermuda.

Rickey Will Tell World of Dodger Manager Thursday

Leo Durocher and Flock President Talk Over Matter for Hours; 'Lippy' Might Play

New York, Nov. 18 (AP) — It won't be long now until Leo Durocher, to say nothing of the rest of the baseball world, will know whether the manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers next season is to be Leo Durocher.

In fact, at exactly 2 p. m. tomorrow, Branch Rickey, the new Dodger president, will have a definite answer for Durocher and anxious Flatbush fans, as well as anyone else who might be interested.

Branch the brain and Leo the lip huddled for something like eight hours yesterday and worked out a number of problems, but the actual managerial assignment wasn't one of them.

Durocher, finding himself matched, if not over-matched, in the art of conversation, had little to say when the conference ended, but Rickey promised he would come to a decision tomorrow.

Perhaps the most significant development to come out of yesterday's conflab was an indication that Durocher might be asked to return to the active player list.

Praises Durocher

"I used to think he was a corking good shortstop," Rickey said in discussing the conference later, "and in my judgment he still is a good player, if he would only think so. That could be a part of the question before us."

Durocher, now 37, did not play at all last year—his fourth as Dodger skipper—and not much the year before. But questioned later, he declared: "Sure, I can play—if I have to."

Rickey admitted that one of the points under discussion was Leo's personality and his method of handling the sometimes rowdy Dodgers.

"I know Durocher," Rickey declared, "and that goes double. He knows me." The president continued:

A manager, either in the major leagues or the minors, needs to know some fundamental things. He needs to know the game. He needs to be sound in discipline . . . both for himself and the club. He needs to be industrious on the job and in this particular business that means rather constantly.

"I don't want to start with a manager and have things come up later that we will have to squabble over. I want to adjust everything before we start."

Phil Rabin Back With Opponents; Game at 9:15 P. M.

Allie Esposito Also Will Be in Lineup for Nutmegers; Karam Lauds Local's Chances

The 1942-43 wartime professional basketball season gets under way tonight at the municipal auditorium on Broadway when Manager "Turk" Karam's Kingston Recreations battle the newly organized Hartford Gems, new members of the American Basketball League. Game time is scheduled for 9:15 o'clock. A preliminary between the Bucs and Forsts is scheduled for 8:15 o'clock.

Despite the lack of manpower in virtually all sports, the Recreations again have come through with what looks like an evenly-balanced squad, headlined by Nick Shaback and Hagen Anderson, two of last year's favorites. Shaback and Anderson were the first players signed as Karam realized what a fine job they did here in 1941-42.

Hard Game Expected

Opposing the Gems tonight the Recreations will have to be at top strength as Manager Honey Russell's Nutmeg State aggregation has been active in a number of games already in preparation for the opening of the American Basketball League. For the last couple of weeks Karam also has been supervising his Recreations in serious workouts in New York and now comes forth with high praise for his members.

"Turk," who appeared here last season when Jim McNally bowed out as pilot, took over the reigns and proved to be the tonic for Kingston. After a poor New York State Basketball League showing, Karam's club switched to exhibition basketball and gave fans some of the best brand of basketball which has been seen in quite a spell. Karam is again satisfied with his charges and predicts that the Recs will be able to stand up against the best of teams.

This year the Recreations will operate with a seven-man squad which has been cut down due to the wartime factors. But in that small squad he has sèlected some of the finest professional talent on hand. Besides the well-known Shaback and Anderson, Karam has Irv Rosen, Herb Gershon, Howie Bollerman, Ace Goldstein and Jim Naughton. "This club could do well in any league," remarked Karam recently.

Hartford Is Powerful

With such outstanding stars as Phil Rabin, Allie Esposito, Jack McGuirk and Herman Knuppel, the Hartford club also is packed with power. Rabin needs no introduction to local fans. He formerly played with a local team. The same is true for Esposito who has been a familiar player in these parts. Rabin and Esposito are figured to pack the most power for the Gems. In addition to these two stalwarts Manager Russell has Knuppell, former Washington Brewer star; Bobby Holm, last year's scoring ace at Seton Hall; Jimmy White, ex-St. John's cager; Jack McGuirk, a local player last year, and Russell himself, who usually does a few minutes at a time. Russell is one of basketball's immortals and local fans will undoubtedly get a big kick when he brings his Gems onto the Broadway boards tonight.

Despite the threat of a fall off in attendance, the Recreation committee hopes to make a good stab at this sport for a couple of weeks at least to see if the attendance warrants further games. At present, there's every indication that professional basketball will continue here as long as the local fans back up the squad.

Cage Coach Hopes Rules Be Retained

Henry P. Iba Desires Baskets Stay Put

Stilwater, Okla., Nov. 18 (AP)—Most basketball coaches will tamper with rules at the drop of a chairman's gavel.

So it's surprising to learn that Henry P. Iba of basketball saturated Oklahoma A. and M. College wants the rule book status quoted for the duration. Shortage of material, either for remodeling the gymnasium or the team, makes innovation too difficult, he insists.

Iba especially hopes the baskets are kept at their present height. Proposals to boost the buckets have dribbled in repeatedly from coaches who feel tall players now have too much of an advantage. Push up the hoop, they argue, until even the tallest has to jump for it.

Aggie teams in the past often have been rapid but runty. This year they will have height supplied in one liberal chunk by a 7-foot, 214-pound freshman, Bob Kurland of St. Louis. Iba hopes the baskets stay right where they are so Kurland can continue to fan them with his ears.

PAGE DUROCHER!

Brooklyn (AP)—The privileges of Flatbush have been extended to Frank (Bruiser) Kinard, veteran tackle of the Brooklyn football Dodgers. The "Bruiser" has the right to veto any play his quarterback calls.

It was the first time he had used the word "major" in referring to any of the battles in the Pacific theatre.

Despite this crushing blow administered to a numerically superior Japanese fleet, the President said in his speech that a "gigantic job" remained to be done. He said battle lines stretching from Kiska to Murmansk and from Tunisia to Guadalcanal would lengthen as our forces advance.

Assailing "loose talk" and what he considered politically-inspired criticism of the war effort, the President said that persons without access to all the facts almost inevitably speak from guesswork.

"They do not know the facts," he asserted, "and, therefore, the value of their statements becomes greatly reduced. Nor, must we in the actual progress of the war, lend ears to the clamor of politics or to criticism from those who, as we know in our hearts, are actuated by political motives."

He said he himself had tried to keep politics out of the war but he confessed to making one mistake. That was in permitting announcement of the loss of an unidentified aircraft carrier in the Pacific late last month when the Japanese did not know her fate.

A great issue had been raised in Congress and elsewhere, the Chief Executive said, over suppression of news from fighting fronts, and he yielded to the clamor.

He said he did so partly because, if the sinking had been disclosed two or three weeks later, it would have been charged publicly that he had suppressed the news until after the election.

The President paid tribute to his formal naval aide, Rear Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan, who was killed in last week's battle. Callaghan was aboard the cruiser San Francisco which engaged and hit three enemy vessels, including a battleship, sinking one of them.

Express Employes Indicted

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—Five Railway Express employes have been indicted in the Bronx on charges of criminally receiving stolen goods. The charges grew out of complaints by recent inductees that packages they mailed home from camp had been tampered with. The complaints, received by Mayor La Guardia and Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine, said the packages arrived home with some articles missing. The five employes were held in $500 bail each.

Boy Scouts Aid Publicity Campaign

Freeman Photo

Members of Troops 1, 3, 9, 10 and 11, of the Boy Scouts, are taking an active part today in another community campaign, the 36th annual Christmas Seal Sale of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, by putting up posters and placards throughout Kingston, according to Edward M. Huben, chairman of the publicity committee. "We are helping to save lives this time," said Chester Mohr, of Troop 9, as he gathered up his supply at the office of the association. "This makes the sixth drive we have taken part in since we have entered the war. We have helped save rubber, aluminum, and scrap material, but helping to save lives is something." Scouts who are aiding the association, left to right, are: Chester Mohr, Donald Koeppen, Neumont Culver and Robert Conlon.

Mackenzie Reaches Cairo, Says Allies Work Feverishly

civilian workers contributing to the cause? I wish I could tell you in detail, but that would give the Boche useful information. Broadly, one can say these Allied men are daring diseases of the jungle, enduring terrible heat and other hardships to open up and maintain transport routes over which pour men and supplies for the Allies' needs throughout Northern Africa and the Middle East.

Magnificent Contribution

In many places, over endless reaches of this northern half of the dark continent, the Allies are doing amazing pioneering jobs which will open up this mysterious land to the outside world. It is a magnificent contribution to the Allied war effort and an equally great contribution to the progress of civilization.

During the 11 days it took me to reach Cairo from England by devious routes, I covered some 8,000 miles, mainly by air. Since I had already flown the Atlantic to reach Britain, it needs small imagination to see that if this war does nothing else, it is opening up the world to air transport.

I was in Lisbon the day Uncle Sam made his sensational landing on North Africa. The medley of peoples who go to make up the Portuguese capital's population these days—a weird mixture of Allied and Axis nationals who mingle in this neutral port—seethed with excitement.

There was little news beyond word that a big operation was under way, but the fact that the Allies had assumed the offensive in a new quarter was in itself a momentous development. It was tough to fly away from Lisbon without knowing the outcome of the first day's events, but we had the satisfaction of knowing the signs were propitious.

Our great air liner circled wide to avoid operations as we headed southward for West Africa and we gave Dakar a wide berth because more than one passenger plane has been fired on from this strategic region.

When we drove the nose of our ship into the heat of Equatorial Africa the next day, word of the offensive already had arrived. American soldiers and civilians in this particular port were exuberant.

News by Drums

Most astonishing, however, was the fact that the denizens of the surrounding jungles not only knew of the attack but that they got the news from their own sources. It seems fanciful as I write it, but the story of the operation on the far-away northern shore had been flashed southward by drums just as messages have been transmitted for hundreds of years.

Believe me, those drums can talk and I mean that almost literally. Drummers who begin training as tiny boys spend a life-time at it, and are able to impart meaning by tone as well as by a dot-dash system. I've been in the jungle when one of these drums started to talk through the stillness of night and it's an eerie, hypnotic sound which lingers in memory.

In connection with these messages, there is an interesting demonstration of the penetration and effectiveness of propaganda. Axis agents to the north had spread word the Germans were victorious and were advancing southward in Africa. At one place where I was stopping, hundreds of native laborers deserted their jobs and fled to the far jungles in terror. This undoubtedly was the result the enemy hoped to produce with the idea of hampering Allied transport and other operations.

As I proceeded eastward across Africa, a French military pilot and his crew who had fled from an airdrome east of Dakar landed their ship at a field where I was stopping and reported to American authorities. The plane was filled with maps and documents useful to the Allies.

The pilot, who was a captain in the French air force, continued on my transport to another headquarters where he conferred with high American officers.

The French captain finally came to where I was sitting in the transport and asked if I had a map of Northern Africa. When I produced one, he showed me the line of his flight from back of Dakar, and then pointing to various fronts where reverses are besetting the Boche, he held out his hands like jaws of a trap and exclaimed exultantly:

"We've got the Germans caught like that," and he brushed his hands together. That also seems to be the prevailing opinion in this vital war zone."

Axis Loses 485 Tanks in Africa

finds it too costly then he may attempt to get out—a sort of Dunkerque."

The slender, alert commander in chief, sunburned and handsome in his battle dress, exuded optimism but tempered it with caution. The present British and Allied problem is one chiefly of supply as the Libyan chase extends to the west, he remarked.

"We have advanced 400 miles in a week, and that's terrific," he said. "We were pushed back from Tobruk to the El Alamein position in a fortnight, I believe—it happened before I arrived—but when our push started we sent him back in one week, twice as fast.

"If anyone deserves the blitzkrieg title we do on that performance."

The advance to within 70 miles of Bengasi placed the eighth army 80 miles farther along Rommel's trail than had been reported the previous day.

As the ground troops approached Bengasi, bombers attacked the city and port from a low level and barges in the harbor were set afire, the communique said.

Six Axis transport planes were shot down by Allied fighters and at least six others were destroyed on the ground in the Bengasi area, the communique said. No Allied fighters were reported lost in these operations.

'Temporary Expedient'

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—Free and fighting Frenchmen had President Roosevelt's categorical assurance today that political arrangements made with Admiral Jean Darlan in North Africa were "only a temporary expedient," dictated by military necessity. In a statement obviously designed to allay mounting unrest over the part being played by Darlan, who was a Vichy collaborationist until he was captured by American troops, the President said the "present temporary arrangement" in North Africa was "justified solely by the stress of battle."

may be comforted by the knowledge that they are making more room in some tank car for oil for our war machines in Africa or to heat his home, or his neighbor's this winter, or for gasoline needed to carry a war worker to his job, or to take farm produce to market."

The cut is designed to save about 20,000 barrels of gasoline a day in the east. The current transition of commercial gasoline rations from the unlimited "S" to a specifically limited "T" ration book will save in addition an estimated 43,000 barrels daily.

Last week's order directing owners of many apartment houses, office buildings and other large structures to change from oil to other types of heating was expected to reduce the east's petroleum consumption another 9,000 barrels a day.

While these programs would cut eastern petroleum consumption an estimated 72,000 barrels daily, Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes declared a week ago that the daily saving should total 139,000 barrels.

Japanese Admit Loss of Battleship

November 14-15 were yet to be received.

Weighing against the Japanese admission of heavy losses, the frankest by Tokyo in the war thus far, however, was the U. S. navy's report that they were even greater.

In the series of engagements beginning November 13, but not counting the unreported details of the fight on the night of November 14-15, the navy's November 16 communique said the Japanese losses were:

One battleship sunk; 3 heavy cruisers sunk; 2 light cruisers sunk; 5 destroyers sunk; 8 transports sunk; 1 battleship damaged; 6 destroyers damaged; and 4 cargo transports destroyed.

Today's Japanese announcement as broadcast by Domei follows:

"Imperial headquarters announced at 3:30 p. m. today that imperial naval forces in the third Solomons' naval battle from November 12 to November 14 sank 8 enemy cruisers and 4 or 5 destroyers and heavily damaged 2 battleships, 3 cruisers and 3 or 4 destroyers.

The announcement reads:

"'Imperial naval units continuing hostilities since November 12 carried out a fierce attack on the enemy air base on Guadalcanal Island the night of November 13 and inflicted heavy damages on the airfield and its faclities.

"'On November 14, while escorting our transport fleet in the face of a fierce counterattack by enemy aircraft, Imperial naval forces encountered an enemy reinforcement fleet with two battleships and more than four large-size cruisers at a point northwest of the island and at night, after a heated encounter, destroyed the major part of the enemy auxiliary units and heavily damaged two large battleships, routing the enemy fleet in a southern direction.

"'Composite war results from November 12 to November 14 so far as are known and our losses and damages for the same period follow.

Five Cruisers Are Sunk

"'Firstly, losses and damages of enemy warships: sunk—8 cruisers, including 3 new type. Five of these were instantly sunk. Four or 5 destroyers. One transport. Heavily damaged—2 battleships; 3 cruisers; 3 or 4 destroyers; and 3 transports.

"'Secondly, losses of enemy aircraft—63 planes shot down and more than 10 (others) destroyed.

"'Thirdly, our losses and damages: one battleship sunk; another battleship damaged; 1 cruiser sunk; 3 destroyers sunk and 7 transports damaged. Thirty-two planes dived into the enemy and 9 (other) planes failed to return.'"

While the Imperial headquarters announcement gave no names the Tokyo radio earlier had broadcast a claim that the 35,000-ton U. S. Battleship North Carolina and the 33,400-ton Idaho "fled after receiving terrific damage at the hands of the Japanese navy" last Saturday night in the Solomons.

There has been no United States announcement or any other allied information that those two vessels were in the southwest Pacific.

The same broadcast had publicized the Imperial headquarters announcement in advance as one that would "not only reveal startling war results to discredit the U. S. navy, but will amount to telling the world that the Japanese naval victory was so overwhelming that United States attempts at a counteroffensive in the south Pacific are a thing of the past."

Chennault to Enlist

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 18 (AP)—The youngest son of Brigadier General Claire Chennault of "Flying Tiger" fame has enlisted in the Navy here, but his mother will have to sign his release because, the Navy said, it would be hard to reach his father "somewhere in China." Robert Kenneth Chennault, 17, of Waterproof, La., has three brothers in the air corps, one in the Navy and one in a defense training school in Atlanta. Born in Honolulu, Robert finished high school recently and married three months ago.

The boards further were told that in cases where men thus reclassified and needing no waiver were under probation, parole, or suspended release, they should ask "the proper civil authority" to surrender custody of the men "for the period of military service."

In another draft development, a critical shortage of physicists has been recognized by the War Manpower Commission and Selective Service, and the latter agency disclosed today new procedure for obtaining draft deferment for persons in that field.

A national committee has been set up with authority to investigate physicists whose deferment has been requested by a college or other employer on the ground that he has special training and skill and is a necessary man in his work.

If the committee agrees the man is necessary, it will endorse the appplication for his deferment and return it to the man's local board. The committee may appear if the local board nevertheless classifies the man as available for military service or for "assignment to work of national importance."

Selective Service said similar procedure would be followed in other scientific and specialized fields where critical shortages develop, and national committees will be set up in those fields.

Women Are Trained

The war industries are employing women arc welders in increasingly large numbers. To help meet this demand the Department of Education of the State of New York has authorized the Industrial School of Welding in Newburgh to train women in this field. The Industrial School has started registration of women from 18 to 40 years of age.

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—Stocks had no definite direction today although a number of market leaders were a little better supported after Tuesday's general decline.

Price variations were fractional as a rule, with steels, oils and a scattering of aircrafts and coppers holding modest gains near the fourth hour. Some industrial specialists and chemicals were a bit soft.

Volume decreased to small limits after fair activity at the opening.

Bonds and commodities were irregular.

In improved positions a good part of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas, Goodrich, United Aircraft, Boeing, American Telephone, International Nickel, Kennecott, Texas Co., Standard Oil (N.J.), Sears Roebuck, General Electric and Santa Fe. Dow Chemical slipped about 2 points and moderate declines were registered by Air Reduction, Westinghouse and Montgomery Ward.

In the curb losses were recorded by Creole Petroleum, Lake Shore Mines, American Cyanamid "B," and Electric Bond & Share. Aluminum of America gained some ground on odd lot dealings.

Ice House Burns Outside New Paltz

Jewitt's Building Is Total Loss; Fire Discovered in Early Morning

An ice house, owned by David F. Jewitt of New Paltz, was totally destroyed by fire early this morning. The building, the only ice house in that vicinity, was located just outside of New Paltz on the New Paltz-Kingston road.

According to George Ackert, fire chief of the New Paltz Fire Company, the fire started about 2:15 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Wells, a neighbor, spotted the blaze and quickly notified the fire company which raced to the scene of the fire but efforts to comb the flames were futile.

The fire chief announced that the fire had presumably started on the inside of the building and had proceeded to sweep towards the top of the building. Mr. Ackert further declared that no decision had been reached as yet as to the cause of the fire. An investigation is under way to determine the possible cause.

Although Mr. Jewitt had some insurance on his building, it was estimated that the damage was to the extent of about $5,000. The major part of the tools in the ill-fated building were saws and pipes and these were destroyed by the fire.

Although the glaring flames were bright enough for people to see the fire from distant points, the fire did not spread to any other buildings or homes. Sawdust on the floor and throughout the various rooms of the ice house was largely responsible for the quick destruction of the building.

Firemen Prevent Injury to Priest

Father Roth Is Assisted by Leverich and Maines

Except for the timely assistance of Deputy Fire Chief Fred M. Leverich and Fireman Wright Maines of the Kingston Fire Department, the Rev. Benjamin C. Roth, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church, might have sustained serious injury on Tuesday at the West Shore Depot.

Father Roth, who always marches with the inducted men leaving for training camp, was in the line of march yesterday and boarded the train with the 88 men at the railroad station. Father Roth, who was still on the train when it started, attempted to alight and fell and might have rolled under the wheels of the moving train but for the quick action of the two firemen. Father Roth suffered minor injuries to his legs.

Plan 16,000 Acres In Rope Plants

Use Vast Areas to Overcome Shortage of Fiber.

WASHINGTON.—In order to relieve a threatened war shortage of manila and other fibers used in rope and twine, caused by Japanese seizure of the normal supply sources, probably 16,000 acres will be planted to the manila fiber plant in Panama and Costa Rica, by the end of this year, the Office of War Information said.

The importance of the fibers to the war effort was described by the OWI announcement.

"Without them," it said, "we could neither fight nor eat. Without rope no warship could race to battle against the Nazis and Japs; no cargo ship cross the seas with tanks and guns for the armies fighting Hitler. They must have hundreds of millions of feet of rope.

"Without binder twine there would be famine in the midst of bumper crops, because the crops could not be harvested. The farmers who grow the food we eat must have hundreds of millions of feet of binder twine for their harvesting machines."

Manila fiber can be obtained from the abaca plants 18 months after they are planted and they reproduce themselves annually, the report said. Another and slightly inferior form of rope and twine fiber is sisal, which normally came from the East Indies, and the Combined Raw Materials board reported a doubling of the sisal plant acreage in Haiti.

A third fiber source is hemp, which can be grown in many parts of the United States. The department of agriculture planted thousands of acres of hemp this year in order to obtain seed with which to plant hundreds of thousands of acres next year.

Youth 'Likes Funerals' So Shoots His Sister

MILLERSBURG, OHIO.—Holmes county juvenile authorities said that Manuel Matt, 17, an Amish, had admitted shooting his sister and trying to poison a brother because he "likes funerals" and "just wanted to shoot somebody."

The sister, Sarah, told officers that she had antagonized her brother by trying to persuade him to join the Amish church. She was recovering from her wound.

Manuel will be committed to the state bureau of juvenile research at Columbus for 30 days' observation.

Ancient Dwellings Are Unearthed in England

LONDON.—Ancient pit dwellings of a type never before unearthed in England came to light recently as a result of war activities.

Mrs. Stuart Piggott, who described the find to the Royal Archeological society, had with her an amber necklace which she said was probably made about 1500 B. C.

A pit dwelling was a miniature house in which a corpse was encased. None had been discovered in Britain before though it was known this burial custom existed in Northern Europe in prehistoric times.

Old Silk Stockings Are Now Used for Bandages

PORTLAND, ORE.—An ingenious means of sending bandages to China is being conducted by the American Bureau for Medical Aid to China.

Women are asked to contribute old silk stockings. These are fumigated, then used as padding in shipments of other goods—thus saving cargo space.

With each 25 stockings which are unpacked at various Chinese points is found an illustrated folder, printed in English and Chinese, showing how the stockings may be used in bandaging various wounds.

'Ghost Ship' Has Prow Painted Like a Whale

CLEVELAND.—The coast guard station at Cleveland received a hurry-up call from a group of ore boats in Lake Erie about 18 miles off shore. The lookout on one of the freighters said he sighted a whale with a "harpoon sticking in it." Other freighters heard the call, moved closer and deck-hands exclaimed that a "ghost ship" was roaming the lakes. Coast guardsmen closed in. They found a sailboat, with its prow painted to resemble the gaping jaws of a monster whale, which had broken loose from its mooring.

O.P.A. Says Prosecution Of Violators to Be Made

It was announced today by the Office of Price Administration that the next phase of the compliance campaign in the Albany District would be that of legal enforcement of the provisions of the War Emergency Anti-Inflation Legislation passed by Congress. No phase of the program will be overlooked—motorists who misuse their gas rationing—gas stations that sell without receiving proper rations—all retailers who are not in compliance—manufactures and jobbers—all will be prosecuted if found in violation.

The great majority of business in the city, the district and the country at large are patriotically assisting the government in its efforts to combat inflation and to keep the cost of living down. There are, however, those who willfully violate the provisions of the law even in these crucial times.

It shall be the duty of the Legal Division of the Office of Price Administration to seek out and prosecute these violators to the full extent of the law.

Ernest Felago has been assigned to the Albany office as Acting Chief Investigator under the direction of George Meyers and James Carroll of the Legal Division of the Albany office.

The Office of Price Administration has been very much gratified at the almost universal cooperation of the business people of Albany in their effort to bring about voluntary compliance.

Desert Becomes Graveyard Of Rommel's Hopes for Victory in North Africa

By DON WHITEHEAD

En route to the western desert front, Libya, Nov. 17 (AP)—I have seen the graveyard of Rommel's hopes to conquer North Africa and it is a terrible sight to see.

Even this scene of death and destruction on the desert, however, is not as awesome as that of Britain's victorious Eighth Army giving chase to the retreating enemy who is not many miles ahead.

The roads to Poland, Belgium, France and Greece must have looked like those I saw today—except that this time it was the Germans who were on the run and the British who were advancing.

The Italian radio said this morning that Axis armies in North Africa were "advancing" to new positions. It was not funny, it was a rather pathetic thing to hear after seeing the tremendous number of British troops, tanks, guns and supplies moving up to the front in a line unbroken for miles and miles.

Transports moving along the coast road looked like a great brown snake writing across the desert floor through the littered wreckage of twisted, burned enemy tanks, planes and trucks. As far as I could see, dust swirled and billowed over the army on the move.

The sight made you feel warm inside with the knowledge that this time the Allies were going for the knockout and that there was stuff going up to do the job.

I came into the desert looking for the advance R. A. F. unit to which I am to report. But as yet, I am unable to catch up with it. It is always just ahead. Planes move into airdromes right behind the enemy withdrawal. That is how fast this advance is going right now.

I left Cairo yesterday with only a vague idea of where I was headed. In fact, no one could say definitely where the advance units were. They had moved since the last reports.

The plane that brought me up was a Blenheim with a glass-enclosed front and so I had a grandstand seat over the battle area where Rommel's defense was broken. The pilot was lean, lanky R. A. F. Flight Sergeant Peter Bartlett of Nottingham, England, a flying fool if I ever rode with one.

I am glad he is on our side.

We piled bed roll, typewriter and duffle bag into the plane and then stacked in a carton of American canned beer and groceries.

"It is a good idea to take some food along," I was told, "because we are moving fast and sometimes even battle rations may be slim. Take beer because the Germans have oiled the wells."

This is expensive because canned foods come high in this country with pork and beans at 40 cents a can, chocolate bars at 48 cents, soup 56 cents and beer at 40 cents.

I climbed into the nose of the ship and the yellow-haired kid headed across the green-checked fields of the Nile valley toward the brown desert sand dunes. The desert floor is criss-crossed with tracks of trucks and tanks in a crazy-quilt pattern.

We were flying about an hour when Pete turned the nose of the Blenheim down.

I thought we were going to plow into the sand. I looked back to see if anything were wrong. Pete grinned. Then he leveled off and skimmed over the desert in a ride I will remember as long as I live.

Christmas Seal For 1942 Designed By Dale Nichols

Dale Nichols, one of the outstanding younger American artists, designed the 1942 Christmas Seal, which goes on sale here November 23, as the means of supporting the work of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Association during the coming year.

Mr. Nichols joins a long line of distinguished American artists who have designed Christmas Seals for the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated associations throughout the 36 years Seals have been used to raise money to finance the anti-tuberculosis campaign.

The 1942 Seal is a typical example of Mr. Nichols' work. It features a red barn, which has been the center of design of many of his paintings. The seal shows a red barn and a white farmhouse in the background of a snow country scene. In the forground is a drift-lined road on which is shown an old-fashioned swell-front sleigh, drawn by two horses.

In discussing the design he used foa the Christmas Seal, Mr. Nichols says, "In all my work I strive to have my paintings radiate cleanliness and health. Therefore, I look upon my work in designing the 1942 Christmas Seal for the Ulster County Tuberculosis Association not as just another problem in design, but as an unusual privilege, in that this great institution constantly works toward those objectives."

Dale Nichols was born in 1904 in David City, Neb., and moved later with his family to Glenview, Ill. His painting of barns, he says, is ". . . due to living with them for 20 years."

"We had a large white barn on our farm and I helped fill it with hay and grain, fed the animals three times a day and served for, what seemed to me, 100 years as chambermaid to the horses and mules.

"But, fortunately for my art, those 20 years on the farm were the most intriguing of my life . . . when I began painting I turned naturally to painting farms and featuring red barns because, to me, they symbolize the life of America's farmers," he said.

He frequently painted actual barns—one, "The Sanley Farm," is still standing near Surprise, Neb. The barn which "modeled" for one of his most famous paintings, "The End of the Hunt," (now hanging in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York) is near Glenview, Ill.

Mr. Nichols can claim many sections of the country as home. In addition to David City and Glenview, he lived in Chicago for a number of years, where he studied art, and was Carnegie visiting professor and artist in residence as the University of Illinois during 1939-40.

He has traveled extensively in the United States and Mexico. He now spends his winters on a ranch near Tucson and his summers in Moose Pass, Alaska, where he recetly purchased a cabin and leased part of a mountain from the government.

His paintings are hung in many museums and private collections, including the Metropolitan Museum, the Art Institute of Chicago and the University of Illinois.

School Teacher Dies in Explosion In Pennsylvania

Canton, Pa., Nov. 18 (AP)—An explosion blew out the front and rear walls of a three-story brick business building in this northern Pennsylvania town of 2,500 early today, killing a pedestrian and causing a fire which destroyed the post office, a bank, two stores and several business offices.

Mrs. Kenneth Farmer, 27, a high school teacher, was crushed to death under falling mortar. A companion, Mrs. Gordon Lloyd, 30, was taken from the debris critically hurt.

The street was nearly deserted and no other person was injured.

Fire Chief John Keltz said he believed the explosion was caused by accumulated gas. He estimated damage at $100,000. Firemen of Elmira, N. Y., and four neighboring Pennsylvania communities helped to bring the fire under control.

County Volunteers Meet in Rosendale

Firemen Are Entertained at Monthly Session

Tuesday evening the members of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, meeting in Firemen's Hall in Rosendale, as the guests of the Rosendale and Tillson fire departments, were entertained by a play "Be Prepared" which was enacted by a group of boys and girls of Rosendale.

The play was written by Robert Shultis, sector warden of Rosendale, and directed by the Rev. Albert H. Shultis, coordinator of fire service of the O. C. D.

The play had originally been written to instruct the women of Rosendale in the steps to take in fighting incendiary bombs. The theme of the play centered around the home of the Richards family, who are shown at the rising of the curtain enjoying a quiet evening at home, which is interrupted by an air raid.

The family had been prepared in combatting incendiary bombs and their training in first aid methods had given them the courage and knowledge to save their home from destruction. The purpose of the play had been to ascertain how many women in the home were prepared to take care of themselves in case of an actual raid.

The meeting last night, which was the regular monthly session of the association, was attended by some 150 firemen from all sections of Ulster county.

Secretary Fred Harder reported that 46 members of the association were now in the armed service of the country. He also stated that the place of meeting in December would be announced later.

At the business meeting it was reported that rule 12 of the State War Council which prohibited vehicles from being driven more than 35 miles an hour did not apply to fire apparatus responding to an alarm. It was said the information had been forwarded to the association by Seth Cole of Catskill, attorney for the State Firemen's Association.

Following the meeting and entertainment, refreshments were served.

Boy Is Bitten

G. Warren Kias of 114 Wilson avenue, physical director at the Kingston High School, reported to the police department Tuesday afternoon that his son, Lee Warren, aged 2½ years, had been bitten by a dog. The wound was cauterized at the Kingston Hospital. Mr. Kias informed the police that the boy was playing with a neighbor's dog when he was bitten.

Supper Will Be Served

A cream chicken and hot biscuit supper will be served at Masonic Temple, Albany avenue, on Thursday, November 19, starting promptly at 5:30 o'clock. The supper will be given under auspices of the Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem and each lady attending the supper will be presented with a complimentary cookbook.

Red Cross Benefit

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—The football team of Brooklyn College and City College of New York played a 7-7 tie last Saturday, which failed to settle the so-called "amateur championship" of New York. So they have decided to play another game on Thanksgiving Day, with the entire receipts going to the Red Cross.

Big Crowd Expected

Massillon, O., Nov. 18 (AP) — A high school football game here Saturday will attract more fans than the average college contest. Twenty-two thousand persons will be packed in Massillon Stadium to see Canton McKinley try to upset the mighty Massillon Tigers.

Massillon has gone through 52 games without a defeat and McKinley hasn't beaten the Tigers since 1938. The two scholastic elevens have been rivals 47 years and Canton is conceded its best chance of winning in four years. Massillon, tied twice, hasn't lost a game since 1937. McKinley has lost one game this year.

Equal to Bears Here

Chicago, Nov. 18 (AP) — There's one league in which the Chicago Cardinal football team is battling its city rival Bears on even terms. It is in their special Navy pilot cadet recruiting drive being conducted under the direction of the naval aviation cadet selection board here.

Each team, acting as a recruiting agent, has signed up 10 future flyers. Their drive will end December 6.

May Surprise Teams

Chicago, Nov. 18 (AP)—J. Kyle Anderson, new basketball coach at the University of Chicago, says that maybe the Maroons might not fare as badly as they have the last two seasons in Western Conference competition. After winning their opening game against Illinois Tech last December 6, the Maroons failed to score a single victory in the remainder of the season, running their string of consecutive Western Conference losses to 31.

Anderson, who succeeds Capt. Nelson Norgren, who has rejoined the Army Air Force, said, "we've been working on what may turn out to be a few surprises this year."

All Because of a Bottle

Paola, Kas., Nov. 18 (AP)—The pop bottle that beaned Minneapolis Outfielder Ab Wright during a baseball game in Kansas City September 1 still is causing headaches.

Claude Wayman, 39-year-old Louisburg, Kas., farmer accused of the bottle throwing, has since been inducted into the army.

But Justice of the Peace T. J. Cummings doesn't know what to do. Missouri has asked for extradition, and Wayman is soldiering while under a $1,000 bond. The bondsmen are still liable, and the case is still on the books.

Wright has recovered. He's working in a McAlester, Okla., war plant.

May Ban Games

Wallace, Idaho, Nov. 18 (AP) — Sheriff A. J. McPhail may ban future Armistice Day football games between Wallace and Kellogg high schools.

He said that Robert Townsend, 18, died from a throat injury received in a fight after the game. Five other boys had broken hands, he said, and a sixth needed treatment for a scalp wound.

PRO ROOKIE OF YEAR

Johnson to Leave Athletics; Mack Praises Outfielder

Philadelphia Manager Says 'Indian Bob' Should Get Break With Some Contending Club

Philadelphia, Nov. 18 (AP)—Connie Mack and Big Bob Johnson, the Philadelphia Athletics' hard-slugging Indian outfielder, came to a peaceful parting of the ways today after ten long, and sometimes hard, years.

Connie announced that the pride of the A's will be traded at the Chicago major league meeting opening December 1, if a suitable deal can be arranged, and added:

"He deserves a chance to play on a pennant contender."

Johnson went home to Oregon to hunt and get a war plant job at the close of the 1942 season, announcing that he never again would play "with a team as poor as the last-place Athletics."

Connie replied then that the A's had first call and he either would play for the Athletics or not at all.

Announcing his changed decision, the 79-year-old manager commented:

"Bob has been very loyal. He has played fine ball on poor clubs and deserves a chance on a pennant contender. I want him to have that chace. Last year I believed we would have such a team; but we lost so many men the bottom fell out of the club.

"Bob has two or three good years left and he will be able to punch in a lot of runs for some other club."

Johnson, who will be 34 years old November 28, joined the Athletics in 1933 after four years with Portland in the Pacific coast league. He lined out 44 two-base hits, four triples and 21 homers for a .290 average during his first major league season. The next season he hit .307 and stayed slightly above or below that charmed mark for years.

Jimmy Dykes tried to hire him last spring, when he was a hold-out, but the White Sox had no success. The Indian played for Mack last season on a bonus contract based on attendance, and was openly disgruntled when he collected only one bonus.

How to cut the cost of Heating Your Home
AMERICA'S HOME HEATING EXPERT

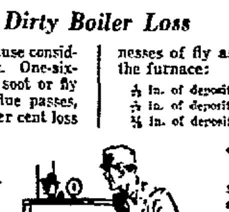
Dirty Boiler Loss

A DIRTY boiler will cause considerable heat loss. One-sixteenth of an inch of soot or fly ash in the fire-box, flue passes, etc., will cause a 13 per cent loss of heat. If the inside of the furnace were uniformly covered with one-sixteenth of an inch of fly ash, the loss would amount to 26 per cent.

Fly ash causes heat loss because it is five times more effective as an insulator than the best grade of asbestos.

Here is a table showing the heat loss due to various thicknesses of fly ash in and around the furnace:

1/32 in. of deposit causes 9.5% loss
1/16 in. of deposit causes 26.2% loss
1/8 in. of deposit causes 45.2% loss
3/16 in. of deposit causes 69% loss



Heating plants should be thoroughly cleaned by vacuum once a year. If your furnace has not been cleaned this year, you will waste money needlessly.

Get in touch with your local coal dealer and have him vacuum clean your furnace and you will immediately increase its efficiency. (13)

Rickey Will Tell World of Dodger Manager Thursday

Leo Durocher and Flock President Talk Over Matter for Hours; 'Lippy' Might Play

New York, Nov. 18 (AP) — It won't be long now until Leo Durocher, to say nothing of the rest of the baseball world, will know whether the manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers next season is to be Leo Durocher.

In fact, at exactly 2 p. m. tomorrow, Branch Rickey, the new Dodger president, will have a definite answer for Durocher and anxious Flatbush fans, as well as anyone else who might be interested.

Branch the brain and Leo the lip huddled for something like eight hours yesterday and worked out a number of problems, but the actual managerial assignment wasn't one of them.

Durocher, finding himself matched, if not over-matched, in the art of conversation, had little to say when the conference ended, but Rickey promised he would come to a decision tomorrow.

Perhaps the most significant development to come out of yesterday's conflab was an indication that Durocher might be asked to return to the active player list.

Praises Durocher

"I used to think he was a corking good shortstop," Rickey said in discussing the conference later, "and in my judgment he still is a good player, if he would only think so. That could be a part of the question before us."

Durocher, now 37, did not play at all last year—his fourth as Dodger skipper—and not much the year before. But questioned later, he declared: "Sure, I can play—if I have to."

Rickey admitted that one of the points under discussion was Leo's personality and his method of handling the sometimes rowdy Dodgers.

"I know Durocher," Rickey declared, "and that goes double. He knows me." The president continued:

A manager, either in the major leagues or the minors, needs to know some fundamental things. He needs to know the game. He needs to be sound in discipline . . . both for himself and the club. He needs to be industrious on the job and in this particular business that means rather constantly.

"I don't want to start with a manager and have things come up later that we will have to squabble over. I want to adjust everything before we start."

Phil Rabin Back With Opponents; Game at 9:15 P. M.

Allie Esposito Also Will Be in Lineup for Nutmegers; Karam Lauds Local's Chances

The 1942-43 wartime professional basketball season gets under way tonight at the municipal auditorium on Broadway when Manager "Turk" Karam's Kingston Recreations battle the newly organized Hartford Gems, new members of the American Basketball League. Game time is scheduled for 9:15 o'clock. A preliminary between the Bucs and Forsts is scheduled for 8:15 o'clock.

Despite the lack of manpower in virtually all sports, the Recreations again have come through with what looks like an evenly-balanced squad, headlined by Nick Shaback and Hagen Anderson, two of last year's favorites. Shaback and Anderson were the first players signed as Karam realized what a fine job they did here in 1941-42.

Hard Game Expected

Opposing the Gems tonight the Recreations will have to be at top strength as Manager Honey Russell's Nutmeg State aggregation has been active in a number of games already in preparation for the opening of the American Basketball League. For the last couple of weeks Karam also has been supervising his Recreations in serious workouts in New York and now comes forth with high praise for his members.

"Turk," who appeared here last season when Jim McNally bowed out as pilot, took over the reigns and proved to be the tonic for Kingston. After a poor New York State Basketball League showing, Karam's club switched to exhibition basketball and gave fans some of the best brand of basketball which has been seen in quite a spell. Karam is again satisfied with his charges and predicts that the Recs will be able to stand up against the best of teams.

This year the Recreations will operate with a seven-man squad which has been cut down due to the wartime factors. But in that small squad he has selected some of the finest professional talent on hand. Besides the well-known Shaback and Anderson, Karam has Irv Rosen, Herb Gershon, Howie Bollerman, Ace Goldstein and Jim Naughton. "This club could do well in any league," remarked Karam recently.

Hartford Is Powerful

With such outstanding stars as Phil Rabin, Allie Esposito, Jack McGuirk and Herman Knuppel, the Hartford club also is packed with power. Rabin needs no introduction to local fans. He formerly played with a local team. The same is true for Esposito who has been a familiar player in these parts. Rabin and Esposito are figured to pack the most power for the Gems. In addition to these two stalwarts Manager Russell has Knuppell, former Washington Brewer star; Bobby Holm, last year's scoring ace at Seton Hall; Jimmy White, ex-St. John's cager; Jack McGuirk, a local player last year, and Russell himself, who usually does a few minutes at a time. Russell is one of basketball's immortals and local fans will undoubtedly get a big kick when he brings his Gems onto the Broadway boards tonight.

Despite the threat of a fall off in attendance, the Recreation committee hopes to make a good stab at this sport for a couple of weeks at least to see if the attendance warrants further games. At present, there's every indication that professional basketball will continue here as long as the local fans back up the squad.

Cage Coach Hopes Rules Be Retained

Henry P. Iba Desires Baskets Stay Put

Stillwater, Okla., Nov. 18 (AP)—Most basketball coaches will tamper with rules at the drop of a chairman's gavel.

So it's surprising to learn that Henry P. Iba of basketball saturated Oklahoma A. and M. College wants the rule book status quoted for the duration. Shortage of material, either for remodelling the gymnasium or the team, makes innovation too difficult, he insists.

Iba especially hopes the baskets are kept at their present height. Proposals to boost the buckets have dribbled in repeatedly from coaches who feel tall players now have too much of an advantage. Push up the hoop, they argue, until even the tallest has to jump for it.

Aggie teams in the past often have been rapid but runty. This year they will have height supplied in one liberal chunk by a 7-foot, 214-pound freshman, Bob Kurland of St. Louis. Iba hopes the baskets stay right where they are so Kurland can continue to fan them with his ears.

a dozen destroyers, represented a major victory.

It was the first time he had used the word "major" in referring to any of the battles in the Pacific theatre.

Despite this crushing blow administered to a numerically superior Japanese fleet, the President said in his speech that a "gigantic job" remained to be done. He said battle lines stretching from Kiska to Murmansk and from Tunisia to Guadalcanal would lengthen as our forces advance.

Assailing "loose talk" and what he considered politically-inspired criticism of the war effort, the President said that persons without access to all the facts almost inevitably speak from guesswork.

"They do not know the facts," he asserted, "and, therefore, the value of their statements becomes greatly reduced. Nor, must we in the actual progress of the war, lend ears to the clamor of politics or to criticism from those who, as we know in our hearts, are actuated by political motives."

He said he himself had tried to keep politics out of the war but he confessed to making one mistake. That was in permitting announcement of the loss of an unidentified aircraft carrier in the Pacific late last month when the Japanese did not know her fate.

A great issue had been raised in Congress and elsewhere, the Chief Executive said, over suppression of news from fighting fronts, and he yielded to the clamor.

He said he did so partly because, if the sinking had been disclosed two or three weeks later, it would have been charged publicly that he had suppressed the news until after the election.

The President paid tribute to his formal naval aide, Rear Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan, who was killed in last week's battle. Callaghan was aboard the cruiser San Francisco which engaged and hit three enemy vessels, including a battleship, sinking one of them.

Express Employes Indicted

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—Five Railway Express employes have been indicted in the Bronx on charges of criminally receiving stolen goods. The charges grew out of complaints by recent inductees that packages they mailed home from camp had been tampered with. The complaints, received by Mayor La Guardia and Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine, said the packages arrived home with some articles missing. The five employes were held in $500 bail each.

Freeman Photo

Members of Troops 1, 3, 9, 10 and 11, of the Boy Scouts, are taking an active part today in another community campaign, the 36th annual Christmas Seal Sale of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, by putting up posters and placards throughout Kingston, according to Edward M. Huben, chairman of the publicity committee. "We are helping to save lives this time," said Chester Mohr, of Troop 9, as he gathered up his supply at the office of the association. "This makes the sixth drive we have taken part in since we have entered the war. We have helped save rubber, aluminum, and scrap material, but helping to save lives is something." Scouts who are aiding the association, left to right, are: Chester Mohr, Donald Koeppen, Neumont Culver and Robert Conlon.

civilian workers contributing to the cause? I wish I could tell you in detail, but that would give the Boche useful information. Broadly, one can say these Allied men are daring diseases of the jungle, enduring terrible heat and other hardships to open up and maintain transport routes over which pour men and supplies for the Allies' needs throughout Northern Africa and the Middle East.

Magnificent Contribution

In many places, over endless reaches of this northern half of the dark continent, the Allies are doing amazing pioneering jobs which will open up this mysterious land to the outside world. It is a magnificent contribution to the Allied war effort and an equally great contribution to the progress of civilization.

During the 11 days it took me to reach Cairo from England by devious routes, I covered some 8,000 miles, mainly by air. Since I had already flown the Atlantic to reach Britain, it needs small imagination to see that if this war does nothing else, it is opening up the world to air transport.

I was in Lisbon the day Uncle Sam made his sensational landing on North Africa. The medley of peoples who go to make up the Portuguese capital's population these days—a weird mixture of Allied and Axis nationals who mingle in this neutral port—seethed with excitement.

There was little news beyond word that a big operation was under way, but the fact that the Allies had assumed the offensive in a new quarter was in itself a momentous development. It was tough to fly away from Lisbon without knowing the outcome of the first day's events, but we had the satisfaction of knowing the signs were propitious.

Our great air liner circled wide to avoid operations as we headed southward for West Africa and we gave Dakar a wide berth because more than one passenger plane has been fired on from this strategic region.

When we drove the nose of our ship into the heat of Equatorial Africa the next day, word of the offensive already had arrived. American soldiers and civilians in this particular port were exuberant.

News by Drums

Most astonishing, however, was the fact that the denizens of the surrounding jungles not only knew of the attack but that they got the news from their own sources. It seems fanciful as I write it, but the story of the operation on the far-away northern shore had been flashed southward by drums just as messages have been transmitted for hundreds of years.

Believe me, those drums can talk and I mean that almost literally. Drummers who begin training as tiny boys spend a life-time at it, and are able to impart meaning by tone as well as by a dot-dash system. I've been in the jungle when one of these drums started to talk through the stillness of night and it's an eerie, hypnotic sound which lingers in memory.

In connection with these messages, there is an interesting demonstration of the penetration and effectiveness of propaganda. Axis agents to the north had spread word the Germans were victorious and were advancing southward in Africa. At one place where I was stopping, hundreds of native laborers deserted their jobs and fled to the far jungles in terror. This undoubtedly was the result the enemy hoped to produce with the idea of hampering Allied transport and other operations.

As I proceeded eastward across Africa, a French military pilot and his crew who had fled from an airdrome east of Dakar landed their ship at a field where I was stopping and reported to American authorities. The plane was filled with maps and documents useful to the Allies.

The pilot, who was a captain in the French air force, continued on my transport to another headquarters where he conferred with high American officers.

The French captain finally came to where I was sitting in the transport and asked if I had a map of Northern Africa. When I produced one, he showed me the line of his flight from back of Dakar, and then pointing to various fronts where reverses are besetting the Boche, he held out his hands like jaws of a trap and exclaimed exultantly:

"We've got the Germans caught like that," and he brushed his hands together. That also seems to be the prevailing opinion in this vital war zone."

finds it too costly then he may attempt to get out—a sort of Dunkerque."

The slender, alert commander in chief, sunburned and handsome in his battle dress, exuded optimism but tempered it with caution. The present British and Allied problem is one chiefly of supply as the Libyan chase extends to the west, he remarked.

"We have advanced 400 miles in a week, and that's terrific," he said. "We were pushed back from Tobruk to the El Alamein position in a fortnight, I believe—it happened before I arrived—but when our push started we sent him back in one week, twice as fast.

"If anyone deserves the blitzkrieg title we do on that performance."

The advance to within 70 miles of Bengasi placed the eighth army 80 miles farther along Rommel's trail than had been reported the previous day.

As the ground troops approached Bengasi, bombers attacked the city and port from a low level and barges in the harbor were set afire, the communique said.

Six Axis transport planes were shot down by Allied fighters and at least six others were destroyed on the ground in the Bengasi area, the communique said. No Allied fighters were reported lost in these operations.

'Temporary Expedient'

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—Free and fighting Frenchmen had President Roosevelt's categorical assurance today that political arrangements made with Admiral Jean Darlan in North Africa were "only a temporary expedient," dictated by military necessity. In a statement obviously designed to allay mounting unrest over the part being played by Darlan, who was a Vichy collaborationist until he was captured by American troops, the President said the "present temporary arrangement" in North Africa was "justified solely by the stress of battle."

Japanese Admit Loss of Battleship

November 14-15 were yet to be received.

Weighing against the Japanese admission of heavy losses, the frankest by Tokyo in the war thus far, however, was the U. S. navy's report that they were even greater.

In the series of engagements beginning November 13, but not counting the unreported details of the fight on the night of November 14-15, the navy's November 16 communique said the Japanese losses were:

One battleship sunk; 3 heavy cruisers sunk; 2 light cruisers sunk; 5 destroyers sunk; 8 transports sunk; 1 battleship damaged; 6 destroyers damaged; and 4 cargo transports destroyed.

Today's Japanese announcement as broadcast by Domei follows:

"Imperial headquarters announced at 3:30 p. m. today that imperial naval forces in the third Solomons' naval battle from November 12 to November 14 sank 8 enemy cruisers and 4 or 5 destroyers and heavily damaged 2 battleships, 3 cruisers and 3 or 4 destroyers.

The announcement reads:

"'Imperial naval units continuing hostilities since November 12 carried out a fierce attack on the enemy air base on Guadalcanal Island the night of November 13 and inflicted heavy damages on the airfield and its facilities.

"'On November 14, while escorting our transport fleet in the face of a fierce counterattack by enemy aircraft, Imperial naval forces encountered an enemy reinforcement fleet with two battleships and more than four large-size cruisers at a point northwest of the island and at night, after a heated encounter, destroyed the major part of the enemy auxiliary units and heavily damaged two large battleships, routing the enemy fleet in a southern direction.

"'Composite war results from November 12 to November 14 so far as are known and our losses and damages for the same period follow.

Five Cruisers Are Sunk

"'Firstly, losses and damages of enemy warships: sunk—8 cruisers, including 3 new type. Five of these were instantly sunk. Four or 5 destroyers. One transport. Heavily damaged—2 battleships; 3 cruisers; 3 or 4 destroyers; and 3 transports.

"'Secondly, losses of enemy aircraft—63 planes shot down and more than 10 (others) destroyed.

"'Thirdly, our losses and damages: one battleship sunk; another battleship damaged; 1 cruiser sunk; 3 destroyers sunk and 7 transports damaged. Thirty-two planes dived into the enemy and 9 (other) planes failed to return.'"

While the Imperial headquarters announcement gave no names the Tokyo radio earlier had broadcast a claim that the 35,000-ton U. S. Battleship North Carolina and the 33,400-ton Idaho "fled after receiving terrific damage at the hands of the Japanese navy" last Saturday night in the Solomons.

There has been no United States announcement or any other allied information that those two vessels were in the southwest Pacific.

The same broadcast had publicized the Imperial headquarters announcement in advance as one that would "not only reveal startling war results to discredit the U. S. navy, but will amount to telling the world that the Japanese naval victory was so overwhelming that United States attempts at a counteroffensive in the south Pacific are a thing of the past."

Chennault to Enlist

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 18 (AP)—The youngest son of Brigadier General Claire Chennault of "Flying Tiger" fame has enlisted in the Navy here, but his mother will have to sign his release because, the Navy said, it would be hard to reach his father "somewhere in China." Robert Kenneth Chennault, 17, of Waterproof, La., has three brothers in the air corps, one in the Navy and one in a defense training school in Atlanta. Born in Honolulu, Robert finished high school recently and married three months ago.

may be comforted by the knowledge that they are making more room in some tank car for oil for our war machines in Africa or to heat his home, or his neighbor's this winter, or for gasoline needed to carry a war worker to his job, or to take farm produce to market."

The cut is designed to save about 20,000 barrels of gasoline a day in the east. The current transition of commercial gasoline stations from the unlimited "S" to a specifically limited "T" ration book will save in addition an estimated 43,000 barrels daily.

Last week's order directing owners of many apartment houses, office buildings and other large structures to change from oil to other types of heating was expected to reduce the east's petroleum consumption another 9,000 barrels a day.

order their induction if the army grants the waivers.

The boards further were told that in cases where men thus reclassified and needing no waiver were under probation, parole, or suspended release, they should ask "the proper civil authority" to surrender custody of the men "for the period of military service."

In another draft development, a critical shortage of physicists has been recognized by the War Manpower Commission and Selective Service, and the latter agency disclosed today new procedure for obtaining draft deferment for persons in that field.

A national committee has been set up with authority to investigate physicists whose deferment has been requested by a college or other employer on the ground that he has special training and skill and is a necessary man in his work.

If the committee agrees the man is necessary, it will endorse the appplication for his deferment and return it to the man's local board. The committee may appear if the local board nevertheless classifies the man as available for military service or for "assignment to work of national importance."

Selective Service said similar procedure would be followed in other scientific and specialized fields where critical shortages develop, and national committees will be set up in those fields.

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—Stocks had no definite direction today although a number of market leaders were a little better supported after Tuesday's general decline.

Price variations were fractional as a rule, with steels, oils and a scattering of aircrafts and coppers holding modest gains near the fourth hour. Some industrial specialists and chemicals were a bit soft.

Volume decreased to small limits after fair activity at the opening.

Many market followers with tentative buying ideas again seemed inclined to withhold orders as they weighed the chances for a further corrective reaction from recently established peak levels.

Bonds and commodities were irregular.

In improved positions a good part of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas, Goodrich, United Aircraft, Boeing, American Telephone, International Nickel, Kennecott, Texas Co., Standard Oil (N.J.), Sears Roebuck, General Electric and Santa Fe. Dow Chemical slipped about 2 points and moderate declines were registered by Air Reduction, Westinghouse and Montgomery Ward.

In the curb losses were recorded by Creole Petroleum, Lake Shore Mines, American Cyanamid "B," and Electric Bond & Share. Aluminum of America gained some ground on odd lot dealings.

Ice House Burns Outside New Paltz

Jewitt's Building Is Total Loss; Fire Discovered in Early Morning

An ice house, owned by David F. Jewitt of New Paltz, was totally destroyed by fire early this morning. The building, the only ice house in that vicinity, was located just outside of New Paltz on the New Paltz-Kingston road.

According to George Ackert, fire chief of the New Paltz Fire Company, the fire started about 2:15 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Wells, a neighbor, spotted the blaze and quickly notified the fire company which raced to the scene of the fire but efforts to combat the flames were futile.

The fire chief announced that the fire had presumably started on the inside of the building and had proceeded to sweep towards the top of the building. Mr. Ackert further declared that no decision had been reached as yet as to the cause of the fire. An investigation is under way to determine the possible cause.

Although Mr. Jewitt had some insurance on his building, it was estimated that the damage was to the extent of about $5,000. The major part of the tools in the ill-fated building were saws and pipes and these were destroyed by the fire.

Although the glaring flames were bright enough for people to see the fire from distant points, the fire did not spread to any other buildings or homes. Sawdust on the floor and throughout the various rooms of the ice house was largely responsible for the quick destruction of the building.

Firemen Prevent Injury to Priest

Father Roth Is Assisted by Leverich and Maines

Except for the timely assistance of Deputy Fire Chief Fred M. Leverich and Fireman Wright Maines of the Kingston Fire Department, the Rev. Benjamin C. Roth, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church, might have sustained serious injury on Tuesday at the West Shore Depot.

Father Roth, who always marches with the inducted men leaving for training camp, was in the line of march yesterday and boarded the train with the 88 men at the railroad station. Father Roth, who was still on the train when it started, attempted to alight and fell and might have rolled under the wheels of the moving train but for the quick action of the two firemen. Father Roth suffered minor injuries to his legs.
